Expect Board To Take Action On Mass Transit

The Schaumburg Village Board is expected to take action next week supporting a mass transit district for the six northeastern Illinois counties, minus the City of Chicago.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher Tuesday asked the board to pass a resolution supporting the pending Illinois House Bill 4362, which provides for a mass transit district including all the six counties except Chicago. Atcher called for this bill, instead of the alternate House Bill 4313, which would form a similar district, including the City of Chicago.

Another suburban mayor, Howell J. Holloman of Lombard, urged all suburban communities to take such action earlier this week.

H.B. 4313 would "create a mass transportation district in which we would have no representation, and set up a board over which we would have practically no authority, and a taxing district to tax us," said Atcher.

THAT BILL PROVIDES for a three-man board to operate the district, with one representative chosen by Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley, a second chosen by Gov. Richard Ogilvie, and the third chosen by the two together.

Mayor Holloman supports a measure for a district excluding Chicago and having a nine-member board of directors, none of which would be named by Daley.

Atcher's proposed resolution for the Schaumburg Village Board did not specify the number of directors, but did urge adherence to the one-man, one-vote philosophy. It also specified that no village funds should be diverted from county, state or federal sources to create the district. A further point calls for saving existing modes of public transportation.

The two bills before the house are to be acted upon this fall, said Atcher. Enactment of the one eliminating Chicago from the district would "put us on even footing" with Chicago in applications for funding for transportation districts, he said.

ATCHER CITED recent cases involving Arlington Heights and Roselle, when he said those communities applied for mass transit funds to improve railroad facilities at the same time the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) applied for funds.

The two suburbs "got dumped on their own because the CTA was in at the same time" and the CTA got the available money, said Atcher.

A number of trustees had questions on the two bills. Herb Aigner asked what would happen to existing districts should the large one be formed. James Guthrie said he was not familiar with either bill, and wanted to study them.

Atcher agreed to invite the chairman of the six-county commission supporting H.B. 4362 to next week's board meeting to answer those and other questions before a vote is taken.

The six counties are suburban Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will.

Fishing Derby At Atcher Pool

"Fishermen, bait your hooks," will be the call Saturday afternoon as the Schaumburg Park District starts its second annual fishing derby at the Atcher Pool, 700 S. Springingsguth Rd.

The week-long fishing event is open to persons of all ages, said Jeff Fox, the district's superintendent of recreation. He said fishing hours on this weekend and Oct. 21 and 22 will be from 1 to 6 p.m.

Weekday fishing hours will last from 4 to 6 p.m.

The park district plans to stock the pool with a variety of fish this week. The district will charge adult anglers $1, while youngsters will be charged 75 cents.

Fox said the district has imposed a limit of two fish per person.

Salaries To Board Today

The long, frequently frustrating negotiations between the Dist. 211 Board of Education and teachers ended Tuesday night, with relief, but little rejoicing, on both sides.

The talks, which began in February, ended when the negotiators for the board and the Dist. 211 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, signed a tentative agreement on a new salary scale.

The agreement will provide for increases on the paychecks for all the district's teachers. The base pay will increase from $8,300 to $8,600 and the pay for teachers with more experience and education will increase on the same scale in effect last year.

The one teacher in the district at the top of the scale will move from $17,638 to $18,275.

The contract will be submitted to the full school board for ratification tonight and to the teachers next week.

ASSUMING THE contract is ratified by both sides, the two sides will take a breather before beginning talks in February for the 1973-74 contract.

The final contract which will be submitted for approval is a combination of compromises, with major ground yielded by the school board on the issue of working conditions and concessions made by the teachers on salaries and fringe benefits.

The agreement to include working conditions in this contract, and to provide for negotiation on all other working conditions next year, may well be the most significant part of the contract.

Talks deadlocked early in the bargaining when the board refused to place any guarantees on working conditions in the contract. The board changed that position after a mass meeting of the teachers in August expressed support for the association position in asking for contract guarantees.

As a result, the teachers won guarantees on evaluation and transfer policies and can negotiate for class size guarantees next year. Association officials, following the settlement, expressed the belief that next year's negotiations will take full advantage of the newly-won ability to bargain working conditions.

THE ASSOCIATION leaders, however, are likely to have the most trouble convincing their members that the salary agreement, which does not change the index rewarding experienced teachers and does not provide for raises for extra duty jobs, is a victory.

As the final tentative agreement was signed Tuesday, several spectators muttered that they would vote against the settlement because the index had not been changed to provide more substantial raises for experienced teachers.

"It may not mean anything, but I'll cast my no vote," said the woman teacher who has sat through a number of bargaining meetings.

Association leaders were sure, how-

Insurance On Flooding OKd By HUD

Subsidized flood insurance for residents of Schaumburg has been approved by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Authorization for the rates was announced Tuesday night by John Coste, village administrator, who said the insurance is to be available as of Friday to residents anywhere in the village designated as "an area of special flood hazards."

Coste and Mayor Robert O. Atcher also told of steps seeking federal reimbursement of village expenditures for flood problems on public properties. The village is going to apply for compensation through the regional office of the Federal Disaster Assistance Program.

Approval for sale of federal flood insurance at subsidized rates was confirmed in a letter from George K. Bernstein, federal insurance administrator in HUD's Federal Insurance Administration.

THE SUBSIDIZED insurance is to be available only for structures existing as of Friday. Not eligible for the coverage, for the time being, will be structures in which construction or substantial improvement begins after Friday.

The phrase "emergency basis" refers to the insurance administration not yet having specific locations for flood hazard areas, explained Coste.

Those structures constructed or improved after Friday and located within special hazard areas also will be eligible for the insurance, said Bernstein. But they will have to pay the full, non-subsidized rates.

THE COVERAGE IS available under the National Flood Insurance program, which sets rate structures and limits coverage. Local servicing agent for the program is State Farm Fire & Casualty Co., 2309 E. Oakland Ave., Bloomingdale, but property owners may purchase the insurance from any licensed broker. The brokers may obtain forms and information from State Farm.

The village submitted a flood plain map with its application for the program, said Coste, but he added "it may take quite some time to determine who is in a flood plain and who isn't."

Stressing that individual property owners still must arrange for the insurance, and pay the reduced premiums, Mayor Robert O. Atcher noted the village "didn't have to change anything to meet the standards" to qualify for the program.

THE REIMBURSEMENT program applies strictly to village expenses and not to private costs Mayor Atcher noted.

If the village application for reimbursement is approved, the village will be paid the cost of man hours, materials and equipment for such work as pumping out the water which flooded Schaumburg Township Public Library Aug. 25. Also to be reimbursed would be the cost of rebuilding road shoulders which washed out in rains the same date, Atcher said.

To qualify for the reimbursement, the village appointed Coste as village representative to file a claim.

State and federal inspectors then will be sent to the village to examine supportive documents for the claim, and inspect locations where work was done.

Court Suit Is Entered Against Paddock Family

Three minority stockholders of The Paddock Corporation have filed suit in U.S. District Court charging three members of the Paddock family with "fraudulently inducing" them to invest $920,000 in the company in 1971.

The Paddock Corporation is a holding company for Paddock Publications Inc., Arlington Heights, publishers of The Herald and eight other Northwest suburban daily newspapers, and Paddock Circle Newspapers Inc., Libertyville, publishers of seven weekly newspapers in Lake County.

The suit was filed by Robert K. Burns of Chicago, a professor of business at University of Chicago; John R. Malone of Park Forest, a newspaper consultant; and George M. Hilgendorf of Winnetka, an attorney. Malone and Hilgendorf are former officers of the corporation.

Their complaint names Stuart R. Paddock Jr., Robert Y. Paddock, their sister Margie S. Flanders and Andrew Lamb, corporate treasurer. It alleges that the Paddocks "made representations and agreements which were false, untrue and fraudulent" in order to secure the investments. The plaintiffs charge that the alleged agreement included promises of revision in corporate and management structure s well as assurances that all three plaintiffs "would occupy certain important offices and positions with the company."

Burns, Hilgendorf and Malone presently control approximately 23.6 per cent of the corporation voting stock. An additional 23.4 per cent is held by other minority stockholders with approximately 53 per cent controlled by the Paddock family.

The suit seeks $500,000 in punitive damages for each of the plaintiffs and asks for appointment of a new board of directors.

Stuart R. Paddock Jr., president of the corporation, said, "It is our judgment, and that of counsel, that the suit is without merit in every detail. It will be aggressively defended, and we are confident of a favorable outcome."

DUCTWORK (ABOVE), in a new pollution control system overheated and ignited insulation materials during testing yesterday at the Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. plant, 901 Chase Ave., Elk Grove Village. Company employes helped control the blaze by dropping dry chemicals into the four-foot wide duct system.

Pollution Control System Causes Fire

Testing of a new pollution control system set off a fire yesterday at the Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. plant, 901 Chase Ave., Elk Grove Village, when a ventilating fan failed and the system overheated.

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said dry chemicals and some water were used to fight the blaze.

Fourteen pieces of equipment from the village, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect responded to the fire at the plant, and additional fire engines from Schaumburg and Des Plaines stood by at Elk Grove Village fire stations. All off-duty Elk Grove Village firemen were called back to work.

The fire was controlled, and no employes were evacuated from the building.

Anthony Jordan, Magnet Wire executive vice president, said the section where the fire occurred had been closed down during the testing in case there was trouble, and the rest of the plant was in full operation.

He said the anti-pollution device ran well for about 10 minutes after it was started before the ventilating fan failed and materials in the duct caught fire. He said the fire was controlled by the workers and didn't understand why so much firefighting equipment was called out.

Al Collier, quality controller for Magnet Wire, said, "It (the fire) was just like getting a fire in the ashes of a furnace at home. There is no danger as long as the fire is confined."

Hulett said his main concern was that the heat was so intense it might collapse the four-foot wide duct work.

Testing of the equipment may continue for the next few weeks in an effort to put the $500,000 system into operation. The equipment has been designed to eliminate 95 per cent of the odor-producing phenolic compounds emitted by the plant.

Responds To Understaffing Charge

Atcher, Cahill Disagree On Building Department

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher responded Tuesday night to charges by the village building commissioner that the building department is understaffed for the amount of construction under way.

Atcher said neither the commissioner, Hugh Cahill, nor The Herald reporter who quoted Cahill were in the village between 1968 and 1970 "and they haven't the slightest idea of what they were presenting as facts."

Cahill who was hired as village engineer in August 1970 and appointed to the building department that fall, said the village had only one building inspector and a director of public works that year. The story also said the village made large strides in increasing its building staff since then, but has not kept pace with construction.

The building department was not established until 1971, said Atcher. Prior to then it was part of the public works department.

BUT MORE than one person conducted building inspections, the mayor said.

Naming village employes in other departments who conducted inspections, such as the chief of police, Atcher said eight men made inspections in 1968 and 1969, nine did so in 1970 and 11 did so in 1971.

"This what one of our employes called one man," said Atcher.

The mayor said he was speaking because he "thought it best to pass along the facts."

In The Herald story, published Tuesday, Cahill said the village currently had a total of six inspectors plus a building commissioner, assistant building commissioner and a plan examiner. He said he is so swamped with work he has difficulty administrating the office.

Atcher was contacted twice before the story was published, and declined to comment then on Caheill's assessment of staffing. He did send work through a spokesman he would review the size and adequacy of the department.

Salary Pact Goes To Board

ever, that they could convince the teachers to endorse the contract "when they see what other contracts look like." A representative of the Illinois Education Association, the state-wide teacher organization, agreed, saying, "Not many districts are getting any more money than this."

Most observers agreed the association leaders will sell the package, even if some teachers are unhappy with the amount of money it contains. The final agreement, is, after all, a proposal from the association and, as the IEA representative said, "They'd better sell it. They have nowhere else to go."

So, if predictions hold true, the marathon bargaining on the 1972-73 contract for Dist. 211 will end next week. As soon as the district's business office can get the new payroll made up, teachers will receive their raises retroactively.

Then both sides can begin thinking of the 1973-74 contract.

Counseling Units Seek Improvements

Representatives from youth counseling services throughout the Northwest suburbs are planning to coordinate their operations to provide better service to their clients.

In a meeting held yesterday at Elk Grove Village's Community Service Farmhouse, representatives from Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, Elk Grove Township, Schaumburg Township, and Arlington Heights discussed several ideas for coordinating programs.

Among the ideas discussed were:

—publishing a directory of agencies which would outline the programs and services of each agency.

—establishing a central switchboard to provide referral service to all agencies.

—a central switchboard which would make appointments for all agencies.

—Alexian Brothers Medical Center expanding its services for treating drug problems, especially in the handling of overdose cases.

—establishing contact with the Cook County Sheriff's Police and the Illinois Department of Corrections to include these organizations in local youth programs.

No action was taken at the meeting. It was decided to hold another meeting on Oct. 24. An effort will be made to get representatives from other organizations to the second meeting.

It'll Be A Wet One Come Election Day In Schaumburg

It is good news and bad news time for liquor license holders in the Village of Schaumburg. But for voters who also drink alcoholic beverages, the news is only good.

The Schaumburg Village Board, Tuesday, took the first step to permit sale of alcoholic beverages in the village Nov. 7, election day. By resolution, the board directed its attorney to prepare an amendment to village ordinances permitting such sales.

It will be the first election day in the village when bars and taverns have not closed down, and restaurants serving liquor have not had to lock up their bar cash registers.

But the one-day's proceeds may look small to the license holders when they examine their notices of licensing fees for 1973. The board also took the first step Tuesday for an across-the-bar increase of 33 per cent in liquor license fees.

Village counsel also was instructed to prepare an amendment with the new fee rates.

PROPOSED INCREASES for specific licenses are:

Class A, package goods, or Class B, for consumption on the premises, now $750, to be raised to $1,000.

Class C, a combination of Classes A and B, now $925, to be raised to $1,300.

Class E, wine and beer packaged goods, and Class F, for consumption of wine and beer on the premises, now $375, to be raised to $500.

Class H, a combination of Classes E and F, now $500, to be raised to $625.

THE FEE for a one-day license, $22.50, will not be changed. Several officials commented "it's always waived anyway," in reference to the fact such licenses generally are requested by civic groups for fund raising events. Also unchanged will be the fee for a non-profit club license, created when International Village apartments was considering serving liquor in its club house. The fee, $300, never has been charged because such licenses never have been issued.

In announcing the new fees, Mayor Robert O. Atcher said Village Mgr. John Coste had surveyed surrounding communities, and found Schaumburg "considerably under most neighbors" in its fee schedule.

Bilingual Education System

Program Making Headway

by MARY HOULIHAN

Going to school in a different country and learning in a language other than one's native tongue is usually not much of a problem for most children. According to one expert, it takes only a few months before a child whose native language is not English begins to catch up to learning on an equal basis with his peers.

This is because the adjustment lies not in how smart a child is but in whether he or she feels secure in his native culture despite the fact that he is living in a different country, experts say.

For those children who are unsure of themselves and feel inferior because they are different, however, learning in a different language can be upsetting. Most schools do little to encourage the child in anything but English. Discouraged from continuing in his native language and customs, the child has problems adjusting socially and, many times, just gives up and drops out.

Because of the many problems encountered by the foreign speaking child, the State of Illinois two years ago embarked on a voluntary bilingual education program. The program was established not only to help youngsters learn to speak English, but also to help the child with two languages to function independently in both languages.

BECAUSE AT many schools in the state as much as 10 to 20 per cent of the student body is Spanish-speaking, the decision was made to start the program first with Spanish-speaking children. This group was also one of those that found it hardest to adjust to learning in traditional educational programs.

As Maria Medina Swanson, director of the new bilingual education service center recently established in Mount Prospect, explained, "the schools themselves have traditionally belittled their Spanish culture feeling that the Anglo culture was superior. So just being in the schools, the kids would get the feeling of inferiority."

Also, Mrs. Swanson said, the school system often was not able to provide the Sapnish-speaking child with programs that helped him achieve at grade level.

A CHILD BEGINS learning long before he comes to school, according to the experts. By the time he is 5 years old, he has mastered practically the entire sound system and much of the grammatical structure of his native language. His language already reflects a set of values tied to a particular group, to a way of thinking, feeling and acting, they say.

"These are strengths to build upon rather than handicaps to successful learning," Mrs. Swanson explained. "By using his native language for classroom instruction, the child is allowed to continue uninterruptedly from home to school," she said.

The bilingual program stresses the use of the native language in teaching.

The most important prerequisite for state approval of any school program depends on how the bilingual aspect is integrated with the rest of the school program, so that the same concepts are taught in both English and Spanish classes at the same time. This allows the child to make immediate progress in continuing learning rather than postponing development until a new language has been acquired.

THE SCHEDULE usually works out with the child spending part of the day in English-speaking classes and part in classes conducted by special bilingual, bi-cultural teachers.

Since the bilingual program was established two years ago, the number of schools using the program has grown from five to 22. "The numbers are growing," Mrs. Swanson said. "People are finally realizing the importance of this kind of program."

Shatkus Named Principal At Dooley School

A teacher with more than six year's experience was appointed the new principal at the Thomas Dooley School in Elementary School Dist. 54 recently.

The district's board of education announced that William Shatkus will take over the position formerly held by Frank Tavano who resigned to become superintendent of the elementary schools in Spring Grove, Ill.

Shatkus, in addition to teaching at Dooley, has also been a member of the district's curriculum committee for several years. He has been the assistant principal at Dooley for the past 18 months.

He received his bachelor's degrees from Illinois Teachers' College and his masters from Northern Illinois University.

Shatkus and his family reside in Elgin.

"HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE TO LEARN TO PLAY A MUSICAL INSTRUMENT?"

When we are asked this question we sometimes compare it to, "How high is up?" One of our teachers usually answers with, "Two lifetimes!" when asked, and that certainly is true if we think in terms of absolute mastery of an instrument.

On the other hand, our students can usually play simple melodies in a few months. Outside of music's mathematical precision this is perhaps it.. greatest charm . . . no matter how competent one becomes there are always more musical depths to explore.

This is why each of our students is required to learn music theory as well as technique. We want them to understand what they are playing while they are playing it, thereby insuring a lifetime of enjoyment from music rather than a temporary lifeless ritual.

Here is a rule of thumb outline of what you can expect a student to achieve with us when the required amount of honest practice time is invested. With additional practice it can be bettered. With less, music may not be a good investment for you at this time.

Our regular monthly progress reports to you will accurately reflect honest practice or the lack of it, so you need never be in doubt when studying with us.

Kayak Trip Latest Gimmick

In this year of election surprises, it is pleasant to hear of a candidate who is still using the campaign gimickry which once caused political aspirants like Cal Coolidge and Herbert Hoover to get under Indian war bonnets for the photographers.

In that same tradition, Clifford Leverance, candidate for State Senate in the 2nd Legislative District, will board a kayak this Friday with an Ojibous Indian from Canada and paddle down the polluted Fox River in order to dramatize the plight of the waterway.

Leverance — who insists on using his lucky number of 13 in conjunction with his campaign — will take his float trip on Oct. 13. Leverance said he will also sue the state of Wisconsin for the damage done to the Fox River.

The Ojibous Indian, Fred Copenes, will fly in from Canada with his kayak and will paddle his craft while in Indian regalia.

Democrats Show McGovern Support

by BOB LAHEY

Illinois Democrats, some 8,300 strong, turned out in Chicago Tuesday evening with two apparent objectives:

a) to demonstrate their support of their presidential standard-bearer, Sen. George McGovern, and:

b) to lay to rest some of the speculation about the splits in their own ranks.

Party faithful of all denominations decorated a mammoth speaker's table: the young woman volunteer, the Puerto Rican representative, Mayor Daley faithfuls Matt Danaher and Andrew Toman, labor representatives of various stature, congressmen and state officials, a downstate farmer.

How can you look at such a varied array and continue to think there are any problems in the Democratic Party in Illinois?

Listen to the applause.

Dan Walker, candidate for governor and opponent of Daley "bossism" mounts the dais and is greeted by enthusiastic applause. The Kankakee County delegation rises to its feet, but others in the main ballroom, many of them Chicagoans and labor officials, do not follow suit.

MATT DANAHER, Cook County Circuit Court clerk and stalwart Daleyite, gets only a polite greeting.

Ralph Metcalfe, U.S. congressman and product of the Daley machine, currently in disfavor with that machine, rivals Walker in the enthusiasm of the crowd's welcome.

Dr. Andrew Toman, machine-created Cook County coroner, gets a smattering of hand claps.

U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, exiled to a suburban district to run on his own for reelection, outdoes all the others on the applause meter, and many rise to their feet.

Later, of course, the mayor himself will enter and he will get a warm greeting — but not the foot-stomping, barn-raising, hysterical response he gets when he appears before a luncheon of precinct captains.

After a warm introduction by Sen. Adlai Stevenson ("He helped to push my father's programs through the Illinois legislature . . . he is a Democrat in his bones."), Daley will get a near-standing ovation. The Kankakee County delegation remains seated.

ONLY WHEN DALEY concludes his speech with the words they have all been waiting to hear — "Illinois will do what it did in 1948 and in 1960. Illinois will go for McGovern" — will the Kankakee delegation rise for the mayor of Chicago, and join in the kind of bedlam the mayor is accustomed to.

When McGovern himself enters the main ballroom after touring 10 other dining rooms in the Pick-Congress and Conrad Hilton hotels, he will be greeted by thunderous, unrestrained applause, hooting and hollering which belies any differences between those Democrats now surely united behind him.

And yet . . .

While hundreds wait patiently for nearly three hours over standard political-banquet-fare for McGovern to appear, Dan Walker, the party's candidate for governor, waits with them.

Mayor Daley, Sen. Stevenson, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, the man who lost the nomination for governor to Walker, are at McGovern's side as he went to greet the thousands.

When McGovern rises to speak, he stands below huge portraits of himself, his running mate, Sargent Shriver, and Mayor Daley (circa 1956, still sporting a crew cut). There is no picture of Walker.

As the list of speakers wears on: Simon, comedian Alan King, Stevenson, Daley, it is announced that Walker must leave — without addressing the crowd — to maintain his schedule. He leaves to another warm ovation. The Kankakee County delegation rises.

And about that time, it dawns on you that State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, the darling of the Daley loyalists, has not appeared at all.

Do-It-Yourself

Since so many tools have cutting edges, a tool to keep them sharp should be among them.

Simple sharpening equipment includes a mill file or a stone, preferably both. Get yourself a silicon carbide stone which is available in a large variety of shapes and sizes. As you get experience you will want to try out some of these varieties which include more than one grit as well.

These artificial stones have replaced natural stones and so it is now possible to get both a coarse and a fine grit in the same stone.

Sometimes more than sharpening is needed. As tools become extremely dull and nicked they need grinding. Use a grindstone or emery wheel. If you use a power-operated wheel for grinding, make certain you don't overheat the blade.

Overheating will cause it to lose its temper. Dip the tool in water now and then to cool it.

STRAIGHT EDGE tools with a bevel along one surface must be reground so that the bevel is retained. Most tools are beveled at 25 degrees. As you grind, move the blade back and forth so that it is ground evenly.

After it is ground, the blade is sharpened on an oilstone. It is the oil in the stone that prevents overheating. Use a light machine oil to keep the stone treated.

Should the stone get clogged after repeated use, place it in an oven and then wipe away the oil that the heat brings to the surface.

Grinding and sharpening are done against the edge. If you are using a revolving wheel, then the wheel should turn toward the tool. If you are honing (sharpening) the blade by rubbing it against a stone, then move it in a circular motion holding the blade raised slightly. This will put the pressure against the edge.

Some tools can be touched up with a file. This is especially true of garden tools.

Work is easier if you clamp the tool to be sharpened in a vise. Retain the old bevel if there was one. Grass shears, incidentally, have no bevel along the edges that meet.

Spades and hoes kept sharp will make your work easier.

The blade of a rotary mower is sharpened by first removing it from the mower and then mounting in a vise. A file will both sharpen and remove the nicks.

Reel mowers are not sharpened by touching up the blades on the reel but by touching up the bed knife with a file or a stone.

There are special knife sharpeners (either hand or power operated) that are used by simply pulling the knife through it. A sharpening steel is still liked by many. To use one, draw the knife down against the steel.

A Nonpartisan Political Medal?

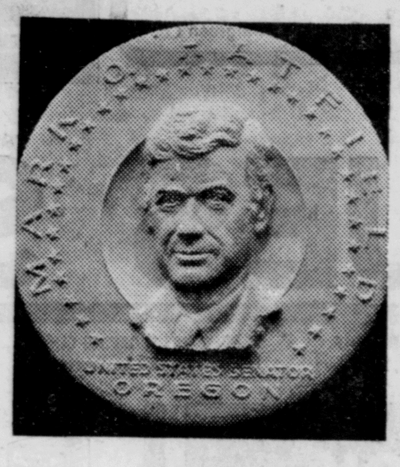
Collectors of political memorabilia will find the new and unusual Mark O. Hatfield medal something of a prize. This particular piece comes in both bronze and silver, as do most medals, but what makes it unique is that nowhere does it refer to a political party.

This must be a compliment to the senator from Oregon, taking for granted the immense popularity enjoyed among voters in his state, Republican or Democrat.

The model and the medals were a gift to the senator from Ralph J. Menconi as a gesture of long-standing friendship. This in itself is most unusual and came as a surprise to both Hatfield and the Medallic Art Co., which produced a series in bronze and a series in silver.



Menconi and Hatfield served together on the coins and medals panel of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. "It was," to quote Mr. Menconi," ". . . something I wanted to do as a birthday gift to a good friend."

The obverse portrait was sculptured from a composite of photographs including one by Fabian Bachrach. The medal measures 2¾" in diameter and shows the likeness of Hatfield embayed by 33 stars and his name closed at the base with the inscription, "United States Senator — Oregon."

A TOPOGRAPHICAL map of Oregon occupies the entire reverse with a beaver super-imposed at the base. Neither side has a rim or border, but on close examination, the signature of Ralph J. Menconi can be found just under the bust truncation of Mr. Hatfield on the obverse.

Iinterested readers may order a bronze specimen for $10 or a silver for $100 by writing directly to the senator's campaign office — P.O. Box 1972, Salem, Oregon 97308. They are being sold on a first-come, first-served basis with no limit to an order. However, the entire edition is limited.

In reading the description of the medal and the story behind it, sent to me by David Poling of the New Mexico Synod of the United Presbyterian Church, also a close friend of the senator, I learned that Hatfield was an avid collector of Menconi's work as displayed in the U.S. Presidential medal series and the Signers of Declaration of Independence series. And I can't help wondering just where the good senator will place the unique Hatfield medal in his Menconi collection.

DAVID LEHR. The W initial on the face of your 1948 Mercury Head dime is actually the letters AW superimposed. It is the initials of the coins designer Mr. A. A. Weinman.

Mrs. Barbara Mathews. The initials J.S. below the profile on your Roosevelt dime are those of the designer, John R. Sinnock.

Mrs. John Botzic. A three-legged Buffalo nickel has most of the right front leg missing. A missing left front leg is merely a bad job at trying to create a collectors' item. Somebody goofed.

William Babcock. Any legally issued gold coin of the United States issued prior to 1933 may be bought or sold without having to obtain a license from the Treasury. Just make sure it is genuine and no younger than 40 years old.

Paul Miller. An 1877 Indian-head cent is valued at roughly $80 to $700 depending on its condition. When you gold plate it the value will be exactly what some dummy would offer and no more. The coin will have been ruined in the process.

Steve Clamer. Silver comes in many compositions. The best is .999 Fine which means it is as pure as you can get it. Sterling on the other hand is slightly better than coin silver. Sterling is .925 alloyed with .075 copper while coin silver is .900 alloyed with .100 copper. The difference will be noticed in the resale value.

Social Security and You

Q — I GOT THE increase in my monthly social security payments October 3rd. But what happens if the cost of living goes up in the future? Social security is my only income.

A — The new social security law provides for automatic adjustments of benefits based on increases in the cost of living. If the cost of living goes up 3 or more per cent in one year, monthly social security payments will also go up starting the following January — unless a general benefit increase was enacted or became effective during the prior year. Cost of living increases will be measured by the Consumer Price Index put out by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Q — I HEARD ON the news that the Senate passed a new law which lets a social security beneficiary earn $3,000 instead of $1,680. Will this be effective this year or next year?

A — Before this law goes into effect, it must be approved by Congress and the President. The Social Security Administration does not know when or if this amount will be effective until it has been passed by the Congress, Senate and President. By continuing to read and listen to the news you will learn when such a proposal does become law.

Q — MY WIFE recently had a stroke that left her with a severe speech problem. She's 66 now. If she gets speech therapy at home through health visits, will our Medicare coverage pay for it?

A — Yes. Medicare will pay for up to 100 home health visits each calendar year — if your wife needs speech therapy, if she's confined to her home, and if her doctor has determined she needs home health care and sets up and periodically reviews a plan for the care. Also, the home health agency must be one that participates in Medicare.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband drinks heavily on weekends and it makes him quite sick. He complains afterwards about his stomach burning. For relief he drinks milk, takes Maalox and soda water. Could you possibly give me some advice as to what the burning and bloating is. Is it a stomach ulcer? I would appreciate any advice as I can't get him to a doctor.

Dear Reader — The obvious answer to his problem is to quit drinking. If this is an every weekend affair, he probably needs help. Your letter suggests that he functions all right otherwise, and I presume that his weekend drinking signifies that he is gainfully employed during the week.

Weekend alcoholics aren't necessarily new. That's what gave rise to the term "lost weekend." He really should see a doctor to find out about his general physical condition and get some help from him in stopping drinking. Short of this, I would recommend that he contact Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) and see if they can help him with his problem. Make no mistake about it, anyone who drinks regularly on weekends to the point that they make themselves sick does have an alcohol problem.

The stomach complaint you describe is typical of indivduals who overindulge in alcohol. It is called alcoholic gastritis, which literally means inflammation of the stomach caused by alcohol. The lining of the stomach becomes reddened, engorged and irritated. By the way, individuals can have gastritis even though they don't use alcohol.

Of course, there's no guarantee that your husband doesn't have an ulcer and it would require a good medical examination to establish its presence or absence. I think itk's a safe bet though that he at least does have alcoholic gastritis with each of the drinking bouts as you describe them. The best treatment for gastritis of any kind is a bland diet, avoiding spicy foods and things which irritate the stomach which definitely include alcohol. Antacids and a bland diet are about the only thing you can do. If he really wants to get some relief, he's going to have to give up his drinking habits. In addition to stomach problems excessive drinking can cause damage to the liver and the heart. In men it is a frequent cause of impotency. If more men realized what alcohol does to their sex life rather than for it, there would be a lot less drinking. Then there is the gradual brain damage that occurs from drinking too much.

Dr. Dr. Lamb — If a person is taking thyroid medicine and also birth control pills, does the throid medicine prevent the birth control pills from acting? My doctors says no but a friend has had two different doctors tell her it will.

Dear Reader — Your doctor is right. Birth cntrol pills are composed of the female hormones produced by the ovaries during the normal menstrual cycle. These hormones, through a complex mechanism, block the ovaries from producing another egg (ovum) and in this way prevent pregnancy. When the amount of these hormones is diminished, the ovary is activated and fires off another egg. The usual female cycle literally then is a rising and falling of the female hormones. When the hormones fall, menstruation occurs and the next cycle to release another egg begins. By providng female hormones regularly and withdrawing them for the menstrual period, birth control is accomplished. Giving thyroid tablets will not interfere with this action between female hormones and the ovaries.

The Lighter Side

Crusade For Downtrodden Football Fans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, some of the more compassionate members of Congress, and assorted other bleeding hearts are conjoined in a crusade to lift the yoke of oppression from the necks of downtrodden football fans.

Surprisingly, however, the American Civil Liberties Union, which has been the cutting edge in countless campaigns for human rights, has yet to enter the battle.

Surely the ACLU cannot be unaware of the injustices being perpetrated by the National Football League. There has rarely been a more blatant display of tyranny.

Every Sunday of the season, in some league cities, the NFL brazenly deprives thousands of fans of their fundamental right to watch the home team play.

Not even in prerevolutionary France was the contrast between the "haves" and "have nots" so sharply delineated.

TOLD THAT PEOPLE were unable to get tickets for a 1781 game between the Paris Bourbons and the Vienna Hapsburgs, Marie Antoinette said, "Let them watch it on television."

But people don't get that kind of break from Pete Rozelle.

The NFL commissioner insists on blacking out home games even when there is a sellout.

Nixon and a band of do-gooders in Congress are now trying to force the league to lift the blackouts if all the tickets have been sold.

I greatly fear, however, that this humanitarian movement may be too little and too late.

I went out to RFK Stadium here last Sunday to observe the situation at a game between the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles. The scene was right out of "Les Miserables," with a touch of "A Tale of Two Cities" adding to the pathos.

POOR, wretched, huddled masses at the gates crying out for tickets . . . Hardened season ticketholders bent on their own pleasure, oblivious or inured to the plight of the ducatless ones.

Sitting quietly by the turnstile in the shadow of an overweight pennant salesman was a woman busily knitting. At my approach, she identified herself as a Ms. Defarge.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

One of the most effective bids in match-point duplicate is the premature save. At least, it is effective when it pushes your opponents one trick beyond their limit.

It turns out to be a disaster when, instead of being stampeded into the stratosphere, they stop to double you and it turns out that they couldn't make a game.

East's jump to five diamonds was one of those premature saves. He decided that his opponents could make four spades and that the loss his partner would take at five diamonds doubled would be less than the score for a vulnerable game.

He was pretty sure that if he bid four diamonds and then five he would be doubled and he hoped that his quick jump to that contract might get him a reprieve.

It did. South decided that five spades would wheel in and that he couldn't set five diamonds enough to cover the loss of the game.

He was right to that extent. West would be down 500 at five diamonds doubled.

He was wrong in his major premise. He couldn't make spades since the defense collected a diamond and two clubs before he could gain the lead.

Release Stamp Honoring Franklin

by BERNADINE M. RECHNER

A 7 cent U.S. stamp honoring Benjamin Franklin will be released Oct. 20 in Philadelphia. The denomination is intended to pay postage for certain educational materials which are granted a preferential rate. Among Franklin's many civic activities was his founding of what is now the University of Pennsylvania so his appearance on the educational rate issue is particularly appropriate.

Franklin appeared on the first U.S. stamp, issued in 1847, and has reappeared 22 times since then. Only Abraham Lincoln and George Washington have been pictured more times.

The stamp was designed by Bill Hyde of San Francisco and cites Franklin as a signer of the Declaration of Ilndependence and of the Constitution and as minister to France.

Perhaps his greatest service came in 1778 when he negotiated a treaty of alliance with France which brought the feeble United States military and monetary aid which speeded the end of the American Revolutionary War.

Franklin is also known as a printer, writer, inventor, postmaster general and statesman. He invented bifocal glasses and an improved stove and is believed to have invented the first rocking chair. He printed the first cartoon in an American paper and urged reform of the alphabet in which six letters would be dropped. He conceived America's first street cleaning service (which cost Philadelphia residents six pence a month) and was an advocate of daylight savings time to save candles.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the Franklin stamp should send their requests to "Franklin Stamp, Postmaster, Philadelphia, Pa. 19104." Remember this issue is only a seven cent stamp so you must add a one cent stamp to each of your covers so they meet the domestic surface rate. If you wish, you may ask that two Franklin stamps be affixed to each cover. In this case, the covers will be returned by air mail.

Crusade Needs Your Backing

Nine Northwest suburban funds and community chests have launched the 1972 Crusade of Mercy appeal campaign to raise money to meet critical community needs.

Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Prospect Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg Township and Wheeling-Buffalo Grove are among 155 suburban communities participating in the Crusade as members of the Suburban Community Chest Council.

The Crusade raises money for the Council, which in turn allocates it to local chests on a priority basis. All funds raised in local communities go directly to local chests for support of local human care agencies.

This year the Council and its 92 participating chests and funds hope to realize more than $5 million from their campaign. We share that hope, for never has the necessity for increased support of private welfare services been greater.

Today's "people problems" are more complicated, more time-consuming, more costly and critical than ever before. The neglect of our fast-growing suburbs to provide proper planning for people has made it imperative for us to give high priority to support of these essential social and community services.

The agencies supported by our Crusade contributions are varied in their scope and emphasis. But all meet the guidelines of reinforcing human care and community needs, and all share our common concern for strengthening and advancing the quality of life in our suburbs.

They include family counseling services, youth organizations, educational and retardation services, mental health programs, community nursing and homemaker services, and many others. To qualify for participation, each agency must have provided documented evidence of local need and the program to meet that need as well as the cost of providing service. All are professionally managed with high standards of accountability.

Because of the hundreds of dedicated volunteers who work on the campaign, the cost of raising money is lowest in the nation — less than five cents of every dollar contributed. Donors thus are assured their gifts are effectively and efficiently used.

We urge you to support your local community appeal. It is providing us with a unified, strengthened approach to meeting the urgent financial needs of charitable and service organizations throughout our suburban area. All of us benefit from Crusade-supported services which make our suburbs better places in which to live and work.

Baldness Illegal

It's not only unsafe to drive a car on bald tires in Illinois; thanks to the legislature and Gov. Richard Ogilvie, it's also illegal.

On Sept. 1, Gov. Ogilvie signed a bill into law which established a minimum tread depth requirement of 1/16 inch for all passenger car tires, effective next Jan 1.

The ban on bald tires makes Illinois the 32nd state to adopt such a law, according to the Tire Industry Safety Council, which has an obvious interest in keeping track of such information.

Tires are also considered unsafe, according to the bill, if any part of the ply or cord is exposed, if a sidewall is cut or cracked or if the tire is marked "not for highway use" or "for racing purposes only."

Persons who keep count of such things report that there are potentially a million cars in Illinois with one or more bald tires — and that's reason enough for such a law going onto the books.

For anyone who's known the spine-chilling effect of an uncontrollable skid on ice, the new law makes good sense, for, as the tire experts declare, skidding on bald tires is a little like skidding along an icy highway.

The new law requires the Illinois Department of Transportation to develop enforcement procedures for the new law. Such procedures can't come quickly enough for the unsafe motorists on Illinois' roads.

Words Fail Us

Language study is anything but a craze in the United States currently.

Enrollment in university and college language departments, and more recently high school courses, has been on the decline, to the point that some academic specialists are expressing mild alarm.

Not only the old standards — French and German — have been losing students, but the "glamor" languages of recent years as well. Russian, according to the Council on Teaching of Foreign Languages, dropped a third in high school enrollment between 1965 and 1970, down from 32 thousand students to 22 thousand.

The decline is being attributed to a number of developments, including rejection by many students in the "movement" era of the traditional science-oriented fields and classic disciplines in favor of social involvement.

It is also possible that the very increase in and ease of student travel abroad has contributed. Familiarity with other cultures may not be breeding contempt, but it could be diluting intellectual curiosity.

Inscrutable, these Americans.

Aren't You Going To Help?

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Palatine Parks: 'Yes'

I am writing in response to Robert L. Bergman's letter regarding the Palatine Park District's proposed capital improvement program which appeared in the October 4 Fence Post.

Where has Mr. Bergman been for the last nine months? As the immediate past president of the Palatine Jaycees, I have been close to the development of the plans which culminated in the final park district referendum proposal. I am aware of the honest and substantial effort exerted by the Board of Commissioners and staff of the Palatine Park District in actively soliciting suggestions and comments from Palatine residents with respect to its plans. Park District representatives, especially Director Fred Hall, have participated in more than 35 meetings of neighborhood and civic organizations since February which included discussion and encouraged participation in the planning process of the development program.

Newspaper articles and recreation program brochures which are mailed to all residents twice each year ask residents to attend bi-monthly meetings of the Board of Commissioners and encourage residents to make known their views on all Park District operations. Rather than attempting to mount an eleventh hour opposition to a carefully designed program, why did not Mr. Bergman involve himself, however critically, in the planning process?

If he had taken the trouble to become better informed, for example, he could hardly have been critical of what he called "small unpaved access paths" leading to the Palatine Trail. In fact, the access routes have been selected with assistance from the village officials and will be reviewed regularly to insure that bicycle routes will follow roadways with the lowest possible vehicular traffic volumes.

However, I particularly challenge Mr. Bergman's remarks regarding his contention that the "all-or-nothing" program is irresponsible. Quite the contrary! The Park District Board is responsible for the development of a coordinated, well-designed park system to meet the needs of the entire community. To offer a piecemeal plan of development, as suggested by Mr. Bergman, would be ludicrous as well as fiscally irresponsible. Having separate referenda or separate ballots would greatly increase expenses. Each voter would be faced with extremely difficult decisions — decisions which they have, through the establishment of a park district and the election of commissioners, asked others to make.

Only through a positive majority vote on October 14th may the Park District issue bonds for implementation of the proposed program. And that's how it should be!

But to offer a piecemeal program of development, when carried to its logical conclusion, would lead only to factionalism; special interest group against special interest grouop; neighborhood against neighborhood; and residents of one street against those of another. We have elected our park commissioners and, in effect, charged them with the responsibility of developing a park system of which we can be proud.

Although Mr. Bergman suggests separate voting on each item (at considerable expense), he criticizes the Park District for preparing and mailing a brochure describing the proposed program. Would he prefer that residents be asked to vote without having pertinent and important information available to the entire community? I contend that the brochure is informative, that it does not "push" the referendum, but that it does provide fundamental facts, including the cost to each taxpayer, from which each voter can make an informed and independent decision.

I submit that the proposed capital improvement program is anything but a "boondoggle." Rather, it is an opportunity. The proposal before us is the culmination of a plan which has been carefully designed and with a great deal of integrity and professionalism.

The implementation of the plan will increase our tax bills by only 1.58 per cent; an increase which I consider modest and in the best interests of our community and certainly not fiscally irresponsible.

Join with me in voting YES on October 14th.

Plaudits For Oak Park

As residents of Oak Park we emphatically protest your article of September 3 in the Rolling Meadows Herald in which Ms. Van Wye labeled Oak Park a community where ". . . homes are old and no one wants to live in them."

To say that homes and apartments are now being ". . . abandoned to students, minority groups and persons not able to maintain them" is giving credit to the racist fantasies of a disgruntled former resident. The statement that ". . . boarded up store fronts line the streets" is a gross exaggeration. Strictly enforced housing codes ensure the stability of our residential areas, while a flexible approach to zoning encourages business development.

Because we don't intend to ignore the problems of urban growth, the Village Plan Commission developed a plan for the controlled future growth of Oak Park covering everything from village services to schools, human relations to transportation. An example of Oak Park's farsightedness is that, due to recent enlargement of the sewers here, Oak Park remained dry following the summer's severe storms.

We know that a revitalized business district is essential to the continued prosperity of Oak Park. Therefore, details of the plan include a shopping mall to be completed within a year.

Local retailers and the Oak Park Housing Center indicate that young families are choosing Oak Park over distant suburbs for its excellence in schools, gracious large older homes, beautiful tree-lined streets, excellent transportation and low tax rate.

Recreational facilities abound and are available to all residents.

Concerned government officials and a superior village staff who are accessible to all groups in the community, plus an active organized citizenry, make for responsible and effective local government.

Oak Park is a far-sighted community that welcomes people of all races and creeds and is working hard to create its own future.

Catholic Sex Ed Needed

It was with a combination of pity and amusement that I read of the "Prayer Vigil," regarding chastity, to be held at St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling, Oct. 13.

While believing that Roman Catholic authorities should be allowed to teach the Catholic faith to members of the Church (provided they don't demand public funds to do it), I should think that more progress could be made — both with young people and adults — if the Church would cease its ostrich-headed attitude and permit a program of modern sex education in its schools, instead of depending on pious platitudes formulated in the Middle Ages, during the days when certain Popes could "prove" the earth was "flat" . . . platitudes that were built around the premise that all sex, even between married couples, was — is — somehow frowned upon by the Creator of the universe!

Personally, I fail to see how two Franciscan Friars, who have never had to worry about paying bills, or children, or family or anything else in the every day world of making a living, can impart ANY advice regarding the sexual function. Nor do I feel that "prayer" will chain the normal and healthy sexual urges of a teenage boy or girl!

I trust these Friars, educated as they are in Church History, Catholic philosophy, homiletics, etc., will inform their listeners that modern sociological thought does not attach the exceptional value that a superficial, limited, and unscientific religious ethic sets upon it.

Most psychiatrists (and other professionals connected with the public welfare) consider absolute chastity a form of ignorance, their feeling (based on medical evidence) being that even partial chastity constitutes a blind denial of the legitimacy of the sexual acts and is nothing more than a vestige of the ancestral taboo that certain religions persist in teaching without producing any scientific or logical reason to justify it. As to those misinformed people who point to the Bible . . . well, on that basis we should legalize polygamy, since many a prophet and king in the Old Testament had more than one wife. (Actually modern society does have a form of progressive polygamy, only we call it "divorce" and remarriage!")

Of course, if people prefer to believe superstition and ignore modern science — that's their business. However, they should keep in mind that "prayer" has not helped any family that finds itself on the brink of bankruptcy because of too many mouths to feed. They should also realize that while the Church is a Santa Claus when it comes to giving advice, it's a miser that would put Scrooge to shame when it comes to shelling out hard cash to ANY needy family, or even permitting that family's children to attend parochial school without paying the necessary tuition.

'Thick' Tackle Corners Shriver

It wasn't bad enough that John Conally was out campaigning for President Nixon and Jesse Jackson was grumbling because Sen. McGovern has not been around to call on him.

With all that and more against him, McGovern didn't need Sargent Shriver going out and stirring up Merlin Olsen as well.

For those who don't recognize the name, Sargent Shriver is McGovern's nominee for vice president.

Everybody knows Merlin Olsen, of course.

You don't go out knocking heads every Sunday afternoon in the National Football League for 11 years without your name becoming a household word. You never heard anybody ask "Merlin Who?" did you?

He is currently practicing mayhem as a defensive tackle with the Los Angeles Rams — and Shriver's political ineptitude has turned him into an "outraged defensive tackle with the Los Angeles Rams."

He is so outraged, according to the Committee for the Reelection of the President, that he wants to sit down and debate Shriver. Not on gridiron strategy, but on "advanced economic theory."

Olsen, you see, stopped off at Utah State University en route to his involvement in presidential politics to pick up a master's degree in economics. And according to the Nixon committee, the thing that has him so upset is the "McGovern-Shriver $1,000 income redistribution proposal."

We had been under the impression that McGovern had abandoned that plan, but nonetheless, Olsen thinks it is a ridiculous idea, and says his profs at Utah State would agree with him.

With all that expertise behind him, it is fortunate for McGovern that Olsen didn't speak out sooner. It seems likely that part of McGovern's campaign strategy was to neutralize Olsen and other experts in the N.F.L., hoping that while they could not convert them, they at least could not antagonize them.

Then, Shriver made one of those seemingly minor mistakes which can shatter political campaigns. Because what outraged Olsen really had nothing to do with economics.

What Shriver did was compare Republican aides out on the campaign trail for the President to professional football linemen. He might still have salvaged something of the campaign, but he went on to describe professional linemen as "thick," "fat" and "dull-witted."

Not only did that bring Olsen out into the open, but he was joined by Nick Buoniconti of the Miami Dolphins, teammate Marlin McKeever; Dick Modzelewski and Jim Houston of the Cleveland Browns; and Andy Robustelli, formerly of the New York Giants.

Now Shriver has put himself in the awkward position of either risking a debate with Olsen, or giving him the opportunity to claim Shriver is not up to such a confrontation.

Olsen has already accused Shriver of being reluctant to "sit down with a dull-witted lineman."

I don't know about that, but I can tell you that a lot of candidates would be reluctant to sit down with "an outraged defensive tackle with the Los Angeles Rams," no matter what kind of degree he has.

Word A Day

Business Today

by JOSEPH ST. AMANT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The owner of a quick stop store may buy a 50-pound bag of popcorn for $14 and sell it for $63. That's a 350 per cent markup and a pretty sure path to a profit.

You can make an 80-90 per cent profit on soft drinks, not the bottled kind.

If you handle it right, there can be a 40-50 per cent profit margin in selling fried chicken to go.

These and many other marketing tips were passed around recently at the convention of the National Association of Convenience Stores (NACS), a fastgrowing segment of the nation's retail economy.

THERE ARE about 19,000 convenience stores in the United States today and they do an annual volume of about $4 billion, according to NACS sources.

This is not a Mom 'n' Pop operation although such stores fill the gap left by the disappearance of the corner grocery. The association has a membership of 340 companies representing 16,000 retail outlets or about 80 per cent of industry.

A lot of the volume of convenience stores is represented by beer and cigarettes, prepared sandwiches, candy, soft drinks and plain snacks. In four years, the convenience store industry has almost doubled in volume. In 1968, there were 10,000 outlets doing an annual business of about $2.3 billion.

TWO FACTORS have stimulated business, according to John T. Landry, a director of marketing for Philip Morris U.S.A., now a diversified company which does a lot of business with convenience stores.

"The first thing you've got to have is a low overhead," said Landry. "This means you have a smaller area and a more selective inventory. The second thing is the key-convenience. Many stores are open for long hours seven days a week — 24 hours a day, or 7 in the morning until 11 at night — longer than some of the supermarkets."

The yearly cigaret volume of convenience stores is more than one-half billion dollars. In simpler terms that is $500 million or 10 per cent of the total cigaret volume.

Coincidentally, Philip Morris President Ross R. Millhiser told the NACS delegates that despite the ban on radio and television advertising cigaret consumption has increased.

"WE FEEL THE greatest threat to your cigaret sales and to our industry is the continuously rising tax on cigarets," Millhiser told the delegates.

In addition to Philip Morris other large purveyors represented at the convention included Adolph Coors, Beatrice Foods, H. J. Heinz Co., Johnson & Johnson, Eastman Kodak, Lever Bros. and Mobil Oil.

One booklet distributed to delegates cited examples of profit items such as popcorn and soft drinks, a method of combating "shrinkage," the polite name for pilfering, converting abandoned service stations into convenience outlets with gasoline pumps reactivated, tips on making a store profitable in a high rise apartment house, and the advantage of credit sales over cash.

Philip Morris executives say about 14 per cent of a store's volume comes from cigarets and another 14-15 per cent from beer.

Edward W. Frantel, director of sales for Miller Brewing Co., commented, "Between beers and cigarets, we love these guys."

Hearing Set On Advertising Of Utilities

Advertising practices of public utilities will be scrutinized in a public hearing today at 11 a.m. in Chicago. The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) set the hearings to see if the ads are reasonable and justified.

The 19th floor, State of Illinois Building in Chicago will be the setting for this first hearing.

The ICC said "because of an energy shortage and economic pressures, the subject of public utility advertising practices has been before regulatory agencies and courts with increasing frequency."

The agency will "consider the objectives of advertising the extent to which those objectives warrant advertising expenditures being borne by the rate payer and the extent to which those objectives are being met by advertising. . ."

Now You Can Shop For Money Aids

by LEA TONKIN

Shopping for financial services, supermarket style, is now possible for consumers.

In fact, the range of services offered at a new Northwest suburban firm will eventually encompass all financial operations except commercial banking. The Lee-Mar Financial Services, Inc., office recently opened at 212 S. Milwaukee Ave. in Wheeling as a distributor for the Scheer Financial Corp.

Shelley Segal and partner Charles Shuman are working with individuals as well as corporations in a host of allied financial services. Segal refers to himself as a financial generalist, a new concept on the business scene.

"Our concept is to have an expert in each area of financial service on the staff," Segal says, "whether it's mutual funds, leasing, life insurance or casualty insurance. It's an integrated, diversified, financial service company."

SEGAL AND SHUMAN also operate a casualty insurance business in Skokie, separate from the Scheer services. Through referrals from their insurance business and other channels, they are introducing the customers to one-stop shopping for financial service.

"The old way was for a person to go to one company for life insurance, another for securities, another for leasing, perhaps another for tax shelter investment. Now we can oversee the general financial market," said Segal of his role of financial generalist. He has two employes on the Wheeling office staff. Four persons are on the staff at the Skokie office. Once he determines a customer's needs, Segal refers clients to these specialists in securities, leasing or insurance, pension and profit sharing and other services.

"We have an eight-year plan to develop the full range of financial services, except for commercial banking," Segal said. "Within two or three years most of these will be added." A savings and loan operation, stocks and bonds and commercial mortgages and loans are among the planned additions to the Lee-Mar services. The Scheer company is hoping to gain federal approval of the variable life insurance policy, successfully used in foreign countries. The value of the policy varies according to market conditions.

"UNTIL THEN, a combined program of insurance and mutual funds is probably the best bet for many families," said Segal. He's not worried about the ability of the Scheer company to move ahead on schedule with its plans. The company has already established a good track record in its first 18 months of service center operations.

Scheer Financial Corp. (SFC) purchased the Seaboard Life Insurance Co. of America a year and a half ago. Seaboard, a nationally licensed life insurance firm, had assets topping $29 million. At the same time, SFC Equities, Inc., was set up as a broker-dealer to distribute mutual fund shares; and an equity funding company, SFC Equities, Inc., was created to market the package of life insurance and mutual fund shares.

A national network of 200 financial service centers is scheduled to be in operation by the end of next year by Scheer Financial Corp. In the meantime, 71 service centers are open, including three in Illinois.

THE CONCEPT OF the financial generalist will become widespread in the next several years, predicts Segal. Consumers need to be educated in this system of national distribution of financial services, he added.

"Basically, our formula is to get into the industries in the surrounding area and to work with individual families," Segal said. He notes that the local interest from referral customers is encouraging.

Lee-Mar Financial Services will consolidate its two operations by April of next year at the Wheeling facility. Segal is a resident of Buffalo Grove. Shuman lives in Des Plaines.

Ampex Corporation

Ampex Corp. sales for the first quarter of fiscal year 1973, ended July 29, 1972, were $68,809,000. A net loss of $3,155,000 or 29 cents a share on 10,874,614 average shares outstanding was also reported. This loss was less than had been expected from the operational plan developed at the beginning of the year.

No comparative amounts are given for the 1972 fiscal period since, as discussed in the company's annual report, there is now some doubt that all of the loss reported for 1972 was actually incurred during that year. Reported losses for 1972 and 1971 were $88,351,000 and $27,978,000 before income taxes and $89,660,000 and $12,005,000 after taxes. Total corporate backlog of orders for the second quarter exceeded $100,000,000, the highest backlog at the start of any quarter in Ampex history. Ampex includes facilities in Elk Grove Village.

A Little Bit(e) About A Lot Of Things

Golfers Have Needed More Than The Basic Equipment This Year.

WHEN GOLFERS LOOK back on the 1972 golf season in years to come, it will probably be remembered for:

- using the seldom needed umbrella more than a two iron;
- changing soggy leather grips to rubber ones;
- carrying more aerosol bug bombs and lotions in the ball pocket than ever before;
- adding a few floater balls; and
- keeping some hip boots in the bag for those lakes that formed overnight.

These accessories were needed because the normal hazards (sand traps, creeks, ponds, trees and out of bounds) were expanded to include rain and mosquitoes.

"Generally it has been the rainiest summer we've ever had on the north side," says Harry Volkman, NBC's crack meteorologist. "It's been well over 200 per cent of normal."

The almost daily drops must have been concentrated over the Palatine Hills Golf Course, or so it seemed to Manager Rex McMorris.

"The beginning of the week we were running 5,000 rounds back of last year," says McMorris. "We've been flooded out eight times this year."

This collection of excess water has been the birthplace of many non-paying members of the course — mosquitoes.

"There's been enough of them to carry some of the boys away," adds McMorris.

"I've been up in mosquito spray sales, way up," says Al Griffith, Buffalo Grove Golf Club's head pro, who also has managed to maintain his good humor.

"Oh do I see it, wow!"

Players have quit after a couple of holes because the pests have been so pesky. The mosquitoes have been the most treacherous "on a putt or a short shot," according to Lew Janis, Golden Acres Country Club pro. "Especially when you've got five of six of them on you at one time."

Only after a frost will golfers be able to enjoy a fall round without having a foursome of mosquitoes playing through their clothes.

The Buffalo Grove club has an ideal way of avoiding both bugs and rain — playing in the winter. Griffith has a deal where fanatic golfers can purchase a $25 membership that's good from Nov. 1 to March 15.

When the club hosted the annual Eskimo Open earlier this year, not one of the 216 golfers complained to Griffith about mosquitoes or rain. Both were nonexistent last Jan. 3!

Those who prefer indoor sports, such as watching television, might have tuned in the major league baseball playoffs over the weekend. The incident during the Oakland-Detroit game was hardly major league.

Had the A's sparkplug shortstop been a little more accurate with his war club, Lerrin Lagrow might have been seriously injured or killed. This is no exaggeration if you saw the outburst live or on tape.

Campaneris was fined $500 and suspended for the rest of the playoff with Detroit. He should have been socked with twice the amount and forced to sit on the sidelines until spring training.

Granted that Campy is one of the key forces in the A's attack, but as a major leaguer he is expected to conduct himself on the field like a professional. That's professional ballplayer, not professional thug.

And while the typewriter keys are still warm, let's not forget CBS-TV for the additional "super" coverage this year of the fantastic Chicago Bears.

The local network has been kind enough to give viewers its version of the Howard-Frank-Don show by way of the Jack-George-Gale announcing act.

Jack Drees is okay, I guess; George Connor is pretty good; but Gale Sayers is terrible. As a running back, Gale was second to none. As an announcer, Gale — sad to say — can't make the team.

Then there's the infamous "Fifth Quarter" show at 10:30 each losing Sunday evening with always smiling Brent Musburger and always fumbling Abe Gibron.

This quarter hour comedy has to rank as one of the funniest new shows this fall.

Gibron, who seems to envelop the sidelines like no other coach in the NFL can, stumbles through his script each Sunday like a school boy who's giving his first speech. What's worse, he sometimes holds it in front of the camera and reads.

Adding to the comic effect are several commercials with Abe and some of his players. This most rotund of the pro coaches performs a miracle each week by getting into a compact car.

Now if the Bears can only draft Olympic heavyweight Chris Taylor, what a commercial that twosome could make. However, a pickup truck or van would have to be used.

In order to see a classy sports show, you must forget about Second City and stick to the suburbs. This weekend features matchups of four unbeaten teams — Elk Grove vs. Forest View (once tied) and St. Viator vs. Holy Cross.

The latter two are ranked among the top 10 in the state; a decisive win by either of the former could also earn an equally high place among the elite prep teams.

The Grenadier-Falcon feature highlights Friday night's play in the Mid-Suburban League with the Lions and the Crusaders being the top show on Sunday. If you want to see some well-played football, don't watch the Bear-Brown loser's bowl and, instead, go to the River Grove game.

Through four games, several area players are emerging as potential all-area or even all-state selections.

As a change of pace, let's start with a few of the top defensive stars. Standing out at linebacker are Jack Lloyd (6-2, 200) of Rolling Meadows and Terry Whiteley (6-2, 190) of Fremd. A top tackle is Dave Kubik (6-3, 205) of Arlington. All three have the size to make it on the university level.

Naturally, players tend to stick out more on offense because of statistics. Two of the best quarterbacks so far are St. Viator's Stan Bobowski (5-11, 185) and Elk Grove's Jeff Stewart (6-3, 180). Bobowski has the edge so far in performing the option with a total offense of 658, including a two-touchdown per game average.

Stewart presently leads the MSL's top ground gaining team with 485 total yards.

Going against Stewart and the Grenadiers Friday will be John Kronforst (5-11, 175), a junior tailback who's beginning to make Falcon fans forget the magnificent Mike Pryor. Through four games he easily leads the MSL with a 5.1 yard average (88 for 464).

Blocking for this breakaway threat is two-year letterman John Forssander (5-11, 205). This offensive lineman is a potent pulling guard. With his help the Falcons are second only to Elk Grove in team rushing.

The top pass catching player in the area is Palatine's Jan Fitzgerald (5-10, 180). Although not as tall as his fellow receivers, Jan's jet quick. His speed has helped him to three touchdowns and 16 catches for 316 yards in four games. No one is close to that total.

• • • •

One sidelight in the Forest View game Friday is the Falcons' chance to break even in football for the first time in the school's 10-year grid history. The Falcons will take a 36-37-4 record into the game.

Elk Grove, entering its sixth year of varsity play, can also pull even by winning its next four games and the MSL playoff again. The Grenadiers are now 19-24-1.

PICKING HIS WAY through the traffic is St. Viator's Steve Bobowski in Friday battle with St. Patrick. Bobowski, eluding Shamrock Tom Connors of this play, picked up 99 yards in only seven carries for a sizzling 14.1 average. The Lions triumphed, 29-7.

Jackson Tops Wise; Falcons Win Over Schaumburg In MSL Action

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

Arnie Jackson has a good memory to go with his powerful legs.

Jackson said he was thinking back to last year while he was running Tuesday, and his recollection just might have helped him to win the biggest individual race of the year in the Mid-Suburban League and shatter a long-standing record.

In a showdown between undefeated juniors Jackson of Schaumburg and Jim Wise of Forest View, Arnie was the winner by 14 seconds with an incredible 13:24 for 2.75 miles, easily a new all-time record at the Forest View course. The old record, set only last week, was 13:52 by none other than Jim Wise — who did considerably better than that and set another new school record with his 13:38.

Despite the margin, the contest was much closer most of the way. Jackson held the lead but only by a slim margin until the last lap with less than a mile left, when he suddenly pulled away.

That was where his thoughts of last year came in.

"I remember he beat me once and it was just the other way around," said the slender Jackson, moments after his Tuesday workout. "I was sticking close to him until near the end and then he pulled away. But today, I made up my mind that I wasn't going to give up."

Oh, yes — the team score was the closest of six Mid-Suburban League dual meets for the afternoon, with Forest View getting four runners into the top six to shade the visiting Saxons, 26-29. Highland Park was also invited to participate but had only two runners in the top 15 and was soundly defeated by both the Saxons and Falcons.

"Jackson is one of the top five runners in the state right now, and I think Jimmy (Wise) is one of the top 10," was the opinion of Forest View coach Bill Mohrmann. "But I think Wise will get closer to him (Jackson) before the year is over."

Mohrmann was aware that the two will

Girl Netters Set Sights On Title Shot

Area teams will be competing at four different district sites as the first statewide girls tennis tournament gets underway Saturday.

Four teams — Arlington, Forest View, Hersey and Prospect — will be at Mount Prospect in what could be the toughest of all the districts. Also there will be New Trier East and West.

Also hosting four local teams will be Palatine. Joining the Palatine girls will be Conant, Fremd and Rolling Meadows.

Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Maine West will be at the Addison Trail site with Wheeling at Waukegan and Maine East at Maine South.

The winners will advance to the state championship at Arlington Heights. The title will be determined from play on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 20-21.

In all, 134 schools will be represented in the inaugural tourney.

HUSTLIN' HARRIERS. The pack moves out from the starting line in Tuesday's Mid-Suburban League dual meet between Elk Grove and Hersey. Second from right is eventual winner Brian Powell of the Grenadiers, who set a new school and course record with 15:19 for three miles. Powell has won eight times and finished second twice in 10 league meets. At far right is Damian Archbold, who finished second, and in center with dark shirt is Hersey's Jay McCarthy, who was third. Hersey won the meet 25-34 to stay tied with Arlington for third place with a 7-2-1 MSL record.

be meeting three more times this fall — in the conference meet, the sectional, and the state final. (They will be running in different districts). Since both are only juniors, their personal rivalry will be renewed many more times before they graduate, with two more track seasons and another cross country campaign still ahead after this season.

Here is what transpired in all league meets Tuesday:

FOREST VIEW 26, SCHAUMBURG 29

No one was close to Jackson and Wise, but there was interesting jockeying for some lower places as the Falcons won the only unpredictable meet of the day. The victory tied Forest View for fifth place with a 6-4 conference record (they are 18-4 in all duals) while Schaumburg dropped to 3-7 in the league.

Rich Nilsson, a consistent No. 2 man for the Falcons all year, was solidly in third place with 14:25. A Highland Park runner was next, Mike Carey of Schaumburg was fifth with 14:42 and Tony Hess of Forest View sixth with 14:53.

Also for the winners, Larry Keen took seventh with 15:04, Mike Wieser 12th and John Jansen 15th.

Schaumburg had ninth through 11th (seventh through ninth against Forest View) separated by just four seconds — John Schevikhoven, Ron Healer and Mike Palmer. Teammates Doug Warlick and Mike Istok were 13th and 14th.

Schaumburg won all four lower level duals, winning on the sophomore level 17-41 over Forest View and 21-38 over Highland Park while the Falcons nipped the Little Giants by one. The Saxon sophs have only two league losses in 10 meets. The freshmen remained undefeated by beating Forest View 23-33 and Highland Park 18-42 while the hosts beat Highland 21-39.

FREMD 15, CONANT 50

Fremd paraded a string of seven straight runners across the finish line after conceding the top spot to Chip Barber of Maine West — a non-league visitor — as the Vikings kept their MSL record perfect and Tuesday's score over Conant also perfect.

Fremd was a 20-43 winner over Maine West, and Conant edged the Warriors 27-28.

Barber's winning time at the Union 76 Oil course was 13:59, nine seconds ahead of Jamie Olson of Fremd. Steve Inbody was right on Olson's heels. The next five Vikings were packed very closely, at one-second intervals. Starting with sophomore Jim Galis' 14:21, the group had Ken Geheb, John Miller, Mike Rohrer and Chuck Ruppenthal following.

Conant's finishers were Bob Everly in eighth (14:26), Rick Jensen (14:31), Steve Wattron (14:45), Dave Mansolf (14:51), Kent McDill (14:59), Dave Elderkin (15:06) and John Bond (15:07).

Fremd's undefeated sophomores had no problems, even without Galis, sweeping over Conant 18-45 and over Maine 15-49 while West beat Conant 20-39. Dave Scott of the Vikes won in 14:33.

Another team with a perfect record, Conan'ts freshmen, were just as impressive in clouting Fremd 17-46 and Maine West 15-50 while West beat Fremd 25-32. Cougar Jeff Olson led all frosh with 10:53. The Cougar plebes have a showdown coming up against also-undefeated Schaumburg next Tuesday.

ARLINGTON 22, PROSPECT 36

Arlington's capturing of the top two places enabled the Cardinals to stay in a tie for third place with a fine 7-2-1 record with this defeat of the Knights.

The first two Cardinals, running in tandem, were Willie Schmidt with 14:17 and Neil Haseman, a second behind. Dom Burger of Prospect followed with 14:28 and teammate Rich Reithal took fourth with 14:31.

Assisting the Cards also were John Lerchenfeld (14:33), Tom Holub (14:37), Dave Jenkins (14:50), Mike Haseman (14:52) and Bob Skolnik (14:59).

For Prospect, Mike Tyre was seventh with 14:39, Bsian Pomrenke 10th Mike Skelton 12th, Keith Spacapan 13th and Tom Nemec 16th.

Arlington claimed the sophomore meet 22-41 although Rich Podgorny of Prospect was the winner with 15:5. The frosh meet went to Prospect, 25-31, but Arlington's Greg Lugiaz prevailed with 13:22.

HERSEY 25, ELK GROVE 34

The first two spots belonged to the hosting Grenadiers, but after that it was all Hersey as the Huskies took the next six places and the victory.

Brian Powell, third-best runner in all conference meets thus far with eight first places and two seconds in 10 meets, had quite an afternoon again. His winning time of 15:19 was both a school and course record over 3.0 miles at Busse Woods. The next man, 19 seconds behind, was teammate Damian Archbold.

Following in succession for Hersey were Jay McCarthy (15:44), John Jones (15:57), Ron Stephani (16:07), Tom Burridge (16:20), Dan Leider (16:32), Chris Cooney (16:33) and Dave Jones (16:43). Sneaking in ahead of the latter, each with 16:37, were Dave Jackson and Dave Dill of Elk Grove.

Also running for the Grenadiers were Duane Fitkowitz, Pete Gianaris and Mike Fiscus.

Hersey triumphed 15-45 in the soph meet with Henry Regard taking top honors in 15:51. The Huskie frosh also were victorious, 21-39.

WHEELING 22, ROLL. MEADOWS 35

The Wildcats notched their fourth league victory with five of the top seven runners over a three-mile course on the winners' grounds. Bruce Messinger was the winner by 13 seconds with a 15:53 time while John Kreutzer of Rolling Meadows took second.

Brian Crehan was third for the 'Cats with 16:28 and Rich Jensen fourth for Meadows with 16:37. Wheeling then had three more quickly hit the finish line — Steve Wilhelm in 16:43, Jeff Schuster in 16:45 and Jim Leeper in 16:52.

The Mustangs' other runners were Jerry Porters in eighth, Jim Huddleston in ninth, Craig Dahlquist in 12th and Mike Suerth in 14th. Wheeling's others were Ron Broadhead (10th) and Paul Scheffel (11th).

Wheeling won the soph meet 24-31 with Rolling Meadows' Mike Scott the leading individual with 16:59. The 'Cats had an easier time in the frosh contest, 15-40, as Wheeling's Mike Cormack won in 11:11 over two miles.

The 'Cats had downed Barrington 23-36 in a non-league tussle Monday. Messinger was second with 15:59, Wilhelm third with 16:12, Crehan fifth with 16:27, Schuster sixth with 16:30 and Leeper seventh with 16:42.

A combined frosh-soph match was easily won by Wheeling, 19-42, as Cormack again was the winner with 17:15 for three miles.

PALATINE 15, GLENBARD NORTH 50

The Pirates, whose only defeat in 10 league meets was against Fremd, was totally dominant against Glenbard with the first nine places and a good spread.

In order, performances were Scott Williams' 12:54, Paul Kearns' 12:55, Dave Tehle's 12:58, Bill O'Neill's 13:01, Steve Peterson's 13:06, Rick Scholl's 13:10 and John Thullen's 13:11. Carl Kiewert, who has a sophomore winning streak, also ran varsity and was eighth.

Palatine had no trouble on either lower level, winning the soph affair 17-46 and the frosh competition 19-42. Respective winners were Mike Masucci in 13:47 and Pete Kearns in 11:21.

First Pass Unplanned

The forward pass has for so many years been such an integral part of football that fans naturally take it for granted. The pass is a natural maneuver for excitement and was bound to be introduced sooner or later, but its inception was entirely accidental.

Reportedly, the first pass ever thrown was in a college game between North Carolina and Georgia. A ball carrier, trapped behind the line of scrimmage, flipped an unplanned aerial just four yards ahead to another startled player who raced 70 yards for the game's only touchdown. That was in 1895.

It wasn't until 1905 that forward pass officially was accepted as legal and not until 1913 did it make a big splash. In that year, little Notre Dame sprung a tremendous upset on mighty Army as halfback Gus Dorais completed 17 passes to an unknown end named Knute Rockne.

From that day on, the pass revolutionized football, doing much to make it the great game it is today.

Hoffman Estates Football

by AL REZNIK

A new Widget league leader and the continued dominance of the Pee Wee league Bears are the big stories in Hoffman Estates Athletic Association Pop Warner football circles this week.

The Widget Browns made it five straight victories last Saturday and avenged their only loss via a 20-6 triumph over the Chiefs; the victory moved the Browns into first place, a half-game ahead of the Chiefs and a game ahead of the Falcons, the Browns' opponents in the 1:30 p.m. feature at Hillcrest Field this Saturday.

The Bears continued to roll over all comers, this time swamping the Lions, 31-0. That's five straight wins for the as yet unscored-upon Bears.

And the Pee Wee Chargers also made big news last Saturday, their 39-0 trouncing of the Steelers moving them into a first place division deadlock with the Saints. The Saints remain unbeaten, but twice tied, the latest a 0-0 defensive standoff with the Vikings. The two ties count a half-game won and lost, thus dropping the Saints into the tie with the Chargers, now four and one, the one loss suffered at the hands of the Saints.

In other action last week, the defending Widget champion Falcons bounced back from a loss to the Chiefs with a convincing 25-0 win over the Giants; Schaumburg edged winless Hanover Park, 6-0, in the third Widget contest, while the Packers edged the Cowboys, 13-7, in the fourth Pee Wee encounter.

The Browns vs. Chiefs game was a hard-hitting struggle from the opening kickoff, each team suffering from fumbleitis (the hard-hitting having a lot to do with that). The Browns fumbled six times and lost the ball each time, while the Chiefs lost two of their four fumbles.

The Browns took an early first period lead, thanks in the main to a pair of mental lapses on the part of the Chiefs. A Chief allowed the opening kickoff to roll to their two yard line before he downed it; when the Chiefs couldn't move and were forced to punt, it took the Browns just two plays to score. On the ensuing kickoff, a Chief safety grabbed the ball on the five and ran back into the end zone thinking he had earned a touchback; instead, it was a safety and an 8-0 Browns lead.

From there until the fourth quarter, it was rock-em-sock-em, with neither team mounting a sustained drive. The Browns gave up the ball four times in the first half, via three fumbles and an interception, but the Chiefs could not dent the rock-ribbed Browns defense.

The third period was marked by two more Browns' turnovers, but again the Chiefs couldn't move. Then, it was the Chiefs turn to play giveaway; and the Browns took advantage. The Chiefs fumbled a punt early in the fourth period at midfield; five plays later the Browns moved into paydirt.

Three plays later, the Browns intercepted a Chiefs' pass, but quickly coughed up the ball via a fumble. This time, the Chiefs reached the end zone. On the most spectacular play of the day, Ron Jurgenson, fading from his 30 yard line, hit Mike Gilbert on the Browns 35 from where the Chiefs' speedster scampered into the end zone for a 70 yard TD.

The Browns came right back and marched 50 yards in 11 plays, overcame a 15-yard penalty, and scored their final six-points.

Ray Powell and Keith Eibel again were the big guns for the Browns, the former scoring twice, on runs of one and eight yards, the latter scoring on a six yard run. Also turning in a good offensive effort were backs Brian Ward and Gene Mapes.

Browns coaches cited Dave Hart for two fumble recoveries as well as the interceptions made by Powell and Kevin Hubbard. Their defense was led by Cary Knitter, Mike Case, Hart, Hubbard, Mike Zwolenski and Chuck Lents.

Special mention went to Chiefs' Brian Moore, Tom Gallo and Dave Hundreiser, with 14 tackles and assists, while Ton Donowski accounted for nine unassisted tackles.

Jim Connell put the Pee Wee Bears on the scoreboard on the opening kickoff, returning it 50 yards for a touchdown. And before the afternoon was over, Connell scored twice more, on runs of 10 and nine yards, as he led the Bears to a 31-0 win over the Lions.

The game was makred by an aerial show on the part of the Lions; they threw 20 passes and accounted for six first downs and 57 yards in the air, but never could click when the end zone was in sight. Those 57 yards were the most given up by the Bears in one game this season.

The Bears, meanwhile, featured ball control, with Terry McCoy, who scored on a 13 yard scamper, Gary Kemnitz, Bret Mueller and Frank Vlasaty turning in sharp offensive performances. Vlasaty scored his first Pee Wee touchdown via a one-yard plunge.

Bears offensive coach Ed Connell cited the super-charged play of his line as the key to the victory, giving special praise to Bob Weitzel, Mike Miller, Dave Mulcahy, Mike Lents, Mark Jazwinski, Gary Breneman, Robby Sopkin and Andy Grow.

The Lions' staff cited Roy Goldman, Don Gipson, John Gould and Bobby Joseph for outstanding defensive play, as well as the performance of Kevin Hester, playing his first game at center. The Lions' passing attack featured Goldman throwing to Gould and Joseph.

John Connell and Joe Rice led Coach Bob Slania's Chargers to their fourth straight win, 39-0, over the Steelers. Connell gained 135 yards rushing and scored three times, while Rice excited the crowd with touchdown runs of 45 and 15 yards. The winners' sixth touchdown came on a 25 yard sweep by Tom Prathers. Don Grahams converted three times.

Outstanding blocking performances were turned in by Chargers Grall, Nolan, Stoops, Pish, Farrell, Fannella and Murray, while Miller, Holmes, Piers, O'Dowd, Westcott and Timmons led the way on defense.

The Widget Falcons simply had too much offensive and defensive power for the Giants, scoring twice in the opening quarter, again in the second period and once more in the second half for a relatively easy 25-0 victory.

The super-charged Falcons' defense held the Giants to 50 net yards in 34 rushing plays, didn't allow them to complete a pass in five tries, intercepting two, and recovered three Giants fumbles. Credit for the interceptions went to Jimmy Murphy, who returned his grab 38 yards, and Rich Schenk. Rich Doan covered two Giants fumbles, while Mitch Reznik recorded the third after causing the bobble with a jarring tackle. Doan accounted for 10 solo tackles, while Reznik had six solos and five assists.

Falcons' halfback-quarterback Marty Pugh again turned in a superlative performance; he scored twice — on runs of 28 and 45 yards, caught one pass for eight yards, threw two pass completions, and rushed 13 times for 121 yards.

Doan accounted for a third Falcon touchdown, plunging a yard into paydirt, while Murphy accounted for the fourth touchdown on a dive. Mike Daly converted once for the winners. Murphy enjoyed perhaps his finest afternoon; besides scoring his first Widget TD and intercepting that pass, he rushed five times for 26 yards and caught one pass for two yards.

In all, the Falcons tuned up for taking on the high-flying Browns by rushing for 201 yards, adding 12 more in the air. Eighteen different Falcons defenders were involved in tackles, while offensive linemen Dan Durkin, Jay Langland, Greg Bomkamp and Steve Hillman turned in sparkling performances.

The Giants staff cited fullback Mike Manfrin and halfback Brent Dixon for outstanding play.

The third Widget game was a defensive struggle between Schaumburg and Hanover Park, the former squeaking out a 6-0 win. Schaumburg, winning its second game, was led by the offensive efforts of Brett Anderson and Mike Ruble, while Hanover Park's staff cited Bob Schumacher and Steve Homolka for outstanding play.

The Pee Wee Packers scored early in their 13-7 win over the Cowboys. Dennis Steinhoff blocked a punt and Stuart Thompson recovered it in the end zone. Frank Huckin accounted for the extra point. The second Packers touchdown came on a 14-yard pass from Huckin to Dean Koif; the PAT failed.

Nick Mueller accounted for the Cowboys touchdown, on a 45 yard run; he also scored the extra point.

Cited for outstanding play were Jay Hassell and Dave Farr of the Packers and Jeff Berg, Randy Kosrow and Jon Langland for the Cowboys.

The Saints-Vikings game was a defensive struggle from start to finish. Three times the Vikings got inside the Saints 10, but each time the hard-hitting Saints defenders caused the Vikes to cough up the ball — once on the one-foot line. The closest the Saints came was late in the fourth quarter, when two passes were missed in the end zone.

Viking standouts were Grey Wedick, with five tackles and 11 assists, Jerry Erpito, 12 tackles and five assists, and Ken Seminick, with 10 tackles and five assists.

The Saints staff called the efforts of their defensive unit "outstanding," particularly in those last ditch stands.

The game was even in the statistics, too, the Vikings gaining 88 yards, the Saints, 81.

Ontario Hockey Teams Visit And Show Power

Returning a visit made by Arlington Heights Minor Hockey League teams last spring, Midget and Juvenile teams from Bradford, Ontario (population 3000) were hosted by the Arlington league all-star midgets and juveniles and their parents.

The Bradford boys stayed at the homes of the Arlington team.

Despite beng outmanned in all the games, fielding two lines against three for the hosts, and playing five games in two days, the Bradford Juvenile team swept all five of their games, and the midget team, which included two boys from the Bantam and PeeWee groups, won two, lost two and tied one.

Bradford topped Arlington 7-1 in the first game with Retzer scoring the only Heights goal, assisted by Walsh.

In their second meeting in the Midget competition the two teams tied 3-3 with Walsh scoring a pair and Hudec one for Arlington. Hass and Santelli had assists.

In Juvenile action Bradford posted two victories by 6-1 and 6-4 counts. Glander had the only goal in the first game for Arlington, assisted by Brawley, and Glander (2), Lear, and Brawley scored in the second meeting. Geddis (2), Brawley, Glader, and Bannerman had assists.

In other games on a Midget level the Chicago Minor Hawks beat Bradford 6-3 and Wilmette won 3-2 but Bradford defeated Palatine 5-0.

In Juvenile play Bradford beat Chicago Minor Hockey 4-1, Palatine 12-2 and Wilmette 2-1 in addition to the two victories over Arlington Heights.

Harper Harriers 6th In Blackhawk Invite

Harper College finished sixth in a big 21-team field in the Blackhawk Invitational cross country meet at Moline, which drew teams from as far as Minnesota and St. Louis.

The Hawks of coach Bob Nolan, unbeaten in duals and favored to win the Skyway Conference for the third straight year, ended up a notch ahead of College of DuPage — the team which usually dominates Harper's region. The Hawks will be trying to better DuPage again in the important Region IV meet Oct. 28.

Ron Hankel, formerly of Prospect High School, was Harper's best runner with 22:11 over a tough, hilly four-mile course and against a big pack of runners. Bill Bates, a Forest View alum, was 18th with 22:26, Mike DeLaBruere 24th with 22:40, Tom Klinker 57th with 25:15 and Larry Cyrier 63rd with 24:41. Mike Mills and Brian Rehman also competed for Harper.

Gordie Benfield, who was fifth in the nation among junior college runners last year, was the winner with an outstanding 20:47 time, a full minute better than last year's winning time in this meet. Golden Valley (Minn.) won the team title.

Lion Star Closes Fast For Win

Turning back his toughest challenge to date, Bill Ellsworth provided plenty of excitement Tuesday as St. Viator won a meet against St. Patrick, 23-35.

Ellswotth is still undefeated in conference dual meets, but that status was in doubt all the way through the 2.85-mile race on the St. Viator grounds. He was trailing most of the way but came from behind at the finish to nip Bob McUne of St. Patrick by two seconds. Ellsworth's time was 13:54.

The Shamrocks also claimed third place but the Lions grabbed the next five spots in a row to assure victory. Mark Nelles recorded a 14:53 time, Bob Kohn 15:07, Tom Orchell 15:14, Mike Chmela 15:21 and Kevin Mooney 15:23.

Nelles, Kohn and Mooney all are doing well on the varsity level though only sophomores.

Without those three, the Lions' frosh-soph group was defeated by St. Patrick 21-36. Tim Hendricks led St. Viator with 15:53 for fourth place.

The Lions are at home again Thursday against Carmel.

Pirate Sophs Win; Frosh Second

Palatine enjoyed the most success in its own frosh-soph cross country invitational last week with first place on the sophomore level and second among frosh units. Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows were other Herald area teams competing.

The Pirates had the top two runners in the soph event at their Palatine Hills Golf Club course. Carl Kiewert's first place, Bill O'Neill's second and Bob Guthrie's seventh paved the way. Behind Kiewert's string of individual wins, the Palatine sophs have won eight of 10 Mid-Suburban League meets.

The host frosh were led by Pete Kearns in their runner-up performance.

Schaumburg was fourth on both levels with Mike Palmer's 12th place leading the Saxon sophs and Mike Brown's 15th pacing the frosh. The sophs have lost only twice in the league and the freshmen are undefeated and headed toward a showdown against also-undefeated Conant next Tuesday.

Rolling Meadows' sophs took fifth place and the first-year men sixth. The sophomores were led by Jim Conroy's eighth and Mike Scott's ninth, while Steve Lehman's third topped the frosh.

New Trier East was the winner of the frosh meet.

Trotters Play In 11,056th Game Next Monday Evening

Meadowlark Lemon

When the Harlem Globetrotters play at Arlington High School gym Monday, Oct. 16, it'll be the 11,056th game of their career, which dates back to Jan. 7, 1927.

The Magicians of Basketball, led by their fabled court jester, Meadowlark Lemon, and dribbling phenom Freddie (Curly) Neal, open their 47th season two days earlier — Saturday, Oct. 14 — with a first-ever appearance at Bradley University in Peoria.

Their record, which covers 89 countries on all six continents, shows 10,730 victories against 323 losses.

They were last beaten Jan. 5, 1971, 100-99, in Martin, Tenn., by the Boston Shamrocks — their Oct. 16th opponents at Arlington. That loss broke a winning stteak of 2,495 games which had extended from April of 1962, when the College All-Stars defeated the Trotters at Denver, Colo.

Tickets are on sale at Cunningham-Reilly, 45 S. Dunton, The Bank & Trust Co. at Arlington Market, Tollway-Arlington National Bank, Yardstick Shop at North Point Shopping Center and Palatine Tailored Drapery.

Palatine Hockey League Sign-Up Through Oct. 21

Registration is being held for the Palatine Amateur Hockey League at the Park District Administration Building, 262 E. Palatine Rd., through Saturday, Oct. 21. Hours will be 9-5 during the week and 9-12 on Saturdays.

Each boy must bring positive proof of age and at least one parent to sign up. The league takes no medical responsibilities.

There will be no cuts from the program. Each boy between the ages of seven and 16 who registers by Saturday, Oct. 21 will be placed on a team and play in the games.

There will be a new Mite traveling all-star team this year. All of the traveling teams are in addition to the regular house program. A team jersey and goalie equipment will be provided. The boys must provide their own helmet, external mouth guards, heavy gloves, sticks, skates and pads.

The house league teams will have indoor ice at the new Spectrum on a regular basis from Oct. 31 through March 24. In addition to indoor ice, there will again be a full schedule of outdoor practices and games in January and February. All told, each team will have about a 30 to 35-game season with 18 to 20 games outdoors.

House league fees will be as follows: First boy in family, $15 for residents; $20 for non-residents in the Mite Division. For the Squirt, Pee Wee, Bantam and Midget Divisions: first boy in family for residents $30 and $35 for non-residents. There will be a $5 discount for each boy after the first in a family for residents only.

Plans Candy Sale

This Saturday, Oct. 14, all boys skating for the Palatine Pirates Hockey Club (and adult advisors, friends and coaches) will be conducting a candy sale at the local shopping centers. Purpose of the sale is to raise funds for the upcoming seasons play in the Chicago Metropolitan High School Hockey League.

While all of the boys are students of Palatine High School and are competing in the Chicago Metropolitan High School League, the sport is not included in the interscholastic curriculum. Therefore, all monies must be raised by the boys on their own. The candy sale is one way for the boys to accomplish their goal.

County To Slash Its Budget 15%

County Board Pres. George Dunne announced the Cook County operating budget for fiscal 1973 will be reduced 15 per cent from the current budget in anticipation of lower county revenue for the year.

Dunne said the cutback will mean substantial reductions in the offices of the county clerk, recorder and treasurer. At a press conference Tuesday, Dunne said he has also ordered a freeze on wages for county employes during the fiscal year and said the budget reductions will "bring about a curtailment of some services."

He said he would avoid ordering reductions in welfare, health, the sheriff's department, Audy Home or the criminal and juvenile courts, but added, "This will not rule out something in the nature of the sheriff finding a cut he can make of a nonpersonnel nature, such as supplies."

Sheriff Richard Elrod recently asked the board to approve the expenditure of more funds for his office to enable him to move his offices, and communications center to a new facility in west suburban Berkeley. The building would also house a police training facility and state crime lab, according to Elrod's plans.

DUNNE SAID HE has instructed county department heads to redraft their budget requests before turning them in his office by early December. Formal budget hearings for the county corporate budget have not yet been scheduled, but Dunne has been meeting with department heads recently to discuss their needs and appropriations.

The county president said he is unable to estimate how many county employes will be laid off until the budget estimates are in. He said some county workers will be laid off on or before Dec. 1, the beginning of the county's 1973 fiscal year.

The cutbacks are necessary, Dunne said, because the county revenues for fiscal 1973 are not expected to exceed $105 million.

The current county budget is for $127.5 million, with $8 million for election costs. Because there will be no elections in the county in the next fiscal year, the 15 per cent reduction will be taken from the remaining $119.5 million.

"We are doing this with the aim and desire in mind of our pledge that there will be no increase in the property tax," Dunne said.

THE COUNTY BOARD recently adopted a resolution calling for a freeze on the current county tax rate of 20.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Dunne said the frozen tax rate and the tieup of alternative sources of income through pending lawsuits has reduced the total amount the county will have to work with.

The sources to which he referred include the proposed county wheel tax, the tax on mobile home owners and a tax on the purchase of new automobiles in the county. Also, bills designed to consolidate the county and state public aid departments and to allow the county to collect taxes four times a year have not yet been approved by the General Assembly.

The county has also received a financial setback through the new constitution, which prevents the county from receiving a commission on the collection of taxes for other taxing bodies.

Dunne said the county entered fiscal 1972 with a $17 million surplus through the collection of those commissions. He said there will be no surplus next year, leaving the county with only $105 million expected revenue.

C&NW Ponders Next Profit Step

Chicago and North Western Railway officials may announce within the next 30 days their next step in what they view as the line's continuing battle for profitability.

The move, hinted as early as July, could be for a cutback in commuter service, or a pitch for another fare increase.

According to Harold Lenske, the C&NW's director of commuter services, the line's riders will be among the first to know through the railroad's technique of distributing flyers on board trains when it has something significant to announce.

THE RAILWAY HAS HAD several measures under consideration since July when the Illinois Commerce refused to grant the 7 per cent commuter fare hike it had requested. The commission allowed the C&NW to boost fares by an average 5¼ per cent.

Possible cutbacks of commuter service during off-peak hours, fare increases, and layoffs of personnel are among the considerations.

Commenting on the upcoming decision and its effect on the suburban commuters, Lenske said, "Not only do we want to first explain any proposal to our riders in the form of flyers, but we will also go out to the large municipalities to explain to the city councils the aspects of our service."

Profitability is sinking, said a company spokesman Wednesday. Labor costs rose Oct. 1 of this year and are slated to rise sharply again next spring.

A problem for the C&NW is the competition of the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA). Since the CTA started up its Jefferson Park commuter operation early in 1970, the railway lost 3 per cent of its riders. This means a loss of $450,000 a year in revenues.

"THE IRONY OF this is that Arlington Heights riders, for example, are paying for this twice," continued the spokesman, "through taxes which go to their subsidies and through the added fares to make up for lost revenues."

Should the C&NW proposal take the form of a service cutback, all three lines of commuter service in the Chicago area will be affected. Off-peak hours of service are mid-day and late evening hours.

Looking for ways to increase revenues or cut costs without offending its customers is difficult, the spokesman said. The railway wants to maintain the goodwill of its riders, averaging 45,000 persons a day. An added 5,000 persons a day take short intermediate train routes.

Any proposed change in schedules or fares must be approved by the ICC before it can be implemented.

The railway will be in even more financial trouble if the CTA lines are extended to O'Hare International Airport, said the C&NW spokesman of future operations. "If they go to O'Hare, it's just going to kill us," he said. "There's a limit on how long people are going to remain loyal riders when costs go up. We have to live out of the fare box, but the CTA does not."

The C&NW is advocating the formation of a Chicago area mass transit district as a solution to its financial worries. The proposed Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System would acquire the operations of 25 carriers including the CTA, six commuter railway lines and bus lines.

Big Changes Planned At Harper

by TOM WELLMAN

Imagine, if you will, the Northwest suburbs' Harper College 10 or so yers from now.

If some of the persons considering possible long-range plans have their way, the college could have, by that time:

—A second campus to complement the present campus located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine;

—A cultural center, designed not only to serve the 20,000 or so students, but also local communities;

—A thorough system to evaluate how effectively the college is serving and educating its students;

—Grading which permits students to retake courses in which they've earned a D or an F 8 with the improved grade counting on the transcript;

—Special programs to aid Spanish-speaking students;

—Change in the calendar to end the fall semester by Christmas.

All of these possibilities have been studied for months by the college's long-range planning committee, which Tuesday night presented its final plan to the Harper College Board of Trustees.

No action was taken on the document. The first part of it, dealing with the second campus, was discussed last week. Final action on the document is expected in November.

College Pres. Robert Lahti, spoke out strongly early in the meeting for state support for cultural facilities for Harper.

Speaking during a discussion of the committee's reort on a cultural center, Lahti assailed the state for failing to meet the culture needs of community college students.

Arguing the college should be able to provide a "smorgasbord of cultural and physical education activities" for its students, the president said the dramatic and fine arts should be provided for students of community colleges as they are for high school and four-year-college students.

The 10 members of the long-range committee — three administraors, five teaches and one student — have been meeting for two years to develop the longrange plan.

In the wake of its first anniversary, Woodfield Mall, the world's largest shopping center, marks its expansion with a Lord and Taylor wing.

Woodfield Celebrates First Year

by MARILYN HEISER

A cake for 10,000 people and groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Lord and Taylor clothing store wing will be part of the festivities today as Woodfield Mall celebrates its first anniversary.

As the first year ends, Woodfield, at Golf Road and Ill. Rte. 53, Schaumburg, boasts 150 stores. Approximately 50 more stores are to open in the original mall section, said Jerry O'Neil, center manager. The wing under constructin, anchored by Lord and Taylor, will contain 30 or 40 more stores.

The wing is expected to open in August or September, O'Neil said. Lord and Taylor is one of five stores the firm is opening in the Chicago area.

In describing the first year of business, O'Neil said crowds have been exceptionally good, even in the summer, which is usually the off season in the retail business.

THE PEAK SEASON, of course, is the Christmas holidays, and Woodfield expects another onslaught of customers this year, O'Neil said.

Woodfield has met every expectation, and more, he said. The world's largest shopping center draws from 60 miles away, although the prime market area, O'Neil said, is 10 miles in radius.

There are 600,000 to 700,000 people within 10 miles of the center, and one million within 20 miles.

SHOPPING TOURS have attracted people from Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa and Michigan. Last Christmas, 60 shopper buses were parked in the lot on one day, O'Neil said.

Approximately 5 to 10 shopper buses are regularly bringing women to Woodfield each day, he said. To capitalize on this, Woodfield Associates are mailing packages to bus companies in the five states to encourage them to sponsor shopper tours.

Marshall Field and Co. has offered a $3 meal to the bus companies as part of the shopping tour package.

Additionally, Woodfield has joined the Chicago Convention Bureau, the only shopping center to do so. This entitles them to the list of every convention that comes to the Chicago area.

"We're encouraging every head of each convention to send the wives here to shop, while their husbands are at business meetings," O'Neil said.

IN FACT, he said Woodfield is such a spectacle that people come to visit from all over the world. Tours from Japan, Switzerland, Germany, Canada, France, Belgium, and England, are among the foreign excursions to the center.

"GERMAN AND Japanese visitors are particularly common. If I lead any more Geman tours this week, I'll begin speaking German," O'Neil said.

Most of the foregn tours are groups of men who are shopping center developers, retailers, financiers, food, and beverage manufacturers. This week, a group of German brewers toured the center.

Does Woodfield send out promotion to foreign countries? "We don't solicitate such tours. The word has just spread. The architecture, beautiful design, and number of stores have just become an attraction," O'Neil said.

Woodfield has tried for a good mix in its variety of stores and restaurants, O'Neil said. With its 17 restaurants, three snack shops, eight candy and ice cream stores, and various retail shops, O'Neil said the center has rather scientifically determined which stores will be an asset and draw well.

THE ONLY SHOPS which have closed were part of large chains that closed nationally, he said.

If this year's large crowds and enormous retail sales are any indication, Woodfield is in for another good year.

An Important Seminar/Lecture on
for everyone interested in developing mental powers

Recently, many national publications such as LIFE, GLAMOUR, and THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, featured articles on "BRAIN WAVES" and "BRAIN TRAINING." These articles discussed a fantastic breakthrough, a new science dealing with the conscious control of brain waves.
This new science is called Alphagenics and concerns itself with the Alpha rhythms of brain. Noted researchers discussed how any person can learn to control brain waves and revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man with self-control of his brain waves. Exploration of this almost unknown continent — the human brain — has been pioneered by a soft-spoken para-psychologist, Jose Silva, of the institute of Psychorientology in Laredo, Texas. This sincere, dedicated scientist has been training people to enhance Alpha Brain Wave production for many years.
ALPHA BRAIN WAVE FUNCTION — Twenty-six years ago Silva and his associates began their research in Mind Control to see if it was possible to increase a person's IQ factor. Amazingly, Silva discovered that not only could IQ be increased but a person trained in this technique could even control certain areas of the Autonomic System — heart beat, respiration, blood pressure, etc. The implications of this breakthrough with regard to health and disease were staggering. With Mind Control, students have reported that they have been able to control pain, accelerate healing, eliminate insomnia, migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems. In-depth studies also revealed that anyone with a normal brain and sufficient training could develop so called ESP and clairvoyance.
60,000 GRADUATES — COAST TO COAST — Three years ago the Institute decided to release their findings to the general public. Techniques had been refined to where only a few hours of class time were all that was required to become a truly effective person.
RESULTS GUARANTEED — With the mastery and the enhancement of Alpha Brain Wave function, students have reported they could relax anytime they desire, banish anxiety and tension, eliminate pain, enhance learning capacity and memory, eliminate bad habits, create good habits and control weight and smoking. By learning to function at the Alpha level you will easily develop psychic power and learn practical applications of ESP. Become a better student, parent, employee or employer and a more effective problem solver.

TV's Impact On The Public

by RICK Du BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — What kind of direct, personal impact can television stars have on the home audience? Apparently considerable, in the view of several major national organizations concerned with public safety and health.

For instance, ABC-TV notes that starting with this new video season, Robert Young, star of the "Marcus Welby, M.D." series, is seen "wearing a shoulder belt whenever he is filmed in his car."

ABC-TV also says that stars of its "Partridge Family" series "will climb aboard two-wheelers for the first Partridge family American Cancer Society 'Bike-A-Thon' on Saturday, Oct. 28 and Sunday, Oct. 29.

SHIRLEY JONES, David Cassidy and other regulars in the series will participate in a riding-for-dollars campaign to fight cancer. Contributions will have been pledged in advance by sponsors recruited by each participant.

"A stipulated sum for each mile pedaled is promised. Like the Partridges, whole families can ride together and may even choose to 'sponsor' themselves."

Last television season, a drama special that had considerable viewer impact was ABC-TV's "Brian's Song," about the friendship of two athletes — Brian Piccolo, a white Chicago Bears football player who died in his twenties of cancer, and Gale Sayers, a black teammate. In addition to its many other honors, the film teleplay this past summer won the Prague International Television Festival's award for "Best Camera Work."

The video impact of a single program can cause viewers to respond in sizable numbers by mail and phone. Example: At least several thousand letters have been received by NBC-TV's "Bonanza" series because of the Sept. 12 two-hour season debut in which a son in the show's family Michael Landon married a girl later murdered.

MANY LETTERS have protested the girl's death. Though Landon starred in the program as well as being writer and director, it originally was conceived for Dan Blocker, the much-admired "Bonanza" son who died in May of a blood clot.

NBC-TV says Landon has been sending a letter to viewers who protested. In the letter he says, "The loss of Dan Blocker was a tremendous blow to all of us who have been so close to him for 14 years . . . The loss of Alice Cartwright was our way of expressing the great loss of Dan Blocker. In other words, we needed to cry."

Homes of the Northwest Suburbs

The Split level Ranch

The inviting split level has become a favorite of Midwest home owners due to its interesting traffic pattern and excellent use of floor space. Three separate levels offer a spacious attitude of harmony and personality with the basement level, main floor level and the generous upper level for secluded bedrooms.

The split level offers space for a generous family room on the main floor, perfectly situated for total family relaxation and handy, convenient entertaining, and the entire home design allows for both formal and conversational areas.

From the exterior, the split level offers numerous elevations to suit the personality of the home owner and the community, one of the many reasons that makes the split level one of Northwest Suburban Illinois' most popular and desirable home styles.

Hoffman Rosner Sales

Up 94% In Six Months

Hoffman Rosner Corp. reported that sales rose 94 per cent to $20,726,000 in the six months ended Aug. 31, from $10,705,000 in the same period last year.

The Hoffman Estates-based firm reports net income for the first half increased to $603,000 or 44 cents per share, compared to $348,000, or 25 cents a share, in the first six months a year ago.

Sales in the second quarter ended Aug. 31, increased 69 per cent to $11,318,000, from $6,680,000 in the three months a year ago. Net income in the period increased to $273,000 or 20 cents a share, from $259,000, or 19 cents a share, in the three months ended Aug. 31.

NET NEW CONTRACTS entered into during the second quarter were 202 units, compared to 240 units in the same period a year ago. The backlog of homes to be delivered was 377 units valued at $12.1 million, a change from 455 units valued at $13.7 million at the same point in 1971.

"Sales and earnings rose for the fifth consecutive quarter, compared to the same periods in previous years," Jack Hoffman, chairman of the diversified development and home building firm, said. "This improvement should continue for the balance of the fiscal year based on scheduled closings, although the rate of increase will be lower because of slackening demand for housing in the company's principal markets.

"While our sales and earnings are not growing as rapidly as anticipated this fiscal year, we expect the final two quarters will be ahead of the same two quarters a year ago," Hoffman said.

Hoffman noted that the company is moving ahead with plans to open new locations which will contribute to overall volume. Jerry J. Berger, recently elected senior vice president, has been given responsibility for establishing the organization for the company's planned New Jersey communities which will serve the New York City-Philadelphia markets.

Jordan E. Glazov, formerly house legal counsel and newly elected vice president, will relocate to New Jersey to direct Hoffman Rosner's eastern land and zoning activities.

PLANS ARE ALSO in progress to open a new development in Lake County in early 1973.

"We are also planning new housing products which we believe will have great market appeal and, at the same time, a greater earnings potential for the company," Hoffman said.

"In addition, our real estate division, which is already a significant profit center, is increasing its activities, and is expected to become more important in our earnings picture." This division is principally engaged in the sale of parcels of land from the company's zoned inventory of land to other developers.

Hoffman Rosner Corp. currently is building single-and multi-family homes in Bolingbrook, Bloomingdale, Frankfort, and Aurora.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought an $18,000 home in 1963—today it's worth about $24,200. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all it's worth . . . and keep it that way with automatic Inflation Coverage.

Space, Eye Appeal Basic To Normandy Hill Concept

Lots of room, for both "looking and living" is the built-in theme on which Normandy Hill — distinctive townhome and apartment home comdominiums at 4000 Dundee Rd., just east of Sanders Road, in Northbrook — bases its planning and success.

Visitors and residents find many pleasant and attractive views from their balconies, patios and windows. The exterior styling of the widely-spaced buildings offer an appealing charm not ususally found in today's condominium concepts — and this is enhanced by the semi-formal landscaping and curving drives.

And in the apartment homes, themselves, the accent is on spacious plan and uncrowded living, with a wide choice of layout and total floor area.

Typical of the Normandy Hill concept of a well-planned apartment home, with lots of space for "looking and living," is The Marseille, priced at $54,500.

THIS IS A DESIRABLE two-bedroom, two-bath "end unit," at the extreme end of its attractive three-story building, with a large balcony-terrace over 16 feet long.

Total area of The Marseille approximates 1750 square feet. The living room measures well over 23 feet in length and nearly 16 feet in width, and has insulated sliding window doors at the balcony end of the room. At the other end, a wide doorway opens into the formal dining room, approximately 16 feet by 12 feet in size.

Across the distributing corridor, is the family room-kitchen. This measures over twenty-five feet long, with the cabinets, work counters and appliances in a convenient U-layout. Included are self-cleaning double oven, vented hood, garbage disposal, automatic dishwasher and double-bowl sink. Cabinets are of attractive custom-styled wood, and buyers have a wide choice of colors for counters and flooring.

The extensive choice of colors and styling also applies to the bathrooms — as it does throughout all Normandy Hill townhomes and apartment homes. In the baths, buyers have a choice of vanities, decor of bath and shower enclosures, the cultured marble vanity tops, color of ceramic tile floors and walls, etc.

THE MASTER SUITE takes up an entire corner of The Marseille. It features its own dressing room and entry, with compartmented private bath and linen closet. The bedroom, itself, is well over 16 feet by 14 feet in size — and features a large closet stretching 16 feet across an entire wall.

The Marseille and other Normandy Hill condominiums have an extensive range of special attractions, including radio-controlled garage doors; elevator from garage to living floor; refuse disposal chute; closed circuit TV security system; complete sound-engineered constrction — and an exclusive clubhouse and facilities for residents and their guests. Exterior maintenance is year-'round.

Normandy Hill is located at 4000 Dundee Rd. (Rte. 68) in Northbrook. It is readily reached via Edens Expressway, turning west on Rte. 68 — or via Tri-State Tollway, turning east on Dundee Road. Models are open to inspection daily from 10 to 6, Sundays from 11 to 6.

Ground Broken For New Chain Of Restaurants

Ground has been broken for the first of a planned new chain of restaurants to be known as Ted Parker's Scotch & Sirloin.

Located near O'Hare Airport in the Chicago suburb of Schiller Park, the new $500,000 restaurant with a Western-style rustic exterior is being constructed on an acre of property on the west side of New River Road just north of Irving Park Blvd. Opening is projected for January of 1973.

For the ground-breaking a special ceremony was held at the triangular-shaped site with champagne poured and caviar served with Ted Parker, for whom the restaurant is named, acting as host. Parker is executive vice president of the restaurant firm developing the new chain, which includes three other principals, all associated with the suecessful Seven Eagles restaurant in suburban Des Plaines. Parker was formerly vice president and head of the Henrici's division of the John R. Thompson restaurant chain.

Plans for the new Ted Parker's Scotch & Sirloin will feature a menu with specialized steak and fish items and a self-service salad bar at which diners will be able to mix their own salads and dressings on an all-you-can-eat basis.

"In concept and format, design and decor, our new Scotch & Sirloin will have a number of innovations for Chicago area restaurants," noted Ted Parker. "While of moderate price range, we will be abel to serve the choicest of beef and seafood selections, including such specialties as Beef Wellington, Alaska King Crab as well as some unusual hamburger combinations, because our menu will be limited in scope and our operations geared to minimum labor requirements.

"Our self-service salad bar with a wide selection of salad dressings will be a dramatic display of huge mounds of various kinds of greens and other ingredients with instructions to diners on how they can mix their favorite salads from the simplest to special salads such as Caesar and Athenian. Diners will be able to help themselves to as much as they wish — and come back for seconds . . . all while their main entre is being prepared.

"Other innovations in restaurant service will also be offered to make Ted Parker's Scotch & Sirloin truly a distinctive unusual addition to the Chicago restaurant scene," Parker said.

In its exterior design Ted Parker's Scotch & Sirloin will borrow liberally from the motif of the U.S. Southwest with its Spanish-style arches and beamed ceilings as well as attractive landscaping that combines cactus with more conventional local bushes and trees. The interior with a total of 8,000 square feet will include three adobe fireplaces. The room will accommodate 125 persons and the cocktail lounge 70 persons.

The new Ted Parker's Scotch & Sirloin will have 485 feet of frontage on the west side of New River Road and parking space for 75 cars.

The second unit of Ted Parker's Scotch & Sirloin will be built in Rockford, Ill., adjoining the Northwest Tollway.

Architect for the new Scotch & Sirloin will be Peter M. Tsolinas & Associates and genaral contractor will be the Marathon Construction Co.

TED PARKER'S Scotch & Sirloin, as seen in artist's rendering, will be built near O'Hare Airport in suburban Schiller Park and is schueduled to open early next year.

Entertainment Complexes Bring Early Returns

The leisure-time, family entertainment complexes — the glamorous national attractions which draw up to 10 million or more tourists a year — begin helping the economy of an area almost as soon as the idea is born.

"When such a park is opened, pleasure-seekers by the carload and aboard special buses flock into the region, bringing many millions of leisure dollars with them. And the amusement center itself now becomes the biggest spender of all."

So observes Ray C. Wilson, chairman and managing trustee of Diversified Mortgage Investors, Boston, who notes that, "The communities, the state and small businesses in the vicinity of the entertainment centers are among the real beneficiaries — reaping the rewards of new tax dollars, new jobs, new business, new highways and new opportunities."

DIVERSIFIED MORTGAGE Investors is a multi-specialty real estate trust which has made over $500 million in mortgage loans since starting operations in late 1969. DMI shares are traded on the New York and other leading stock exchanges.

"Initial vibrations are felt in the real estate market in the vicinity of the amusement park," Wilson says. "Values generally tend to spurt ahead, then settle down for a long, steady climb coincident with the success of the venture."

Thousands of jobs with million-dollar-a-month-plus payrolls are created during the four-year period it takes to build a first class center, he says.

Local suppliers of building materials — lumber, concrete, paneling, plastics, roofing, landscaping and many others — gain from the $50-100 million it costs to open one of the glamorous complexes, Wilson says.

"In Maryland, for instance, where a proposed major amusement complex is proposed for completion by 1975, the state and local governments would expect to harvest new tax revenues of about $90 million over a 10-year period after the park opened.

"Orange County in Florida showed substantial increases in sales tax collections in May of this year — up 55 per cent over the same month a year ago," Wilson says. "Statewide sales taxes were up 22 per cent for the same period — the vast new amusement center near Orlando is one of the big reasons."

SIMILAR FINANCIAL gains were evident in the locale of other leading amusement centers — in Southern California, in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, in St. Louis and in Atlanta, he says.

The Maryland project — in the Washington, D.C., and Baltimore population corridor — is expected to pump $1.3 billion into the local economy in 10 years — $900 million coming from visitors, the rest from employment, construction and supplies, Wilson says.

"A new center of this magnitude probably will attract up to 5 million people in its first year of operation, then double its annual attendance within a year or two," Wilson adds. "It takes about 3,500 people to run a park like this — with payrolls running to more than $10 million a year.

Home Hunting 'Know How' Helps Transfered

Home-hunting 'know-how' helps frequently transferred employes settle comfortable and quickly into their new jobs — and new communities.

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, who notes that "members of a new family in a new neighborhood daily go their separate ways — but it is their home which enfolds them all at the end of the day."

Infestors Mortgage Insurance Co. is a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"The value of selecting the 'right' home is recognized by management. In the past, the husband might well have selected a home for his family — and both he and his company assumed all would go well. In other words, everyone would adapt to the new environment," Goss explains.

Today, many corporate managements pay the expenses of wives of transferees visiting their soon-to-be new communities for house-hunting purposes — sometimes as many as two visits before the actual move, he notes.

"If the wife is pleased with her new home, company officials believe it is reasonable to assume the employe will be happier — and more valuable — in his new position," Goss adds.

In searching for a new home, a wife looks for characteristics her husband may overlook — visualizing just how her furniture will fit, where the schools are, what kind of neighbors she will have, how far it is to the shopping center, the hospital, the hairdresser and a score of other "little woman" considerations, he points out. The man of the house may be mainly interested in the construction of the home, where his work bench will go and how long it takes to drive to and from work.

"After the final selection, the real estate closing and, eventually, moving in, the family finds its home a cozy shelter in a neighborhood of strangers. It is the 'coming back' place for all members of the family after varying daytime forays. It is here that family stability is recharged, where youngsters get to know their parents and where parents watch the children grow up," Goss observes.

"Someone has referred to the mobile family as 'friends among strangers.' This may often be true, but not for long. Most of the transferee set are friendly people — likely one of the reasons they are valuable enough to their employers to be transferred so frequently.

"Usually, after carefully selecting a home and a neighborhood, it is not long before the transferred family becomes transplanted — friends among friends — and then there are no strangers," Goss concludes.

Maybe we're not the "largest" BUT we are the FRIENDLIEST

Second Home Concept Introduced

Low-cost, luxury, second home leisure living is being introduced around the country in a new condominium concept — time-sharing occupancy or TSO as it is better known.

It is now possible to buy a condominium — completely furnished — in a resort area for one month each year.

So observes Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, who notes that "multi-ownership of units — with the resulting low individual purchase prices — will bring the second home status symbol within the economic reach of many thousands of families."

Continental Mortgage Investors (CMI), the nation's largest independently sponsored real estate trust in mortgage lending, has made more than $1.5 billion in mortgage loans since 1962. CMI shares are traded on the New York and other leading stock exchanges.

"The concept — taken from the time sharing techniques of the computer industry — is not without its problems. Since most resort areas have peak seasons, all of the owners are going to be clamoring for prime time. Obviously, all of the owners cannot occupy the 'home' at the same time," Holladay says.

"SEVERAL EQUITABLE solutions have been suggested by the condominium builders — higher prices for the peak months; dividing the months into bi-weekly components to give each owner an opportunity at in-season periods; or developing a rotating schedule of owner occupancy.

"The condominium's management reserves one month of the year for the complete refurnishing and refurbishing of the unit — assuring the owners an attractive home whenever the units are in occupancy," Holladay says.

"One builder is introducing one-bedroom units for $4,000. However, less pretentious layouts may be coming on the market soon at even lower prices," Holladay says.

"If TSO clicks in the condominium market, second home shoppers may soon find the concept applied to single-family vacation homes — particularly in the year-round resort areas. Entire communities may grow around golf courses, along the shore, around lakes and in the mountains — all of the homes sold on a TSO basis.

"Success in the single-family TSO home market will depend to a large degree on the ability of the management team to keep the homes presentable furnished and furbished.

"Most managements will establish escrow accounts for all owners — to pay for taxes and other management expenses," Holladay says.

"The TSO concept could well spark one of the real booms in second home construction — condominiums and single-family dwellings.

"For some families, it will be an opportunity to get away from the debt set and into the jet set — and on a feasible economic scale," Holladay says.

Walden Reports Record Rentals

An apparent pent-up demand for quality rental housing in Chicago's Northwest suburbs has resulted in record leasing activity at Walden, $200,000,000 planned unit development in Schaumburg.

"We've been renting at least 20 apartments a week, ever since construction of our 219-unit second phase was completed in August," said John Blyth, resident manager at Walden.

"If activity continues at this rate, we will be completely rented before the end of the year."

Construction of an additional 495 garden apartments, Walden's Phases III and IV, has begun in the southeast portion of the 155-acre planned unit developmnet, on the north side of the Northwest Tollway, half a mile west of the Ill. Rte. 53 interchange.

"First of the Phase III garden apartments will be available for occupancy in the spring of 1973," Blyth said.

"They are being built with the same attention to attractive, contemporary architecture and buildings' relationship to the environment that has characterized previous Walden construction," Blyth said.

In addition to demand for studio, one- and two-bedroom homes in the suburbs, "we feel that broad green vistas, extensive landscaping, recreation facilities and the lake-side setting of many apartments" have attracted residents to Walden, Blyth added.

Building A Dam? First You Need Planes

To build a dam, first you send airplanes. Sound crazy? It isn't.

Before the site for the dam can be selected a complete aerial topographic map must be made up from aerial photographs of the entire area. Then the designers look for a valley with a narrow neck which will create, when dammed, as large an impoundment of water as possible with as short a dam as possible.

When Russwood of Illinois selected an engineering firm to design a dam to create Lake Carroll for the second-home community it is building on 5,000 acres near Shannon, Ill., 26 miles southwest of Freeport, the firm chose L. Robert Kimball Consulting Engineers, Ebensburg, Pa.

Kimball has been servicing the recreational subdivision industry since 1960, and has completed over 30 projects for recreational second home communities.

OVER 300 AERIAL photographs of Lake Carroll were taken by Kimball's aerial photography division to create an aerial topographic map. The spot for the Lake Carroll dam was at the western end of the property, a natural water impoundment area. Here the east fork of the Plum River passes through a narrow valley which, when dammed, will produce a lake of over 600 surface acres. One of the features of the lake will be the "fingers" of the lake stretching into smaller valleys to give greater access to the water for all property owners along 13 miles of shoreline.

In addition to designing the dam, Kimball Engineering has designed the theater, ski-lodge, tennis clubhouse and marinas.

Kimball engineers will also supervise the construction of the Lake Carroll dam, which will take from 10 to 12 months to build. Construction will begin in the early spring of 1973 so that it can be finished in one season. After the dam is constructed it will take approximately 28 months for the lake to fill completely to its projected elevation of 740 feet. The impoundment will hold 4.8 billion gallons of water when filled. Water will collect from a drainage area of 21.9 square miles.

The top elevation of the dam is 750 feet; top width, 30 feet; bottom width, 430 feet; height above streambed, 75 feet. The total length of the dam will be 2,000 feet including the spillways. The embankment will contain 703,000 cubic feet of compacted earth.

WHEN YOU TRY TO SELL YOUR PROPERTY YOURSELF . . .

You face a long period of inconvenience, expense, tedious work and frustration.

Your chances of finding a buyer are not only limited but also diminish with the length of time the property remains unsold. It's much more difficult for an owner to "talk price" directly with a potential buyer than it is to negotiate through an experienced Real Estate salesperson.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign may as well say Curiosity Seekers, Welcome" because you'll find yourself again and again answering the doorbell for lookers who have no intention of buying. Your MAP Multiple Listing Service Real Estate salesman can screen the lookers from the qualified buyers and save you days of wasted time, trouble and energy.

Bank And Trust Begins Work On Branch Facility

ARCHITECT'S RENDERING of the Belmont Street branch of The Bank & Trust Company of Arlington Heights, which will include a 1,600-square-foot building and four canopied drive-up windows on an irregularly shaped lot previously occupied by a single-family home. Construction is scheduled to begin in October. Occupancy is expected in March, 1973.

Years of "waiting and hoping" will come to an end early in October when The Bank & Trust Company of Arlington Heights begins construction of a branch facility at the intersection of Northwest Highway and Belmont Street — on a lot formerly occupied by a single-family home.

Bank Pres. Fritz Wolf said the bank has needed additional facilities for years to cope with the dramatic growth it has experienced since opening in 1960. In the 12 years the bank's assets have soared from a little over $1 million to more than $50 million, and its initial capital has grown from $510,000 to $2,893,000 today.

Wolf lauded the efforts of Robert Walters, a vice president of Baird & Warner and district sales manager of the real estate firm's Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect offices. Walters was sole broker in the purchase of the irregularly-shaped, 12,000-square foot lot.

"Our problem goes beyond that of more space to handle growth. We have needed the right location that would combine efficiency with convenience to our customers and we've had our eye on our new site for years," Wolf said.

There was a legality to be dealt with, too.

Banking regulations stipulate that a branch facility must be loated within 1,500 feet of a bank's existing location. Also, officials of the bank wanted a high visibility location to attract motorists on Northwest Highway and commuters on the nearby North Western Railway.

The only site, according to surveys conducted by Walters, that would meet all the necessary specifications was the oddly-shaped lot which will be the future home of the bank's Belmont Street Branch.

Recently, Wolf said, the bank purchased a portion of the shopping center where it is located in order to comply with the distance requirement.

Despite its mini-configurations — 129 feet along Belmont Street, 152 feet along Northwest Highway, 152 feet deep on its long side, and 51.5 feet deep on its narrow side — the lot will house a 40-by40-foot building and a drive in facility with a 46-by 20-foot canopy.

The one-story steel-framed building with an attractive, precast concrete front will have a full basement and will provide four windows for walk-up service; two officers' desks; and a conference room. Wolf said that all transactions allowed by law will be conducted.

The canopied drive-up facility will have four windows.

Wolf estimated the total cost of the branch, which he expects to be in opeation next March, at about $450,000 including land, building costs, and equipment fo the facilty. He also indicated that the expansion will eventually provide jobs for six or seeven new employes.

Architect for the branch is Mayes-Williams & Partners of Glen Ellyn. Knight Construction Co., Des Plaines, is the general contractor.

SHOWN HERE IS a typical street in Whippletree Village in Wheeling. The mobile home park was named one of the outstanding new developments of its kind by Northern Illinois Gas Company, sponsors of the 1972 "List of Leaders" contest. In the background is the community center, which features a heated swimming pool and laundry facilities.

Whippletree Village Is Selected As Outstanding

Whippletree Village, Inc. of Wheeling has been selected as one of the outstanding "new" mobile home parks being built in the service territory of Northern Illinois Gas Company.

The award was made through a contest entitled "List of Leaders" being conducted by Northern Illinois Gas Company during 1972. The purpose of the contest is to recognize mobile home parks which provide high quality living conditions and an attractive environment for mobile home residents. Also considered are the involvement and contribution made by the park owners toward the over-all surrounding community.

The winner of the "existing" park division in the first phase of the contest is Edgebrook Mobile Home Park of Sycamore. Four more primary winners will be selected during the year with the two finalists being announced in January of 1973.

Fifty homes have already been installed at Whippletree Village which opened January of 1972. Facilities include a club house, heated swimming pool and laundry facilities.

Skirting of homes and tie-downs are mandatory to assure safety and attractiveness of the park. Because of the high demand for the more deluxe double-wide home, the park is being redesigned to provide the larger lot necessary for these homes.

Ernest Stavros, co-owner of the park, states that park management has agreed to donate to the school district $100 per mobile home installed in the park. The first installment of $3000 has been presented to Kenneth Guild, Superintendent of District 21. Another installment amounting to $2000 will be presented the first part of October.

Winter Sports Popularity Grows

As recently as 1969 snowmobiles were not listed as a sales category in the National Sporting Goods Association industry sales report. In 1971 sales of these vehicles amounted to $328 million.

Snowmobile purchases now exceed sales of fishing tackle, and are fast approaching the level of bicycles. The increases in percentages of sales in skis, snowmobiles, ice skates and other winter sports equipment was the largest in any sporting goods group last year.

There are more people participating in winter sports today and they're spending more for their equipment. Winter is no longer an excuse for staying inside.

This increased interest in winter sports is good news to the manufacturers of sports equipment, and a very important factor in recreational community planning. Lake Carroll, a recreational and vacation community now being built southwest of Freeport, has been designed for year-round sports activities.

In the winter sports area will be a ski complex, snowmobiling trails, ski touring trails and ice skating rink. Ice fishing will be available in winter months. The ski complex, which will be in operation by December, includes several ski slopes, a double-chair lift, T-bar, beginners' lift and permanent snow-making machinery. In addition, a ski lodge, ski shop and rental shop will be built.

FOR YEAR-ROUND swimmers a heated indoor-outdoor pool will be available adjacent to the ski lodge.

Spring, summer and fall favorite sports are also a part of the building program. Interest in these sports is indicated by sales of sporting goods: $367 million for golf eequipment; over $1 billion for pleasure boats and equipment; and $314 million for fishing supplies.

"The modern recreational community must have facilities for all sports to be complete enough to appeal to the contemporary family. Everybody's doing something today," says James A. Balzaretti, assistant vice president of Russwood of Illinois, builders of Lake Carroll.

Lake Carroll will have a 600-acre lake, providing swimming, boating, fishing and water skiing over half the year. The swim-tennis area will feature a clubhouse, tennis courts and second swimming pool.

The 18-hole golf course, now under construction in the eastern area, is expected to be one of the strongest attractions.

The 5,000 acres included in the second home community will also provide ample trails for hikers, bicyclers and bird-watchers. There are over 70 species of birds native to the area or migrants who stop over in season, so even those who prefer to be spectators will have plenty to see. A part of the lake area will be retained as a bird sanctuary, especially for the migrant geese.

20-30 Year Olds Principal Borrowers In Homes Market

Largest borrowing segment in today's home market is the 20-30 year old group. This was revealed in a survey of 500 recent loans made by $128 million Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association of Berwyn.

Pres. Frank J. Kinst of the 56-year-old instituton noted that the 30-40 age group accounted for 34 per cent of the loans analyzed and 40-year-olds and over provided 21 per cent of the total.

It was divulged by Kinst that 36 per cent of the borrowers had working wives. Although this additional income was not a factor in the granting of a mortgage, it does provide a plus consideration.

Seventy-one per cent of the loans on both new and existing homes were for 60-80 per cent of appraised value. Twenty-four per cent were for less than 60 per cent of value.

During the first nine months of 1972, Lincoln Federal granted 1,250 loans totalling $32 million. Twenty-four million dollars was lent on existing homes and $8 million on new construction.

Since February, Lincoln Federal has been featuring 6.7-6.9 per cent money for up to and including 80 per cent home mortgages.

The "under 7 per cent" lending policy will prevail until December 31.

Inviting Cape Cod Offers Luxury And Practical Plan

Surprising spaciousness, plus a nice balance of tasteful luxury, are found in the roomy Cape Cod home now drawing visitors' special attention at 'La Fontaine'. The attractive all-residential community — located at East Lake Avenue and Pfingsten Road, in Glenview — is being developed by I. Kogan Construction Company.

The Cape Cod design, known as "The Roanoke," has four bedrooms and two-and-a-half baths — and is one of four inviting models now showing at 'La Fontaine.' All of the homes are prestige-styled, planned for today's full-comfort lifestyle for the entire family, and range in price from $63,900 including fully-improved landscaped site.

The spaciousness and comfort of the Roanoke is evident at every turn. From the front entry foyer, with a double-size guest closet, traffic disperses in four directions — into living room, kitchen-breakfast area, family room or the upper floor.

The living room is 19' x 13' and features a wide picture window (or-optionally, three close-set windows as in the model) across the front wall. Continuing the natural-flow traffic plan, the dining room is reached through a double-width doorway from the living room — and featured here is a fllor-to-ceiling extra-width window in the far wall.

The adjoining kitchen is approximately 11' x 9' in size, with the matched cabinets, work areas and appliances — including built-in oven and range, dishwasher and disposal — arranged in the popular U-layout. Between the kitchen proper and the family room — which it overlooks across an attractive railing of thinline wrought-iron — is the breakfast area. This measures 9' by nearly 8'. A double-width pantry is in one corner, while, in the opposite wall, is another wide floor-to-ceiling window which admits plenty of natural light.

The Roanoke family-rec room measures over 20' x 14'. Beautifully paneled, it features an optional fireplace at one end of the room. In a side wall are sliding glass doors to patio or backyard area; opposite, is a short corridor leading to the convenient powder room, laundry-storage room, basement entry, and two-car garage.

On the second floor, off a spacious rectangular hallway, are the tiled and compartmented family bath and three of the four bedrooms. Two of these have big walk-in closets. The master bedroom suite takes up an entire wing of the second story. The bedroom, itself, measures 18' x 14'and is quite separate from the rest of the upper floor, being reached via its own entry-corridor. The master suite contains the beautifully color-tiled bathroom, extra-large dressing room with wide, mirrored vanity cabinet and sliding-door closet — plus an additional roomy, walk-in closet.

Like all Kogan-built homes, the Roanoke offers a wide range of buyer options, inside and out, in materials and decor — making the home an unusual concept in luxury, comfort and practical layout.

La Fontaine, in Glenview, is at Lake Street and Pfingsten Road. Visitors can readily reach it via Edens or Tri-State Expressways, turning off Edens at Lake Street — off Tri-State at Willow Road, to Pfingsten Road then south.

Martin Lectures At Kankakee Realtor Seminar

Ralph H. Martin, vice president of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, recently was an instructor for the Kankakee Real Estate Seminar conducted at the Kankakee Elks Country Club in that community. The subjects discussed in Martin's lecture under the category of "Small Office Operation" included "qualifying the buyer," "Closing the sale" and "financing the mortgage."

Martin was one of four real estate experts selected to serve as seminar instructors by the Kankakee County Board of Realtors and the Kankakee County College, sponsors of the program. He was chosen because of his many years of experience in the field of selling and negotiating real estate transactions and for his background as an instructor of real estate classes.

Condominiums Must Serve Family's Living Needs

Ned Simon, president of The Simon/R-G Group, Inc., cautioned condominium buyers to treat their purchase first as one supply them with a home and only after that as an investment.

Taking issue with a recent trend suggesting condominiums should be regarded as investment securities, Simon said most condominium buyers should concentrate first on "seeking a suitable home, a way of life, a proper place to raise children, a community," not an investment.

The Simon/R-G Group, Inc., is presently developing Atrium, a 498-unit condominium, apartment and townhome development in Elmhurst. Another Simon condominium townhome development is the award-winning 50-unit Portals at Grant Place near Lincoln Park in Chicago.

Simon said there is a definite increase in the purchase of vacation condominium homes in which the owner expects to live only a few weeks a year. In such situations he arranges for a management company to see to it his property is maintained and kept rented.

"BUT," SIMON said, "such uses are not to be confused with the usual purchase of a condominium in which the owner and his family live.

"Buying a condominium provides many special advantages such as lowering federal income tax — because both real estate taxes and interest paid on mortgages are deductible — an advantage which remains as long as the home or condominium is owned," Simon said.

"An added advantage is increased equity," according to Simon, "but this should not be the single determining factor in the purchase."

Simon claims a condominium home should be viewed primarily in terms of a family's housing needs. These include location in relation to employment, schools, parks, playgrounds, adequacy of the home in respect to family size, costs and neighborhood.

According to Simon, many condominiums are being offered today as part of planned developments within larger communities. In such situations the buyer should look to the amenities offered by the development itself as well as the larger community.

"ONLY AFTER all these important living needs are satisfied should a prospective condominium buyer consider his purchase as an investment," Simon said, "exactly as he would a single family residential unit.

"It may be out of date to talk about our homes as 'castles'," Simon said, "but the purchase of our home is highly emotional and if we expect to be happy in it, it should respond to both our living needs and emotional needs before we even begin to think about the investment advantages."

TOWNHOMES IN Atrium—Elmhurst are clustered about the park-like courtyards which provide an important element in what developer Ned Simon calls the "family's housing needs." Others include the adequancy of the townhome in respect to family size, and location in relation to schools, employment, parks and playgrounds. The latter two are furnished in Atrium's planned community. Simon contends all these "needs" should be satisfied before considering the investment aspects of purchasing a home.

Housing Industry Seen Headed For Good Year

The nation's burgeoning housing industry has another record year in sight — 1972 should close with nearly 2.4 million starts on the books.

So observes Sabino Marinella, president of Boston-based Continental Investment Corp., who is optimistic that 1973 will be still another "high year."

Continental Investment Corp. is a national financial services and real estate-oriented company managing assets of more than $4 billion. Its real estate-related subsidiaries include: Investors Mortgage Insurance Co. in the private mortgage insurance industry, and Diversified Advisers, Inc., investment adviser to Diversified Mortgage Investors, Boston, a multi-specialty real estate trust.

"The housing outlook for 1973?

"While most economists believe that it may not be another record-breaking year, current projections point to the second best 12-month period in history. The industry consensus is that demand will remain very strong in 1973, but that building rates will level off somewhat with about 2.1 million starts for 1973," Marinella said.

IT TOOK 21 years for American homebuilders to beat the record 1.9 million starts in 1950, he notes. "They turned in 2.08 million last year and 1972 will be even better."

The demand for all types of housing has stayed at very high levels throughout 1972, with single-family construction still the leader. About 56 per cent of the 2.4 million starts this year will be single-family units. Next year an estimated 54 per cent of all residential construction will be single-family dwellings, Marinella said.

"Last year, homebuilders in the North Central, West and South were the most active. So far in 1972, the highest construction rates have been posted in the Northeast, South and West," Marinella said. "There is expected to be further shifting in 1973, with the South and West again recording high construction levels.

"The supply of mortgage lending funds has been strong — it should remain at high levels during 1973," Marinella said.

Branigar Introduces New Model Near St. Charles

One of the attractive new models now to be seen at The Windings of Ferson Creek — wooded residential park developed by the Branigar Organization a short distance west of St. Charles — is "The Country Gentleman," an eight-room New England design.

A quick tour of the home immediately reveals it to be well-designed for the lifestyle its name suggests. In appearance, the home promises secluded country estate living. The exterior styling is enhanced with rough, unfinished stone, long low lines and shuttered windows of the classic colonial period. And the promise of roomy comfort is confirmed by the inviting interior plan.

The setting of the model, surrounded by stately trees, is typical of the wooded, rolling terrain of The Windings, which was once a large, private estate. Located in the high country of the Fox River Valley, the Branigar development offers 259 acres of estate-like homesites varying from one-half to three-quarters of an acre in size. Prices for lots range from $13,900; for homes, from $58,000.

"THE COUNTRY Gentleman" model is set on a gently-sloping hillside, amid tall trees and profuse verdure. Visitors enter the two-story home via a paneled Colonial-styled door opening into a wide entryway. To one side is the dining room while the living room is straight back, to the rear of the home.

An unusual feature of the first floor plan in "The Country Gentleman" is the master suite. The bedroom is 15 feet 4 inches square and boasts its own beautifully-tiled and compartmented bath. The suite is reached by a short L-shaped corridor, off which is another room, located for special quietness and privacy, which can be used as study, library or extra bedroom.

In one rear corner of the first floor is the family room. Measuring 17 feet by over 20 feet, it boasts an eye-catching fireplace with large hearth — and sliding glass doors at one end, opening onto a spacious rear porch or patio area.

Beyond the family room is the kitchen, with appliances, cabinets and work space in a convenient U-arrangement. Just outside the kitchen are the powder room, the outside service entrance and the inside entry from the two-car garage.

On the second floor of the home are two large bedrooms, the family bath with double-basin vanity — and an extra walk-in closet, located across from the bathroom and convenient to both bedrooms.

The Windings is readily reached via North Avenue (Rte. 64) through St. Charles, then right on Burlington Road — then left on Empire Road to the entrance.

THE WOODED HILLS of The Windings of Ferson Creek — park-like residential development by The Branigar Organization, a short distance west of St. Charles — provide a beautiful stting for the homes on display there.

Electronic Cleaners Aid Your Home Environment

Clean air, vital to the health of everyone, can now be as much a part of any home as running water, refrigerated food or color TV.

Designed to improve living and working environments, electronic home or office air cleaners do on a miniature scale what expensive particulate removal systems do for large industrial plants and factories.

Appliance dealers feature attractively packaged models in finely crafted cabinets that add to any room decor. The units house aluminum mesh filters, electronic cleaning cells and activated charcoal filters which remove 99 per cent of pollen and up to 90 per cent of all other airborne dust.

Room air is drawn into the bottom of the unit by an electric fan. It passes first through the aluminum filter which catches hair, lint and other large particles. In the electronic cells, smaller particles are electrically charged and trapped. The cleaned air then goes through the charcoal filters which absorb odors. The purified air is then recirculated back into the room.

The units collect invisible grime and air-borne grease, reducing soil and stain of drapes, furniture and walls. They also trap pollens and bacteria which cause discomfort to many allergy sufferers.

Electronic air cleaners are contributing to the nation-wide campaign against air pollution while providing a cleaner and more comfortable environment in homes, offices and stores.

TWO WALDEN residents enjoy a swim in Harmony Lake, one of five man-made lakes at the 155-acre planned community when the $20,000,000 development is completed. Lakeside promenade branches into a curving concrete walk, center, that threads the lawn and landscaping between three-story brick and redwood apartment buildings. Each apartment has a private balcony, or ground-level patio, looking over the lake or grounds.

Electric Heat Wins Friends

Out of sight, out of mind and out of this world.

That's the opinion of thousands of Commonwealth Edison customers who have installed electric heat, in one form or another, in their homes.

As of Sept. 1, the company reported over 75,000 residential space heating installations, either completed or under construction, in its service territory throughout Chicagoland and northern Illinois.

Modern householders find many attractive features in this relativey new type of home heating. Available in radiant ceilings, electric baseboards, electric furnaces or hydronic units, it is ideal for installation in new homes, for conversion of older homes and for remodeling or room additions.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC heating cannot produce the soot and grime that come from other fuels. This makes for a cleaner home and saves on cleaning bills for drapes, furniture, walls or ceilings. Thermostatically controlled, it produces an electric climate as soothing and comfortable as a tropical atmosphere, maintaining an even temperature from floor to ceiling of every room.

Versatile baseboard units can transform an enclosed porch normally used only in the warm season, when properly insulated, into a comfortable, year-round room. Through the installation of radiant panels or ceiling cable, little-used areas can be transformed into comfortable recreation rooms. In conversion projects, requiring less space than other types of heating electric heat does away with fuel storage areas and makes possible the addition of a laundry, sewing room or workshop.

As an added bonus, Edison's low heating rate for wholehouse heating is a rare bargain.

THE VOLUNTEER BUREAU'S SYMBOL

Live like the other half for $21,990.

Time was, if you hoped to own a fancy house, you had to pay a fancy price.

Time's up. Thanks to a revolutionary way of building that does for houses what Henry Ford did for cars.

We put four fabulous two-story homes under just one roof. So they'd look like just one very big, very handsome house. And so we could split up the cost four ways.

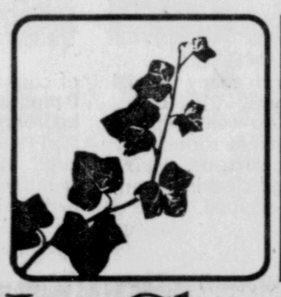
We also manufactured all the parts we could. So they'd cost less and be made better. And we built all our houses in clusters. So every one would look out on a super-colossal front yard (instead of the typical, tiny front- and backyard). So we could even save you money on land.

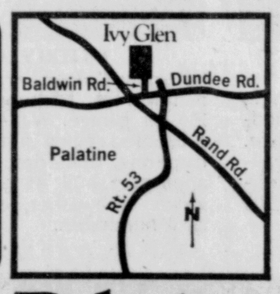
As for the inside, it's a dream. Big and cozy. Two bedrooms. Carpeting wall to wall. GE oven-range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and disposer. Central heating and air conditioning. Storage space. Enclosed garage. And privacy aplenty, from your own entrance to special sound-engineered walls that hush all the noise.

There's more. Something you'd hardly expect to get for $21,990. No maintenance. Nothing at all to interfere with the way you spend your free time. And all for just $1100 down and a total monthly payment of $153.*

Of course, you may want another bedroom. Fine. You've also got your choice of three-bedroom floor plans. And four- or five-family homes, in ten exterior designs and one or two stories. (We think variety is the spice of homes, too.)

You're welcome to see our model homes any day of the week between 10 and 10. We're in Palatine. On Baldwin Road, north of Dundee (Rt. 68) between Rand and I-53. At 1200 E. Gardenia Lane. Ivy Glen. Handsome two- and three-bedroom homes from $21,990. (312) 359-9212.





Ivy Glen-Palatine

A development of Building Systems Housing Corporation, subsidiary of Building Systems, Inc.

*Loan of $20,890 with 348 monthly payments of 7.78% simple interest, reflecting an 8.37% annual percentage rate. Payment includes principal and interest ($152.79) as well as mortgage insurance ($4.34). Condominium fee of $35.00 (est.) and taxes of $50.99 (est.) are extra per month.

Don't Let Winter Make You 'Cool'

Remember those frigid mornings last winter when the car, parked outside overnight, just refused to start? If they made it at all, Dad was late to work, the kids were late to school and there was probably a bill from the service station man who finally got it started.

More of those mornings are on the way but the problem of getting old Betsy started can be easily eliminated. Electric preheaters which operate for a few pennies a night, will warm the car's engine so that it will pop off with the first turn of the starter.

Developed during World War II for starting diesel and other military vehicles in extremely cold climates, the preheaters have been used in industry for some time and are only recently being made available for family automobiles.

There are several types of preheaters available. The most effective are the tank and in-line units. The first one consists of an electric immersion coil inside a small tank which can be installed in the car heater hoses of some cars, or between the heater hose and engine block in others. Your local supplier can help you determine the model you need. The tank heats the engine coolant which, as it heats, flows by convection through the engine block.

Circulation is continuous and no pump is needed. Operating on regular household current, the unit is heated electrically simply by attaching to the nearest electrical outlet. The other, operating similarly, is installed in the lower radiator hose.

Another popular type is a heating element enclosed in a thin, semi-flexible metal tube. It is installed easily and instantly simply by removing the dipstick (engine oil level indicator) and inserting the heater in its place. This also heats electrically by attaching to the nearest 120-volt outlet.

Engines are difficult to start in wintry weather simply because cold, heavy oil on the pistons makes it more difficult for the starter to spin the motor rapidly. Preheaters reduce the strain on the starter, prolong battery life and eliminate battery recharging.

Then, too, with a warm engine you are ready to take off immediately. There's no tedious idling or waiting for the engine to warm up sufficiently to allow operation without jerking or balking. In addition, the car heater and defroster may be used instantly. Another important consideration, in these days of concern for environment, is that a warm engine produces less pollution than a cold one.

Available at auto appliance dealers and some department stores, the heaters operate economically and will save on gas consumption, battery replacement and repair bills. They'll probably save your good nature, too.

The Suburban Poor

Illness Can Create An Economic Crisis

(Today concludes a four-part series on a hidden facet of suburban life, the poor. Names used are fictitious but the cases cited are true.)

by GENIE CAMPBELL

A common cold may turn into an economic crisis for the poor. A day not on the job is a day without pay. The impoverished cannot afford to be sick . . . nor can they afford to see a doctor.

And it is the low income families without benefit of good nutritional diets who are most susceptible to viruses and disease.

"Next to housing health is the biggest problem that the poor in suburbia have to deal with," said Karen Stanley, former director of the Northwest Opportunity Center.

And it is the working poor, those employed but barely making enough to get by, who have it the roughest.

Persons on public aid are entitled to medical assistance from the state. The small green cards they are awarded signify to doctors and hospitals that for necessary services rendered, the state will reimburse.

However, the working poor can offer no promises. And only in an absolute emergency, such as a car accident might create, is a hospital required to admit a patient who has no proof he can pay. This deficiency can cause life and death problems for the poor.

"The mortality rate for infants is high in the northwest suburbs as compared with other areas within Cook County," said Karen Stanley.

FOR INSTANCE, in Arlington Heights alone, the infant mortality rate is 20.5 for every 1000 births. Area hospitals are not to blame. Their records remain unblemished.

The statistics compiled from the 1970 U.S. census are born of the women who receive little or absolutely no prenatal care. They are most likely to give birth to their children at home.

And regardless of monetary factors, most doctors refuse to treat a pregnant woman who has received no prenatal care before her fifth month. The risk is just too great.

An exception is Lutheran General Hospital which in July of 1970 instituted an obstetrics-gynecology clinic for the medical indigent who cannot afford enormous medical bills.

The total cost of the pregnancy period is set up on a sliding scale that is determined by the financial status of the individual family. Both income and current liabilities are taken into consideration. Payments are spaced out and usually completed within two weeks of the delivery date.

A NUTRITIONIST visits each patient when she arrives at the clinic and guides her in following the doctor's instructions. Social workers are on hand to aid in solving any family problems occurring that might affect the course of the pregnancy. Check-ups are made on each woman six months following delivery.

"We are treating the whole patient emotionally as well as medically," said John Wilke, coordinator of ambulatory patient service at Lutheran General.

For the chicanos who can't speak English a Spanish interpreter is also available.

"We are basically serving the northwest suburbs," continued Wilke, who said the OB clinic sees an average of 65 to 90 patients a month.

A family planning center is also in operation at the hospital funded by HEW (Department of Health, Education and Welfare) and administered through the Northwest Opportunity Center.

The Cook County Public Health Department periodically sets up well child clinics throughout the area where all youngsters can receive the proper immunizations to ward off future illness. For this there is no charge.

YET FOR DAY-TO-DAY sickness . . . for regular hospitalization, there is little break for the working poor of suburbia.

"A high incidence of anemia has been found among the low income families of the suburbs, particularly mothers and their babies who are breast-fed for several years sometimes because no other food is available," said Karen Stanley.

In attempting to curb this condition, the agency initiated Operation Nutrition, a program to distribute free food to impoverished pregnant women, nursing mothers and their young children, the population most subject to malnutrition.

"This program is for the poorest of the poor and it is limited to families who have children aged under 6," continued Mrs. Stanley.

Funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and administered to the Northwest Opportunity Center through the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity, the food distributed includes high protein edibles such as powdered milk and eggs. The extra food is meant to supplement the inferior starchy diet that most low income families follow.

YET WHILE the program has been deemed most successful and is currently serving over 300 families in this area, Operation Nutrition is threatened with discontinuation because the regional OEO office has failed to release additional funds.

Donated truck services are currently being utilized to pick up the supplemental food from a central warehouse in Chicago.

Another avenue of help for the poor is the federal food stamp program which enables those persons with low incomes to purchase food stamps for cash and exchange them later for a greater value at participating food stores.

Yet the northwest suburban poor are bypassed. They are forced to go into Chicago to apply. Transportation into the city is expensive and the poor cannot take time off from their jobs without being docked in pay. To put it simply, many of those who need food stamps cannot afford to participate in the program as it is presently being directed.

In December of 1970 a food stamp outlet was established through the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows. Caseworkers from the Michigan Avenue office were sent to the suburbs once a week to enroll and re-register those people eligible to receive the stamps. But last April the workers were suddenly recalled.

CARRYING SIGNS with slogans such as "There is hunger in the suburbs too" and "We don't have the money to eat nor to travel to Chicago to apply for stamps," a busload of low income families from the northwest suburbs protested this summer in front of the public aid offices.

David Daniels, director of Cook County Department of Public Aid, promised those gathered to try to again institute a distribution plan that would easily incorporate the suburbs.

At that time Daniels gave three reasons for the recalling of outpost workers: the lack of manpower, stricter requirements set down by the Department of Agriculture which finances the program, and the hazard of having individual caseworkers in outlying areas without proper supervision. (The latter explanation followed a reported scandal of the food stamp program in Chicago . . . but not the suburbs.)

Last month John Ballew, supervisor of the service division of the county public aid department, said a center would be opened in the suburbs the first of this month. On Oct. 1 nothing happened.

LAST FRIDAY Ballew announced that the Northwest Opportunity Center had been selected as a site to distribute food stamps in the northwest suburbs. He called it "a temporary arrangement until we get our own office."

"The center will be opened when I get staffing," said A. C. Szopinski, supervisor of the operations portion of the program. No definite date has been set. Many people wait.

In the short time that the food stamps were distributed in this area, 1,396 people applied. Only 267 of those persons were considered ineligible.

Most churches in the area have special funds from which help can be drawn immediately to help poor families out of an emergency. Those aided are not ordinarily members of the parish. Many of the families are recommended to the individual churches by the Northwest Opportunity Center.

The First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights is currently working very closely with the Illinois Migrant Council, an organization interested in helping the migrant worker to actively participate in the mainstream of American life.

"WHEN THE COUNCIL locates jobs, we try to find suitable housing for the families and help out by making a down payment on the rent or utilities," said the Rev. Leon Haring, a minister at the First Presbyterian Church.

About three years ago the Lutheran Church of the Cross in Arlington Heights was asked to guarantee payment on a delivery of oil. A family was without heat and the oil company would not deliver without being paid.

This prompted the church council to set up a special Good Samaritan Fund which since has been drawn upon to pay for car repairs, groceries, rent and even new roofs . . . whatever an emergency might call for. The church also offers free income tax service and awards scholarships to the poor.

"It's strictly based on need," said Rev. Larry Cartford, pastor at Lutheran Church of the Cross.

The church usually awards three $250 scholarships a year.

"IT DOESN'T pay for everything but it says, hey, we're interested. They can come back for more if they need it.

"It's an attempt to get love out of the wall. Let your talk walk is our slogan," he continued. "We're not just a big building with padded pews."

Violin And Harpsichord Music At Their Wedding

A vilin solo with harpsichord accompaniment was featured Sept. 23 at the wedding of Ellen Eshbach and A. Eugene Nordby. The service, held in Christ Church, Winnetka, was performed by the bride's uncle, Rev. R. L. Whitehouse of Evanston.

Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Eshbach, Schenectady, N.Y., earned her B.S. in journalism from Northwestern University's School of Journalism in 1967. She is employed by Chicago Today as home furnishings editor.

He is in the metals division of Continental Can Co., Chicago.

The double ring service was held at noon with Ellen's brother playing the violin accompanied by the church organist on the harpsichord. A buffet luncheon reception for 90 guests was held in the Kenilworth Union Church, Kenilworth.

FOR HER MARRIAGE Ellen chose a white satin gown with Alencon lace at the neckline, the cuffs, waist and on the skirt border. Her elbow-length mantilla was edged in the same lace, and she carried a white bible with white roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Ellen chose her sisters as attendants. Caroline Eshbach, Boston, Mass., was maid of honor, and Adelaide Eshbach, Schenectady, was bridesmaid. Both wore gowns with pink and grey floral bodices and pink skirts, and carried long-stemmed pink roses.

Busy Cupid Uses Telephone Lines For Romance

It was strictly business when Valerie Marie Naples and Rex Allen Bruns first "met" over the telephone. Both are employed by Fort Howard Paper Co., Mount Prospect, where Valerie is in the office and Rex is employed as salesman working out of the office.

The phone conversations led to a date to meet each other at Butch McGuire's in Mount Prospect. That was last December and their engagement was announced on Mother's Day. Their marriage took place Sept. 9 in St. James Church, Arlington Heighs.

Valerie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alex Naples, 1418 S. Norman Drive, Palatine, is a graduate of Palatine High School, and she completed three and one-half years of college studies at the University of Miami in Florida and at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. Rex, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin Bruns, is a graduate of Southern Illinois University, Carbondale.

Jim Cheney, Taylorville, was best man, and the couple's brothers, Greg Naples, Champaign, and Bob Bruns, Overland Park, Mo., were ushers.

The bride's father was soloist at the wedding which was followed by a reception for 250 guests at the Park Ridge Inn.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

There is so much work around this place to get ready for winter, I feel like a squirrel.

All the young trees, and especially all the evergreens, will need another dousing of water about Oct. 30. Yes, I know we've had the Great Flood, but in another three weeks, the plants will be dry again. Plants need an abundance of water as winter hits because during winter thaws they transpire and lose a lot of stored-up moisture. When the "well" goes dry, they suffer winter-kill. Junipers and yews seem to tell the tale sooner than other evergreens.

Young transplants like fruit trees and maples can have their trunks wrapped with aluminum foil up to the lowest branch, to prevent sunscald during the winter. (It sounds riduculous, but true.) Also rabbit damage can be avoided by putting wire mesh around likely victims of munch. Ditto for covering tulip beds with wire mesh.

LOTS OF TIMES I've seen people who prepare some of their pet plants for the cold by wrapping them up like mummies in burlap bags, rope and cardboard boxes.

This is totally unnecessary, and in fact, may even be detrimental to the health of a plant. It is lack of moisture, not the cold itself which kills the plant. Some mulch, perhaps a wind shield for rare specimens (like a columnar or upright arbor vitae or juniper), but never apply a tight covering which smothers a plant or stifles transpiration.

Some people swear by rose cones. I've had best luck handling roses and rhododendron with alternate layers of leaves and pine needles with black dirt, girdled in green rose collars or tar paper circled around to keep the leaves from blowing away.

To me, the leaf, needle and collar method parallels the snowmobile suit insulation technique — a layer of air is sandwiched between two light layers of insulation. (My layerage on the roses measures eight inches above the graft, by the way.)

GO OVER THE foundation of your home for cracks where winter crawlies can gain entrance. You can paint, as I do, a narrow strip of creosote on the concrete foundation, just above ground level, but well below the last row of siding as a bug barrier. Carefully done, your artistry with the brush will hardly be noticeable.

Now to get the gladioli and begonia bulbs pulled out after the first killing frost, stored dry in a box of vermiculite in the basement, and I'll be ready for some really serious business.

On which channel is the Bears game?

Wed In Military Rites

A military ceremony Sept. 16 in the Protestant Chapel at Fort Sheridan, Ill., united Pamela Jane Pritchett of Mount Prospect and Major James Henry Binford Peay III of Richmond, Va. After a honeymoon in Bermuda, the newlyweds are living in Alexandria, Va., near Washington, D. C. where the bridegroom is stationed.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. B. Peay Jr. of Richmond and a graduate of Virginia Military Institute, Lexington.

Pamela, daughter of Lt. Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Thomas W. Pritchett of 1907 Yuma Lane, Mount Prospect, has a bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater and a master's in library science from Rosary College, River Forest.

HER SISTER Sara Jeanne was her bridesmaid and Anne Elizabeth Jordan of Madison, Wis., her maid of honor. Best man for the afternoon wedding was the groom's brother, Evan Massey Peay. Ushers included William Ware Smith, Roanoke, Va.; James Fox, Springfield, Va.; and Thomas Anderson, Fort Sill, Okla.

Pamela chose an ivory satin faille gown, Empire styled with a chapel train and trimmed with lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white fuji mums, tea roses and baby's breath.

Her two attendants wore apricot faille dresses with bronze velveteen weskits and carried white fuji mums and baby's breath.

Maj. and Mrs. James Peay III

After the wedding the bride's parents hosted a reception at home for the newlyweds.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I have not lived in this country too long but already am aware of the outcries about the price of meat. What puzzles me is why housewives wait for Thanksgiving and Christmas to buy turkey, it is such a meat bargain. Why don't they use it all year? It can be prepared so many delicious ways; I'm always happy to include baked turkey in my menus.

—Glynnis R.

You are absolutely right. Actually, housewives, are becoming aware of this and are using turkey throughout the year. Even allowing three-fourths to one pound per serving from a 12-pound turkey, or one-half to three-fourth pound if the turkey is larger, there is always some left over to make into delicious casseroles, salads and so on. Thanks — there are never too many reminders when it comes to saving money.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that baking soda prinkled where silverfish have been seen will eliminate them?

—(Carla W.

Never heard of this, nor can I see how it could work. The only household product that has ever been recommended by readers to get rid of silverfish (besides the regular insecticides recommended for this pest) is Epsom salts. Can't even vouch for this one, but it's worth a try.

Tips to brides: I love it when friends help clear away the dishes but cringe when they pour what's left in the cream pitcher back into the carton of cream in the refrigerator. Any cream that's left out of refrigeration that long is bound to taint the fresh cream and it isn't long before the carton itself sours. The same thing will happen with milk. If there's cream or milk left in a pitcher, put it back into the refrigerator as is and use it up first.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

The Consumer

by Monica Wilch

If you'll excuse an overworked comparison, Americans can determine the precise second at which a rocket will land on the moon, but they can't tell you what time of day your new sofa will be delivered.

A survey by this column has revealed that not one of the major department stores in the Chicago area will give customers an approximate time for delivery of a piece of furniture or appliance. Not even so much as morning or afternoon.

Said a spokesman at Marshall Field & Co.: "There is no time schedule for truck drivers. Delivery just depends on how the truck is loaded." Personnel at Carson Pirie Scott, Montgomery Ward, Wieboldt's and Sears unanimously concurred that predicting time of delivery is impossible.

It's no wonder, in view of the incredibly haphazard delivery procedures these stores seem to follow.

The arrogance of department stores, in assuming that customers have nothing better to do than sit at home an entire day awaiting delivery, is appalling. And anyone (like myself), who dares to question the policy is often treated with hostility, as in the case of the Carson's representative who demanded to know who I was — although I had already identified myself.

Unfortunately, the stores have the consumer over a barrel because of their united front. If just one store would have the advertising sense to adopt a method for giving customers approximate times of delivery, the store would enjoy a gigantic competitive edge. And probably, other stores would eventually find it necessary to follow suit.

There seemed to be only two cracks in the iceberg of indifference. Sears will tell a customer the truck stop number assigned to his furniture on the morning of delivery — which, might give an indication of approximate time of delivery, and L. Fish, a furniture store, will call a customer (at work, if necessary) 30 minutes or an hour before delivery is to be made.

Small concessions for an industry professing service to the customer.

The stores insist it's impossible to schedule delivery times. Ridiculous. All of American runs on time schedules. Buses, factories, even newspapers. And they cope with the unpredictable.

If you happen to be in the market for a piano, by the way, Lyon-Healy music store will tell you, about 3 p.m. the day before, approximately what time your piano will be delivered. So why can't other stores do likewise?

The Food and Drug Administration has declared, after an 11-month study by the National Academy of Sciences, that enzyme detergents are safe for consumer use and are biodegradable.

However, there has been question as to the effectiveness of enzyme detergents and presoaks. The Soap and Detergent Association at one point conceded that such products would not remove stains of rust, ink, cooking oils, coffee, motor grease, salad dressing and mustard (although manufacturers continue to make technical revisions in order to improve effectiveness.)

Another point to be considered is that soap companies, like most other manufacturers, offer a range of products from low priced to high priced, and it has been common for them to use such features as enzymes or "extra brighteners" as selling points for the higher priced items. The Federal Trade Commission has recently asked for ad substantiation in the cases of several laundry detergents claiming special cleaning powers.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is developing a laundry product as a substitute for phosphate detergents. The compound combines plain soap with a fat-based substance to prevent hard water curd from forming. A "builder," used in many detergents to break up heavy soil and grease and to soften the water, is then added. USDA reports that the resulting soap is as efficient in hard water as the best detergents, and it appears to be completely safe to both health and the environment. Moreover, its basic ingredients are abundant and renewable, which should keep cost down.

Make It Visible

Decorating a bicycle with glow-in-the-dark tape will help automobile drivers see the bike when you are riding at night or at dusk.

Optometrists say the most visible bike decoration is an open triangle of about five square inches in size. Retro-reflective triangles can be seen by approaching drivers at a distance of about 800 feet. That's about the length of two and one-half football fields. (UPI)

Ghosts Safest

On Halloween, drivers can see a white-sheeted ghost better than any other goblin.

The American Optometric Association says white material is safety visible to a driver traveling up to a speed of 50 miles an hour. Even ghosts can be safer by decorating their sheets with retro-reflective material and by carrying a flashlight or battery-operated lantern. (UPI).

Evelyn Eppley

She Made It To Top In Government

by PAT ADAM

Evelyn Eppley is living proof that being female needn't be a barrier to moving ahead in governmental service.

She is chairman of the General Services Administration's (GSA) Board of Contract Appeals. First woman ever to serve on this board, she is the highest ranking woman in GSA history and aomng the highest paid women in government today.

But the path to the top was not without its rough spots. While Miss Eppley has encountered no discrimination in her present position, she says she has met with it along the line in her nearly 20 years with the federal government.

In Chicago to participate in Women's Week in GSA, she discussed her governmental career in an interview.

"I am no genius, but I am intellegent and can do as good a job as anyone," she said with modest pride.

General Services, she explained, designs, builds, services, guards, repairs and leases all federal buildings and buys all supplies for the federal government "from paper clips to helicopters." GSA also keeps track of and sometimes sells surplus property and handles all data processing. Government contracts alone run to more than $2 billion every year, she noted.

IF THERE IS disagreement between Uncle Sam and any company doing business with him, the case goes to the Contract Board of Appeals, made up of the chairman and six members. Three members hear every case, with one of them in charge. If their decision goes against the business, it can be appealed, to the courts, but if it goes against the government, the decision stands.

Obviously Miss Eppley's job is an important one, and she takes it very seriously. Until she became chairman in 1969, most appeals were heard in Washington, D.C.

"But it is difficult and expensive for a small businessman to go to Washington," she explained. "Although the case can be heard on its record, this is not entirely satisfactory because a man wants to tell his own story, and the board likes to ask questions."

Under her direction Board of Contract Appeals members now go outside Washington to hear cases in about 23 per cent of the appeals, she estimated, compared with 9 per cent before Miss Eppley took the chairman's job.

"It's more fair and it's also a matter of due process," she declared.

BEFORE SHE WAS appointed to her present post, Miss Eppley was with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). She started in 1953 as a legal assistant, moved to attorney-adviser to the FCC chairman, then to senior attorney in the Rules and Standards Division of the Broadcast Bureau and finally to the job she held before becomeing Appeals Board chairman, chief of the Bureau's Renewal Branch.

It was when she first applied for a job in Washington that she met with sex discrimination. Positions were open with both the FCC and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

"The man who interviewed me at the CAB was a military man and I knew after the interview that he would not have hired me," she said. "The man at the FCC admitted he had first offered the job to a man who turned it down. I knew he at least would be honest with me."

When she was recommended for chief of the Renewals Branch (it determines whether broadcast licenses should be renewed), Miss Eppley was considered along with seven or eight men.

Evelyn Eppley

"I KNEW I was as well or better qualified than any of them," she said, "but while the FCC board all were in favor of my appointment, the man who would be my immediate superior was not, and it took a month before I got the job."

Even her present appointment brought one sour moment. The editor of a trade publication questioned her being named both as a member and as chairman. But there was a pleasant ending, she noted.

"I went to lunch with him and a friend, and the editor apologized for what he had said. Later he sent me roses."

Though she is a lawyer, she didn't start out to be one. She entered law "by the back door," as she puts it.

Advised that teaching would be her best bet for a job (it was the Depression), Miss Eppley majored in commercial education, earning both bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, where she also taught for a while.

SHE THEN WENT to work as a legal secretary and decided it was to her advantage to know more about the law. Teachers and members of her law firm encouaged her to study for the bar. So she took their advice, receiving her L.L.B. degree from Temple University via the night school route in 1948. She practiced in Philadelphia five years before going to Washington.

Miss Eppley does not regret that move. She believes the federal government is a worthy employer of women.

"The government now is both geared to thinking and ordered to giving women equal opportunity and equal training," she said.

"We women don't ask any favors, only that we have a fair shake," she added.

Because a woman working for the federal government is a civil service employe, she pointed out, she is more likely to be able to hold on to her job as she grows older instead of being replaced by a "pretty young one," as often happens in private business or industry.

LEAVE IS LIBERAL and so is the pension. Salarywise, Miss Eppley said, pay every year must be compared with that in private enterprise for comparable jobs, and the salary for a specific job raised if it does not compare favorably.

Miss Eppley believes opportunities are increasing for women and in talks around the country she encourages women to finish college, to aim for higher careers — "We need women engineers, architects in GAS" — and she believes parents should encourage their daughters in those directions too.

1. Find an auction that interests you — perhaps antiques, stamps, coins, or horses.
2. Figure out ways to become a more welcome and popular guest.
3. Go through the house searching for ways to make things more convenient.
4. Take up some parsley and pot it for winter use.
5. Get information on all of the election candidates.
6. Soften and sweeten your voice when others are brusque and agitated.
7. Glamourize old outfits with narrow belts, tie scarfs and long crystal beads.

Guild Shines With 'Spirit'

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The Guild Players are back on their feet with their current production of "Blithe Spirit." It is superior to the past several plays staged by the Guild in the Vogelei Barn. Lighting, set design and general caliber of acting are much improved.

Even so, "Blithe Spirit" has a tendency to lag in places. The show is much too long, partly the fault of the cast who periodically allow the pace to drag.

This is most noticeable in the first act as the stage is first being set for the forthcoming action and the end of thr third act when the uniqueness of the wandering "spirits" begins to wane.

NOEL COWARD'S three-act comedy concerns an author whose deceased wife returns "to haunt him" after being contacted through a seance. Charles Condomine, played by Vic Simone, is the only person who is able to see his wife. Charles and the audience, too, of course.

Having remarried after his first wife died, Charles has his marital bliss disrupted when he is forced to entertain two women, one visible and one in spirit form. The traingle creates some amusing scenes that culminate with an unexpected twist. It is a good play for community theater to stage and one that has not been overworked in this area.

The most difficult facet in staging "Blithe Spirit" is creating a convincing ghost. This the Guild does very well.

KAREN MacDONALD is Elvira, Charles' first wife. She is my choice for the Players' award, the "Hammy," which is presented after each show to the best actress or actor.

With good costuming and make-up Miss MacDonald is an excellent spirit. Yet there is more to her part than simply gliding across stage. Karen portrays a very cunning and spoiled ex-wife who is bent on regaining her husband. This is where Karen really shines.

Vic Simone is also very good as Charles Condomine, who questions his own sanity when Elvira first appears. This recognition scene is quite amusing. Once Charles becomes used to the situation, he rather plays it up to his own advantage.

Some of the best scenes occur when Ruth and Elvira are in verbal battle with one another with Charles acting as the go-between.

JANIS FANTETTI in the beginning appears rather stiff and uncomfortable in her role as Ruth, Charles' second wife. Yet as the play continues to unfold, she relaxes and her performance improves simultaneously.

The eccentric personality of the medium, Madam Arcati, is highlighted by Susan Harris. This is a plus in her performance. Yet Miss Harris needs to speak both more slowly and more clearly. Her lines are often muffled, spoiling some of the dry humor written into her part.

Also in "Blithe Spirit" are Bill Schumacher and Laura Cutshall as Dr. and Mrs. Bradman, friends of the Condomines, and Karen Murphy as the maid, Edith.

Director of the production is Ken Boutelle and his wife, Jan, is stage manager. Vic Simone's son, David, is responsible for the well designed set.

"Blithe Spirit" will again be staged in the Vogelei Barn Friday and Saturday. Tickets, 529-9262 or 529-1075.

A Paddock Review

'Lion' Something To See

by PAT ADAM

I asked to review "The Lion in Winter." While the play contains much humor, it is more drama than comedy and far meatier theater fare than the usual offering hereabouts. And I was curious to see how Country Club Theatre would transform its comparatively smll stage into an English king's palace. The whole idea sounded like a real challenge.

Well, hats off to Norman Rice and company. They have met the challenge in every way and are offering superb entertainment in the lower level theater of Old Orchard Country Club. Excellent acting, efficient stage management, a spare yet sufficient set and fitting background music combine to give the audience a most satisfying theater experience. I hope area residents will appreciate and take advantage of it.

Playwright James Goldman takes historical facts about King Henry II of England and his three sons, all eager aspirants to his throne, and the wife he has imprisoned for 10 years, Eleanor of Aquitaine, and with 20th century insight fleshes them out. Persons and passions come alive and history no longer is mere citing of dates and statistics. It becomes human beings, relating to one another for better or for worse, plotting for power, making war. The result: an exciting play full of interesting characters.

KING HENRY II is growing old. There is no law governing succession to the English throne and he wants to name the next king while he still lives. His own choice is the youngest of his three living sons, John. Eleanor, while no longer sharing Henry's throne nor his bed, is still every bit a queen and as shrewd at maneuvering as he. She wants her favorite, Richard, to succeed Henry.

The play takes place in Henry's court at Chinon, France. He has permitted Eleanor to be present for Christmas. The entire time is spent sparring with neither really winner nor loser. While the physical bond between them has been cut, the spiritual one is far harder to sever.

The entire cast does a superb job in "The Lion in Winter," but Maureen Lee as Eleanor shines a bit more brightly than the rest. She is both regal and womanly, torn between the ambitions of a queen and the desires of discarded wife and rejected mother. Yet she endures.

Norman Rice merits loud applause both as actor in his role as Henry and as director.

THE THREE young men who play Henry's sons make their Country Club debuts in this play, and all are impressive. John Justin Puleo plays Richard, the warrior and the eldest; David Perkovich portrays Geoffrey, the middle son who doesn't count but plots to be king nevertheless; and Scott Wallace is John, the youngest and the least bright.

Bev Nolte appears as Alais, the French princess who is Henry's love in his waning years, and Jeffrey Haddock, also making his first appearance at Country Club, plays her brother Philip, youthful king of France.

The ingenious device of movable pillars enables the efficient stagehands to transform the Country Club stage into various chambers in the palace, the reception hall and the wine cellar. Props are simple and backdrop stark. But all serve to enhance rather than distract from the drama, interspersed with witty exchanges mainly between Henry and Eleanor. Changes are made swiftly and the play moves smoothly.

Costumes also are excellent, and the background music both underscores the human battles taking place on stage and ties the entire producion together.

"The Lion in Winter" deserves a long run.

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. You may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Classical Chicken Divan Tailored For Autumn Evenings

On blustery autumn evenings, the wind almost seems to blow your family in the door for dinner. When Dad and the youngsters do come in from the cold, warm them with Cheddar Chicken Divan.

Based on the classical chicken divan, this well-balanced casserole combines the vitamin A of broccoli with the protein of chicken in a creamy sauce. Chicken Divan is a meal that is low in cost, high in nutritional value, and excellent in taste.

For a luscious white sauce, first blend the ingredients in melted butter to bring out the zip of chicken stock base, mustard and garlic salt seasonings. Milk gives the sauce its familiar creamy texture. Then add the sharp flavor of shredded natural Cheddar, everyone's favorite cheese, for a twist on the classic taste.

A sprinkling of almonds tops the casserole, providing a crunchy contrast to each tender bite. Use a little paprika to color the divan with flavor.

For your convenience, the casserole can be assembled several hours ahead then covered and stored in the refrigerator. Since the chicken and broccoli are precooked, you can just warm it in the oven for about a half hour before the family arrives home. Serve Chicken Divan while it's still hot and bubbly, accompanied by a fresh fruit platter and a pitcher of milk.

CHICKEN DIVAN

- 2 packages (10 oz.) frozen broccoli spears
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons chicken seasoned stock base
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- 2 cups milk
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 3 whole chicken breasts, cooked, cut in half and boned
- ¼ cup sliced almonds
- Paprika

Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain on paper toweling. In saucepan melt butter; blend in flour, chicken stock base, mustard and garlic salt. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Stir in cheese just until melted. Divide and arrange broccoli for 6 servings in a 2-quart buttered rectangular baking dish; pur over half the sauce. Top with chicken breasts, then remaining sauce. Sprinkle over almonds, then paprika. Heat in a preheated 350 degree oven, 20 minutes or until hot and bubbly.

Note: Casserole may be assembled and refrigerated ahead of time. Heat in preheated 350 degree oven, 25 - 30 minutes.

Easy Salad Stars Pasta

Busy weekends call for some all-around dishes that may be prepared in advance and will refrigerate well. Such an appealing snack that goes well with cold cuts, leftovers or serves as a meal in itself is an Easy Macaroni Carrot Salad. It takes little time to prepare. Addition of raisins and shredded carrots makes it colorful and provides a very special combination of flavors. To enjoy macaroni or any pasta at its best cook it only until tender, never to the mushy stage.

EASY MACARONI CARROT SALAD

- 3 cups elbow macaroni (12 ounces)
- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 4 to 5 quarts boiling water
- ¾ cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 pound carrots, shredded (about 2 cups)
- ½ cup dark seedless raisins
- Crisp lettuce leaves

Gradually add macaroni and 1½ tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender (7 to 10 minutes or as directed on package). Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.

Blend mayonnaise, lemon juice, water, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper in large bowl. Add macaroni, carrots and raisins. Toss lightly until combined. Cover and chill for several hours.

At serving time, toss lightly. If necessary, add a few tablespoons cold water. Toss again. Serve salad surrounded with lettuce leaves. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Mastering Chinese Art Of Vegetable Cookery

The Chinese do have a way with the cooking of vegetables. Whether American cooks can master the technique of undercooking so vegetables are crunchy and all the nutrients not cooked away remains a culinary question as more people attempt Chinese recipes. Stir frying brings vegetables to this tender, crunchy state. Especially good when prepared this way are celery, mushrooms, onions, thinly sliced carrots, summer squash, shredded cabbage and greens. There is a minute film of fat used and this helps seal in flavor and nutrients. Also, a little bit of water helps form a savory sauce and doesn't cook away as steam. For a nourishing, low-calorie dish try Celery-Mushroom Dynasty.

CELERY AND MUSHROOM DYNASTY

1 quart diagonally sliced celery
½ pound sliced fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons oil
1 cup chicken broth
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash ground red pepper
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water
¼ cup toasted sliced almonds

In a large skillet saute celery, mushrooms, onion and green pepper in oil for 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Combine and add broth, ginger, salt and red pepper. Bring to boiling point. Cover, reduce heat and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until celery is crisply tender. Remove vegetables to serving dish; keep warm. Mix cornstarch with water. Stir into broth in skillet. Cook until thickened. Spoon over celery mixture and sprinkle with almonds. Makes 6 portions.

Au Gratin French Fries

One of the few vegetables to remain relatively unchanged by new processing such as freeze drying or dehydration is the potato. Raw Idaho potatoes, for example, and the packaged instant potatoes are practically the same, except for the peel. Au gratin potato fanciers will enjoy trying a quick recipe using frozen French fries.

EASY AU GRATIN POTATOES

1 pound (or two 9 oz. packages) frozen French fried Idaho potatoes
1/3 cup each butter and flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 drops of Tabasco pepper sauce
Worcestershire sauce to taste
3 cups milk
½ pound process American cheese, shredded (about 2 cups)
¼ cup canned diced pimiento, if desired
2 tablespoons frozen or freeze-dried chives
Buttered bread crumbs for topping

Make cheese sauce by cooking together over low heat the butter and flour. Stir in milk. Cook, stirring all the while, until thickened and smooth. Add seasonings and the cheese, then pimiento and chives. Place half unthawed French fries in shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Cover with half the cheese sauce. Repeat. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs or buttered corn flake crumbs. Bake in a 400-degree oven for about 20 minutes or until crumbs are browned and potatoes are piping hot. Add cooked ham slices before baking, if desired. For a really speedy dish, use 2 cans Cheddar cheese soup, following can directions for cheese sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

(Note: package weights of frozen French fries vary. Check packages for weight. Use enough to make a little over a pound — 18 ounces or so. Plain or crinkle-cut may be used. Do not thaw.)

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Consumer Briefs

Special recipes are not always needed when adding nuts to the menu. For instance, you can add toasted nuts to creamed or saucy meat dishes or vegetables. Sour cream with nuts added is great on meat or baked potatoes, report U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists. For waffles, biscuits, or muffins, stir nuts into blended dry ingredients before adding liquid.

Baked potatoes, topped with butter or sour cream, are popular with practically everyone. Makes your mouth water just thinking about it. Do you know how to choose potatoes that will bake well? The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service says to look for reasonably smooth, well-shaped, firm potatoes free from blemishes and decay. Both the variety and the area where the potatoes are grown are important factors affecting their baking quality.

Cheese can be a luxury or an economical food depending on which cheese you choose, how it is packaged and how much you buy. Aged or sharp natural cheese usually costs more than mild cheese; imported often costs more than domestic and cubed or grated cheese may cost more than wedges or sticks.

Mediterranean Stew

Mediterranean Stew: A Columbus Day Discovery

Here's a real discovery — a robust meat-and-potatoes dish that can be fixed in just 15 minutes. It's called Mediterranean Stew and was developed to celebrate Columbus' historic voyage under the Spanish flag, 480 years ago, its lively Iberian flavor is highly appropriate. The classic dish is a long simmered affair but with modern convenience foods, this translation is both tasty and time saving.

A combination of ground beef, frozen peas and packaged scalloped potatoes complete with seasoning mix, the savory stew is a satisfying, low cost meal-in-one, perfect fare for cool autumn evenings.

Quick Hot Gazpacho is a fast-to-fix wintertime version of Spain's famous cold soup. An envelope of onion gravy mix added to tomato juice gives the soup body and a rich onion flavor. Served with crisp croutons, it's warming and delicious, great for lunch or as a first course at dinner.

MEDITERRANEAN STEW

2 slices bacon, chopped
½ pound ground beef
1 package (5 5/8-oz.) scalloped potatoes
4 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper, if desired
1 package (9-oz.) frozen peas
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped

Cook bacon and ground beef in large saucepan until beef browns. Stir in potato slices and seasoning mix from package of scalloped potatoes, water, salt, and pepper. Bring to a boil; simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Add peas; simmer 5 minutes longer. Garnish with chopped egg. 6 servings.

QUICK HOT GAZPACHO

1 green pepper, chopped
1 tablespoon oil
1 envelope (1-oz.) onion gravy mix
3 cups tomato juice
1 tablespoon vinegar
Croutons

Cook pepper in oil in saucepan for 5 minutes. Add contents of gravy mix envelope, tomato juice, and vinegar. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer 5 minutes. Serve with croutons. 6 servings.

Nutty Nuggets With Snack Appeal

When are doughnuts not just ordinary doughnuts? When they're Maple Walnut Doughnut Nuggets. These different doughnuts are plump and tender on the inside with plenty of crunchy walnuts and just a whiff of spice. Crisp and golden outside, they're topped with a shiny maple glaze to make a mouth-watering treat that's great for snacking with mugs of coffee or tea, or with a frosted soft drink. Equally delicious as an addition to a brunch menu, Maple Walnut Doughnut Nuggets make a good surprise item in the lunch box, too.

Baking recipes like this with California walnuts is one of the nicest ways to treat your family or friends. Teenagers also will enjoy making these delectables to serve when the gang comes calling. They can have a cracking good time if they start with in-the-shell walnuts.

Use an electric deepfat fryer or deep electric skillet to make the cooking of these walnut doughnuts both simple and safe. If you don't have such a fryer or skillet, use a deep saucepan, and by all means, a candy thermometer so you'll be sure of the correct frying temperature.

Part of the secret in preparing these Maple Walnut Dougnut Nuggets is to make them in small batches so you don't cool down the cooking fat too quickly. The walnuts then stay nice and crisp. If you have any walnuts leftover from the cracking session, be sure to store the kernels in a tightly sealed container in the main section of the refrigerator. Any shelled walnuts left in the clear film bags can be easily stored by simply resealing the bag with tape, then placing it in the refrigerator.

MAPLE WALNUT DOUGHNUT NUGGETS

½ cup California walnuts
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
¾ cup milk
Oil or shortening for frying, about 2 inches deep
Maple Glaze

Chop walnuts and set aside. Resift flour with baking powder, salt and mace or nutmeg. Combine shortening, sugar and egg, and beat until smooth. Add flour mixture and milk, and mix to a moderately stiff dough. Stir in walnuts. Heat oil or shortening to 375 degrees. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls into hot oil and fry until golden brown, about 3 minutes, turning frequently. Remove with a slotted spoon, and drain well on paper towels. When all doughnuts are cooked, dip one at a time into Maple Glaze. Allow excess to drip off, then place on wire rack set over a baking sheet, until glaze is set. Makes about 3½ dozen, about 1½ inches diameter.

Maple Glaze: Combine 1 pound sifted powdered sugar with 6 tablespoons boiling water and ½ teaspoon maple extract to make a thin smooth glaze. Add a few drops more water if glaze is too thick to coat doughnuts very lightly.

Centerpiece Canapes With Distinctive Flavor

Time-consuming hors d'oeuvres frequently aren't worth the extra preparation time — unless you know the trick of stretching your most alluring foods.

When serving a multitude of guests, the hostess should devote the most kitchen time to a "centerpiece" food, such as a canape with a very distinctive flavor. When enjoying distinctive tastes, guests usually sample two or three of the spotlighted foods, then turn to consuming blander or more conventional foods in quanitity.

Time spent decorating "Cottage Blue Canapes" is well worth the effort, for your centerpiece food will last longer. Delightfully garnished, the spicy canapes will draw accolades from guests, but they will not become a meal.

More likely, your guests will consume quantities of boiled, lemon-splashed shrimp, which requireed only minutes of your time to prepare in bulk. Add to your centerpiece by serving the first "round" of shrimp in tomato cups, called "Tomato Cocktails Blue." Provide a large bowl of shrimp for guests to dip all evening long — and perhaps an additional bowl of your favorite shrimp sauce.

COTTAGE-BLUE CANAPES

Cut day-old bread in party shapes: circles, triangles, rectangles, diamonds. Use white bread, rye, and wheat. Spread on cottage-blue mixture (to follow), then garnish sandwiches with original designs made from green and black olives, pimento, cherry tomatoes, capers, julienne carrots or string beans — and whatever else your imagination suggests. Designs can be stylized flowers (from sliced olive circles), or cherry tomato tulips, or abstract designs, perhaps dotted with capers.

Cottage-blue spread: Simply mix four parts small curd cottage cheese, creamed, with one part American blue cheese, crumbled. Blend well. Apply garnishes.

After designs are completed, you can glaze the sandwiches, if desired.

Glaze: Soften one packet unflavored gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water for three minutes. Add one and one-fourth cup hot bouillon, very lightly flavored. Set in refrigerator. When aspic thickens slightly, apply with spoon to design tops. Do not saturate bread. Keep in cool place, or refrigerate, until serving time.

TOMATO COCKTAILS BLUE

Slice tops off four large tomatoes. Scoop out interiors, reserving membrane. Use kitchen scissors to cut 6-8 points (depending upon size) in tomato. Chop left-over tomato bits and add, along with well-drained membrane, to one-half pint sour cream. Sprinkle in one-fourth cup American blue cheese (about 1½ ounces, crumbled). Blend well. Chill until serving time.

Assemble cocktails in sherbet or champagne glasses, starting with a ring of fresh parsley at the bottom of each glass. Next, place tomato shell in glass and fill shell with the tomato filling. Place one shrimp on glass rim between each tomato point. (Shrimp should be cooked well ahead of time and chilled. Just before adding to cocktail, squeeze fresh lemon over shrimp, if desired.)

Easy Dairy Hints

Here are several hints for successful storage of Cheddar cheese. Wrap the cheese tightly in aluminum foil, plastic wrap, or double thickness of waxed paper. Place it in the refrigerator; it should keep for several weeks.

It takes seven quarts of milk to make one gallon of ice cream . . . making this cool creamy treat one of the most nutritional fun-foods on the market.

Three tons of various cheeses were recently stolen from an Italian cheese factory. Perhaps the thieves were having a wine and cheese tasting party and they didn't want to get caught short.

Give hamburgers a Spanish flavor with this tasty topping. Blend one cup of smooth dairy sour cream with ½ cup shredded Brick cheese and ¼ cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives. Chill and serve as a tasty topping on 8 hamburgers.

An estimated 47 million Americans enjoy ice cream every day; and their "favorite" choice is still vanilla.

On the average, the American farmer produced enough food for 47 people last year — 40 at home and 7 abroad, reports the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Cheese is a great flavorizer in white sauces for casseroles, in scalloped dishes, or over cooked vegetables.

Be A Clean Cook

Cover saucepans whenever possible. Food will cook faster, and you'll save fuel.

When cooking on a surface burner, a high flame is seldom required for long. Use a low one when it will do just as well. And, since water boils at only one temperature, slow boiling or simmering in a covered pot produces better cooking results than fast boiling.

Don't take forever to preheat the oven; generally only 10 minutes is needed. For some dishes, such as certain casseroles, there's no need to preheat at all.

Use whatever cooking aids you can — a meat thermometer, a time and temperature chart — and avoid constantly opening and closing the oven door to check on the food. Trust your oven and you'll save fuel.

A ventilating hood over a range, and a fan turned on before cooking begins, will help remove grease-laden moisture before it settles on walls and ceiling.

If possible, use a splatter-mesh lid when frying, and promptly wipe all spills and splatters with a damp, detergent dipped cloth.

Swiss Fondue Bake Earns Rich Dividends

You can earn rich dividends from a realtively modest investment, if you take a tip from the Swiss. The Swiss are noted for their hospitality, their delectable cooking and baking. Yet many of their renowned dishes — particularly their cheese specialties — are based on non-costly ingredients.

Here is such a Swiss recipe you can bank on for savings — and interest — when you serve it at an entertainment instead of expensive delicacies or meat cuts. It's called Swiss Tuna Fondue Bake — and it is made with canned tuna, cheese, bread and milk. Certainly simple, nourishing, everyday fare. And certainly, as you will see, simple enough recipe methods for anyone to follow with ease. But what emerges from the casserole at serving time — and what greets the palate so tantalizingly at tasting time — is anything but simple.

SWISS TUNA FONDUE BAKE

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
¼ cup chopped scallions
¼ pound mushrooms, chopped, or 1 can (2 or 3 ounces) chopped mushrooms, drained
½ teaspoon dried dill weed
1 teaspoon salt, divided
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese, divided
1 cup (4 ounces) grated Parmesan cheese, divided
6 slices bread
6 eggs
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
2 cups milk

Flake tuna in a large bowl. Add scallions, mushrooms, dill, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup Swiss cheese, ½ cup Parmesan cheese and mix well. Butter a 2-quart baking dish. Trim crusts from bread. Place on the bottom of baking dish, cutting bread to fit. Spoon tuna mixture over bread. Beat eggs with remaining ½ teaspoon salt, dry mustard, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco and milk. Pour over tuna and sprinkle remaining 1 cup Swiss cheese and ½ cup Parmesan cheese over top. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. Leave at room temperature for ½ hour before baking. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in 350 degree oven for 1 hour or until tip of knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Garnish with lemon slices and dill. Yield: 6 servings.

Mrs. Jack Caldwell

Her Meals Are Keyed To Good Nutrition

by LOIS SEILER

The old adage, "If you want something done, ask a busy woman to do it," applies to Mrs. Jack Caldwell of Schaumburg.

In addition to working full time as a teacher's aid in special education for District 59, presiding as president of the new provisional League of Women Voters of Schaumburg-Hoffman Area and acting as a deacon of Church of the Cross, Pat Caldwell is dedicated to providing her family with nourishing meals.

Adelle Davis' book, "Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit," is always close at hand when she prepares a family meal, and even snacks for her children are geared to good nutrition.

"I incorporate her health hints in my recipes," Pat said, "as good nutrition makes good sense to me."

One recipe she adapted to make a high protein snack for her children's lunches and after-school snacks is Peanut Butter Cookies.

No matter how full her schedule, Pat can be found in the kitchen baking these cookies and carrying on League of Women Voters' business via the telephone and the convenience of a long cord that stretches to the oven.

And never does this capable homemaker bake a single recipe; she usually triples it, making enough for her family and perhaps a neighbor or for taking to church.

SHE USES NATURAL peanut butter in this recipe, which is not hydrogenated and which Adelle Davis claims is more healthful. As a substitution for the flour, Pat combines stone ground whole wheat flour and soya powder. All of these ingredients can be purchased in health food stores.

When baking a triple batch of these cookies, Pat has a regular assembly line going. While two trays of cookies bake in the oven, Pat drops the dough on foil sheets, which can be quickly transferred to the cookie sheets when a tray is removed from the oven.

They taste just like a conventional peanut butter cookie, and are enjoyed by her children, Ron, 13, and Julie, 11, as well as others who are unaware of the nutritional ingredients incorporated therein.

Both Pat and her husband, Jack, are natives of Texas, having grown up near Houston. They are fond of dishes indigenous to that area, and Pat likes to prepare these for guests.

Because shrimp, tomatoes and okra are plentiful in that region, Shrimp Gumbo, a combination of these ingredients, is a popular dish.

Pat acquired the recipe from her mother, and it is ideal for serving a group of 8 to 12. She likes it, too, because it can be made in one pot.

"I DON'T LIKE recipes that dirty a lot of dishes," Pat frankly admitted. "With this recipe there is little kitchen clutter, and the Gumbo is even better made a day ahead for the flavors to meld."

The shrimp gumbo is well-seasoned with onion, bay leaves, thyme and oregano. Served over rice, Pat accompanies it with hot rolls. She usually serves a mixed fruit appetizer first, and for dessert, a pecan pie.

The pie is also easy to make yet delightful to taste. The filling ingredients are mixed in one bowl, then turned into a pastry shell and baked. The pie is firm in texture and quite rich and delicious.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

½ cup margarine
½ cup natural peanut butter
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup stone ground whole wheat flour
½ cup soya powder

Cream together the margarine and peanut butter. Beat in the sugars, egg, vanilla, salt and baking powder. Add the whole wheat flour and soya powder and mix well.

Arrange by teaspoonsful on a cookie sheet and flatten with a fork. Bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Yield: 60 cookies.

SHRIMP GUMBO

4 tablespoons cooking oil
3 tablespoons flour
1 small can tomato paste
1 14½-ounce can stewed tomatoes
2 cans okra
3 large onions, chopped fine
3 bay leaves
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon oregano
Salt and pepper to taste
3 pounds medium shrimp, or more, shelled and deveined

Make a roux of oil and shortening. Stir in tomato paste. Add stewed tomatoes, okra, onions, herbs and seasonings. Pour in at least two quarts water, cover and cook for one hour. Let stand until it cools. (This should be the consistency of a medium soup.)

When ready to serve, add shrimp and cook until shrimp are done, about 30 minutes. Serve over cooked rice. Serves 8 to 12.

PECAN PIE

1 9-inch pastry shell
1 cup white corn syrup
½ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons lemon juice
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups pecans, broken in pieces

Combine corn syrup, sugar, salt, vanilla, lemon juice, eggs and pecans and beat with a spoon until mixed. Pour into pastry shell and bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for ten minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until filling is set. Serves 6.

Mostly For Men
by Charles Flynn

Ontario is famous for fishing, hunting, and the production of wine and cheese. It's also blessed with a great many old-fashioned cooks who prepare out-of-this-world pastries as we again discovered on a vacation jaunt into the provincial wilderness.

This being the time of the year when the frost is on the pumpkin, an appropriate recipe is Ottawa Valley pumpkin pie which can be made with either fresh cooked or canned pumpkin.

In a double boiler mix 1½ cups cooked or canned pumpkin, ½ cup white sugar, 1 tablespoon molasses, 2 slightly beaten eggs, 1 cup scalded milk, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, and ½ teaspoon salt.

Cook over medium heat until mixture becomes thick, stirring frequently. Cool slightly and pour into a 9-inch baked pie shell. This may be served warm or cold and dressed with whipped cream, if you like.

WITH APPLES IN plentiful supply, try Niagara Apple-Cheese Betty which is delightful. Combine 1½ cups shredded tangy cheese and 3 cups coarse bread crumbs. In another dish mix 1 teaspoon cinnamon with ¾ cup white sugar.

Peel, core and slice 6 tart apples. Grease a casserole or baking dish. Start with a layer of apples, then the sugar mixture, then crumbs. Make three layers, but before topping with the last if the crumbs, drizzle with ¼ cup cold water. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold, plain or with whipped or ice cream.

As a luncheon main dish or for canapes, this old Canadian recipe, dating back to 1847, makes quite a treat. Mix together 1 cup (¼ pound) grated sharp cheddar cheese, 2 slightly beaten egg yolks, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, a dash of pepper or paprika, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 6 tablespoons soft butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce.

Beat the cheese mixture until smooth. Toast 6 slices of bread, then cut off crusts. Spread each slice of toast with 3 tablespoons of the cheese mixture and broil until the cheese bubbles and begins to brown. Serve whole pieces for a luncheon or cut into fancy shapes for canapes.

Cook One Chicken, Enjoy Two Meals

In Pennsylvania Dutch Tradition

The Pennsylvania Dutch, descendants of the early settlers of Pennsylvania, are known for their thriftiness, hard work and good food. Also unique to the state is the growing of a creamy variety of mushroom. Here are two Pennsylvania Dutch recipes using this special mushroom.

For a thrifty start, to make both recipes, cook just one chicken. Use half the meat and broth to make a chicken-mushroom pot pie. Use the remaining half in a corn and mushroom soup.

The pot pie is a flavorful blend of chicken and mushrooms with white and sweet potatoes and lima beans cooked in the broth. The traditional "pot pies" or flat dumplings are used in place of a crust and are cooked right on top.

Mushroom corn soup also starts with the cooked chicken and the chicken broth. In place of dumplings it uses fine noodles. This soup is a meal in itself.

STEWED CHICKEN

1 ready-to-cook roasting chicken, about 4 pounds
2 quarts water
½ cup sliced celery
¼ cup celery leaves
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon saffron, optional

Place chicken in Dutch oven. Add remaining ingredients. Cover. Simmer over low heat until chicken is tender, about 1 - 1½ hours. Cool. Bone chicken. Divide meat and stock equally and use in the following recipes.

CHICKEN-MUSHROOM POT PIE

2 cups cooked chicken
4 cups chicken stock
2½ cups water
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 cups diced white potatoes
2 cups diced sweet potatoes
1½ cups quartered onions
1 package (10 oz.) fresh frozen lima beans
2 cans (3 oz. size) broiled in butter mushroom crowns, undrained
¼ cup chopped parsley
1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 tablespoon butter, softened
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons water

In Dutch oven combine chicken, stock, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt and vegetables. Bring to a boil and cook, covered, 15 minutes. Meanwhile, combine 1 cup flour, baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Blend in butter until texture of course corn meal. Stir egg and 2 tablespoons water into mixture until dough forms. Roll 1/8-inch thick on floured board. Cut into 2-inch squares. Mix together ¼ cup flour and ½ cup water until smooth. Stir into chicken mixture. Cook several minutes until thickened. Drop dough squares into hot liquid. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Makes 13 cups or 8 servings.

CHICKEN-MUSHROOM-CORN SOUP

2 cups cooked chicken
4 cups chicken stock
2 cans (3 oz. size) broiled in butter mushroom crowns, undrained
1 package (10 oz.) fresh frozen corn
1 cup water
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup very thin noodles
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, optional
1 tablespoon parsley

In Dutch oven combine chicken, stock, mushrooms and broth, corn, water, onion and salt. Bring to boil and add noodles. Cook, covered, 15 minutes until noodles are done. Stir in eggs and parsley. Makes 8 cups or 6 servings.

CHICKEN-MUSHROOM pot pie is a flavorful blend of chicken and mushrooms with white and sweet potatoes and lima beans cooked in the broth. To economize use half of the meat and broth from one chicken in the pot pie and the remaining half in a hearty corn and mushroom soup.

Franfare
by Fran Heckart

Imaginative cooks often use various seasoning ideas to give cooked frozen vegetables unusual and intriguing flavors. The following suggestions are favorites of country cooks compiled by the editors of the Farm Journal cookbook division.

To use any of the ideas, begin with the hot, cooked vegetable.

Dress broccoli with butter or cream sauce seasoned with a suggestion of curry powder. Or add chopped pimiento-stuffed olives to the cream sauce for added color and flavor.

Butter hot cauliflower or grean beans and scatter crisp, brown bread cubes on top. To fix the bread, cut either rye or white bread slices into tiny squares. Melt a small amount of butter in a skillet and add the bread. Cook, stirring to brown evenly. Season with salt and pepper.

Butter corn as usual but sprinkle with chili powder, garlic salt or both to add zest.

Saute ¼ cup cut-up almonds or cashew nuts and 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion in 2 to 3 tablespoons butter. Toss with 1 (10 ounce) package green beans, cooked. Or toss the hot beans, buttered, with thin strips of cooked ham just before serving. Boiled ham is especially good.

Add canned tomatoes and touch of oregano to lima beans. Heat piping hot. Or add 2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento, 1 tablespoon butter and ½ cup dairy sour cream to 2 cups cooked lima beans. Heat and season with salt and peper.

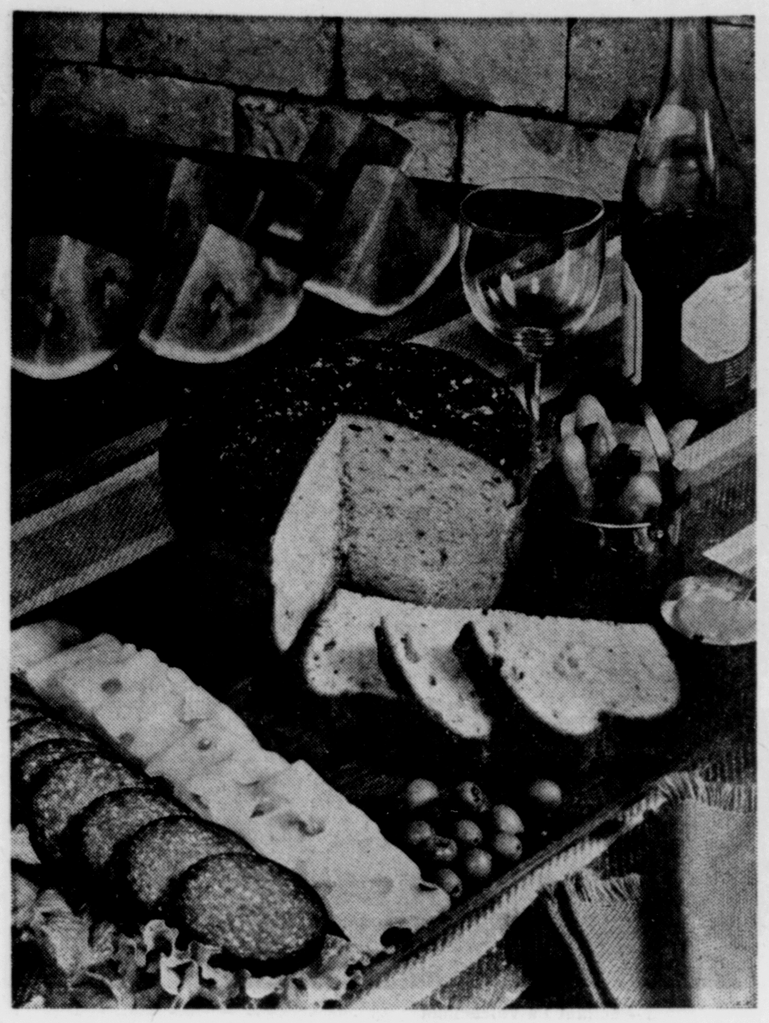
Stir finely chopped chives into the cream sauce before combining with peas. Or add 2 to 3 tablespoons mint jelly to the hot buttered peas.

To hot, drained, chopped and buttered spinach, add a little light cream pointed up with a dash of prepared horseradish. For company, garnish with seived or sliced hard-cooked egg. Or sprinkle buttered spinach with lemon juice and grated onion.

Add chopped pimiento and/or green pepper to hot, buttered succotash.

Fold a little grated orange peel into smashed sweet potatoes or squash. Or season cooked sweet potatoes with butter and maple syrup.

Top fresh tomato slices with American cheese and broil for a few minutes. Or saute green tomato slices in broiled steak drippings. Season with bread crumbs and salt and pepper.



Rye Casserole Bread

Easy-Do Version Of Deli Favorite

The art of baking has been revived. And, with the growing interest in natural foods, more people than ever are beginning their baking with natural whole grain flours.

Among the natural flours now available in local supermarkets are 1869 brand natural bread flours. These include unbleached white, whole wheat blend, rye blend, and corn blend. As most whole grain recipes call for a combination of flours, the latter three have been pre-blended with unbleached white flour for your convenience.

Home baking techniques, too, have changed. They've been simplified to your advantage and now most anyone can turn out loaves of bread with great success.

One shortcut is combining the dry yeast with other dry ingredients and then adding a warm liquid. This eliminates the step of dissolving yeast separately and assures top yeast performance.

Another change is using an electric mixer to begin mixing the dough. This helps develop the gluten and decreases the amount of kneading necessary. Still other recipes have been developed that require no kneading at all!

One such idea is Rye Casserole Bread, an easy-do version of the traditional delicatessen favorite. It's made with the new natural rye flour blend and is sparked with caraway for that just right flavor.

The dough is mixed, both by mixer and by hand, to form a stiff batter. There's no kneading involved. After the batter has risen, it is baked either in a casserole or loaf pan. When warm from the oven, brush with melted butter and spinkle with coarse salt.

RYE CASSEROLE BREAD

BREAD4¼ to 4½ cups unsifted medium rye flour blend
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon caraway seed, if desired
2 packages active dry yeast
1 cup water
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 eggs

Generously grease one 9x5-inch metal loaf pan, two 9x5-inch glass or smaller loaf pans, or 1½-quart deep round casserole.

Combine 2 cups flour, sugar, salt, caraway seed and yeast in large mixer bowl.

Heat water, milk, and cooking oil in saucepan over low heat until warm.

Add eggs and warm (not hot) liquid to flour mixture. Blend at lowest speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand stir in remaining 2¼-2½ cups flour to form a stiff batter. (Batter will follow spoon and leave sides of bowl.)

Cover dough; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, 30-45 minutes. Stir down dough; (beat vigorously 30 seconds) spoon into greased pan. Let rise again in warm place until light, 20-30 minutes covering the first 10 minutes of rising. (Batter will not have doubled.)

Bake in preheated 375-degree oven for 45 to 50 minutes. (30 to 35 minutes for two small loaves) until loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from pan immediately. Cool on wire rack. Brush with butter and sprinkle with coarse salt, if desired.

Note: To make rolls, spoon dough after risen once, by tablespoon into 24 greased muffin cups. Let rise as for bread uncovered during the second rise. Bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Ham, Pea Casserole Adds Flavor Variety

It's that time again. School activities are going ahead at full speed and the family's favorite chef is wracking her brain for meal variety. Always a good bet with busy youngsters is a hearty casserole. A ham-and-pea combination includes condensed cream of mushroom soup and canned deviled ham. Serve with chilled canned tomato wedges as a salad and milk to make it a nutritionally satisfying dinner.

HAMMY GREEN PEA CASSEROLE

2 (10 ounce) packages frozen green peas
1 (10½ ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 (4½ ounce) can deviled ham
4 tablespoons cornflake crumbs
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

Cook peas according to package directions and drain well. In mixing bowl, combine peas with soup. Pour half of peas into bottom of greased 1-quart casserole. Top with half of deviled ham. Repeat layers; combine cornflake crumbs and butter or margarine. Sprinkle on top of last deviled ham layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

From The Province Of Velencia

Authentic Version Of Paella

Outstanding among the many wonderful Spanish dishes is Paella. Almost every province has its own version, but Paella from Valencia is probably the most authentic. This is the province where rice grows. It also borders on the Mediterranean which supplies the clams and shrimp that are traditional to the dish. In this recipe, however, the clams are optional so you can make it any time of year.

Chicken is another typical ingredient, of course, colorful Spanish olives are a prerequisite for a superb paella. Vegetables vary from peas to asparagus to artichoke hearts. But always added is saffron — the yellow-orange seasoning that comes from the stamens of crocus. The best way to bring out the saffron flavor is by dissolving it in a little boiling water before combining it with other ingredients.

PAELLA A LA VALENCIANA

½ pound pork shoulder, cut in 2-inch cubes
2½ to 3-pound broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
¼ cup olive or salad oil
2 teaspoons salt
2 cloves garlic, halved
1½ cups uncooked rice
1 large onion, chopped
½ teaspoon saffron stamens
2¼ cups chicken stock or bouillon
4 tomatoes, quartered, or 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon crushed tarragon
¼ teaspoon crushed oregano
¾ cup halved, pimiento-stuffed olives
6 clams or mussels (optional)
½ pound uncooked shrimp, shelled and cleaned or 6 ounces frozen shrimp
1 package (10 ounces) frozen asparagus spears
1 package (10 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts

Brown pork and chicken in hot oil in large skillet or Dutch oven; sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt; add garlic. Cover and cook over low heat 30 minutes, or until meat is tender. Remove pork and chicken and set aside; discard garlic. Cook rice and onion in meat drippings over low heat, until opaque, stirring frequently. Stir saffron into a little boiling water to bring out flavor, add to rice along with chicken stock, tomatoes, remaining 1 teaspoon salt, seasonings and olives. Mix well and bring to a boil. Add clams, making sure they touch sides of pan so they cook through. Cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes. Mix in shrimp; top with chicken and meat, asparagus and artichokes. Cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes longer or until rice and vegetables are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Note: To make sure there's no sand in clams, scrub thoroughly under running water. Cover with cold water and sprinkle with ½ cup cornmeal. Let stand several hours to draw out remaining sand. Wash again in clear water.

CLAM-OLIVE DIP

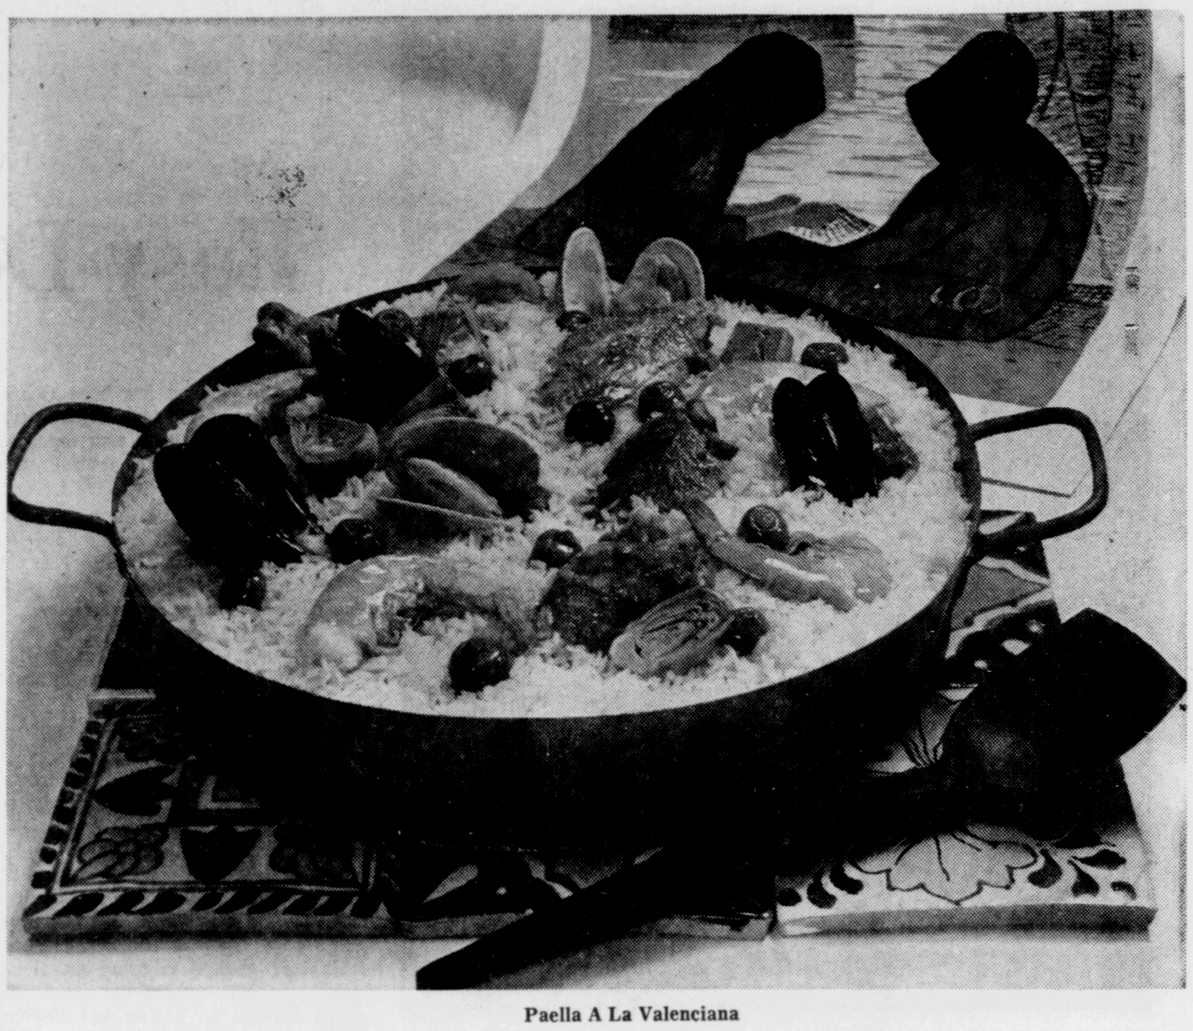
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 1/3 cups clam juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped chives
¼ cup finely chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
1/3 cup finely chopped celery
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Melt butter; blend in flour. Gradually add clam juice and lemon juice and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Chill. Serve as a dip with seafood. Makes about 1½ cups.



Paella A La Valenciana

Applesauce With Appeal

Applesauce, in addition to apple juice and fresh apples, is listed as a plentiful food by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for October: Try applesauce in all your meals. Serve a bowl of warm applesauce and a cookie for after school snacks and avoid the "empty foods" so many children fill up on.

Applesauce is a great choice for the budget-minded shopper, too. It's packed with vitamins and is an inexpensive way to see that your family is getting fruit in their diet.

Try making your own applesauce. Use any good firm cooking apple such as Grimes Golden or Stayman Winesap. Wash, core, pare and slice. Add to a small amount of boiling water, about 1/3 cup per two pounds of apples, cover, boil for 12 to 15 minutes or until apples are tender. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking. Remove from heat. For smooth sauce, put through a strainer or food mill. Add sugar to taste and mix well.

Homemade or purchased, applesauce goes with everything. Here are some recipes you can try — or use your imagination. Applesauce lends itself to any meal.

Apple Spice Muffins — Mix ¾ cup milk, 1 beaten egg, ¼ cup melted butter, and ½ cup applesauce. Mix 2 cups flour, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon cinnamon; stir in ¼ cup chopped raisins. Add liquid mixture and stir until most of the dry ingredients are moistened. Do not overmix; batter should be lumpy. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full. Bake at 400 degrees 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 12 muffins.

Apple Souffle — Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour; stir in ¼ cup milk and 1½ cups applesauce. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool.

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Grease a 1½ quart casserole. Blend 4 beaten egg yolks into applesauce mixture. Add 1/3 cup soft breadcrumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/3 cup sugar, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Fold in 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Pour into casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake 1 hour. Serve warm with sauce.

Sauce — Mix 1 teaspoon cornstarch and 1½ tablespoons sugar, add 2/3 cup apple juice. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Serve over souffle.

About 205 calories per serving.

This Lemon Chiffon Is Mellow And Sweet

This lemon chiffon pie combines the mellow and distinctive sweetness of molasses with lemonade concentrate.

By a new quick method with unflavored gelatine, the chiffon pie filling may be chilled to serving consistency in less than an hour.

The filling combines the unflavored gelatine with ice cubes rather than water, and also makes use of hard-frozen lemonade. Because of the action of the cold ingredients on the gelatine, the chilling process speeds up considerably.

The crust is made of crisp corn flake crumbs, and for a final touch, garnish with whipped cream and chocolate "curls" or sprigs of mint.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

Corn Flake Crust:

1 cup corn flake crumbs
1/3 cup butter
2 tablespoons sugar

Measure corn flake crumbs, butter and sugar into a 9-inch pie pan. Place in 350 degree oven, 5 minutes. Remove from oven and mix thoroughly. Press against bottom and sides of pan. Chill.

Molasses Chiffon Filling:

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup water
3 ice cubes equivalent to ½ cup water
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 can (6 ounces) hard frozen lemonade concentrate ½ cup unsulphured molasses
1 cup icy cold evaporated milk

Sprinkle gelatine on 1 cup of water in a 2½ quart saucepan to soften. Place over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine is dissolved, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in ice cubes, salt and molasses. Stir in concentrate. When the concentrate is melted, the mixture should be slightly thickened. Whip chilled evaporated milk in small bowl of electric mixer until soft peaks form, about 2 minutes. Fold into gelatine mixture. Turn into crumb crust; chill until firm.

Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

Note: To chill evaporated milk, pour into ice cube tray and freeze until soft ice crystals form around edge.

Clean Environment Reduces Pollution

Noise Pollution: Major appliances, like furnaces, refrigerators, and TV sets, can set up annoying vibrations that can drive you to distraction. Can the noise level in your home be reduced? You may find that you work more efficiently . . . and are more relaxed . . . with a little less noise.

Eliminate excessive humidity from your home and you'll eliminate a lot of indoor grease, dirt and discoloration. Adequate exhaust fans in the kitchen, bathroom and laundry will help a great deal.

The natural bleaching action of the sun over a long period of time may cause walls and fabrics to fade or take on a yellowish hue. Try to avoid exposing walls and furniture to direct, prolonged sunlight.

When cleaning, pay special attention to the areas around heat outlets and in warm areas, since tiny, invisible specks of lint, dust and particles tend to accumulate there and cause staining.

Keep all appliances clean and in tip-top shape. They'll operate more efficiently, last longer, and not waste energy.

From Genoa: Another Kind Of Hero

Genoa is a city of contrasts, from its colorful old waterfront — that looks like a movie set for the re-enactment of Columbus' embarkation for points west — to the new suburbs and incredible "greenhouse" fields stretched out over the foothills of the Ligurian Alps. And one of the most fascinating aspects of this lively port is the native cuisine, which is as distinctive and memorable as any you'll find in Italy.

The sea plays a dominant role in Genoese cookery — and vegetables lend solid support, blending in with many dishes, never more imaginatively than in Genoa's fabulous salad "hero," Cappon Magro. Created for meatless (magro) days, it consists of a bouquet of cooked vegetables and seafare, lavished with an aromatic, Genoese salad dressing, served forth on (or in) a crusty bread base.

The classic version calls for time-consuming layering of ingredients and sauce. In this modern Italian adaptation, you simply combine the seasoned, cooked vegetables with canned tuna in vegetable oil. Then, at serving time, you turn the mixture into a hollowed-out Italian loaf and dress it with the traditional salad-sauce made of olives, hard-cooked eggs, parsley and capers.

Next time you plan to have a group for lunch or supper — or any kind of informal bash, serve this king-sized Genoese Tuna Salad Hero. It makes for the kind of fabulous Italian feasting that would have prompted Columbus, himself, to wish you, "Buon appetito."

GENOESE TUNA SALAD HERO

- 4 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
- 1 can (1 pound) white potatoes, drained and chopped
- 1 can (15 ounces) artichoke hearts, drained and chopped
- 1 can (3 or 4 ounces) sliced mushrooms
- 1/3 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
- 1/3 cup chopped black olives
- 1 anchovy chopped
- 1/3 cup chopped carrot
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 1 cup chopped, cooked or canned green beans
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 large loaf Italian bread

Make A Date With A Muffin

When it's autumn and your patio's inviting, make a date with a muffin — a Tea Date Muffin. The topping for this royal English muffin is a deliciously different date and coconut mixture, cinnamon flavored . . . especially tasty with hot or iced tea.

Invite a friend or a neighbor, maybe one who's just moved in. What better way to welcome a newcomer and make a friend? Or gather a group — a volunteer committee, a book review club, a card party — and enjoy the lazy afternoon with the easy snacks.

Tea Date Muffins are a pleasant variation and quick to fix. After the muffin halves have been buttered and toasted, simply spread them with the date-coconut mixture given below and broil for a minute or two longer. The tasty topping can be whipped up any time at all, even after the new neighbor is summoned away from her unpacking chores!

TEA DATE MUFFINS

- 1 cup water
- 1 package (8 ounces) pitted dates
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- 1 package of 6 English muffins
- Butter or margarine

Combine water, dates, butter, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Heat and stir until dates are mashed and mixture is well blended. Fold in coconut.

Split muffins with a fork. Spread halves with butter and toast under broiler. Spread with date-coconut mixture. Broil for 1 or 2 minutes or longer. Serves 6.

Minestrone Is Not 'Just Vegetable Soup'

Minestrone basically is an Italian soup created by blending a variety of vegetables in a broth base. Although there are as many recipes for this filling soup as there are Italian cooks, it traditionally contains legumes such as white kidney beans and chick peas or garbanzos. Thus it has a solid amount of protein, enough to sustain a dieter. Every good minestrone also includes fresh vegetables for aroma and little meat. this is a good soup to make in large quantities and thus get the full flavor of all ingredients.

Since it freezes well, make a large batch and store in quart-size containers in the home freezer. For best eating results cook vegetables briefly before freezing and add briefly before freezing and add briefly cooked macaroni when the soup is reheated for serving. Label and date containers. Thaw a container of frozen soup in the refrigerator the night before if you know you want it the next day. It will thaw within one half to one hour when the container is placed in a pan of hot water. Reheat slowly since rapid heating tends to overcook some of the vegetables.

Homemade soups are something special and many can be frozen successfully. Pureed soups may separate a bit upon thawing. Beat quickly or put them in a blender to overcome this. Another excellent trick is to make a rich, concentrated chicken or beef soup stock, pour it into ice cube trays and freeze. Transfer "stock" cubes to a plastic bag, label and keep in freezer and use cubes as needed for soups, stews and casseroles.

MINESTRONE

- ¼ pound (5 strips) bacon, diced
- 1 cup chopped onions (about 2 medium)
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 cups chopped cabbage (¼ head)
- 1 cup chopped endive or escarole (4 leaves)
- 2 cups chopped celery with leaves (4 ribs)
- ½ cup chopped parsley
- 2 carrots, sliced thin (1 cup)
- 2 parsnips, sliced thin (2 cups or ½ pound)
- 2 zucchini or summer squash, diced (3 cups or 1 pound)
- 3 quarts water
- 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
- 2 cans (6 ounces each) tomato paste
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 4 teaspoons oregano
- 1½ teaspoon basil
- 1 can (20 ounces) white kidney beans
- 1 can (20 ounces) chick peas or garbanzos
- 2 cups (8 ounce elbow macaroni
- Grated Parmesan cheese

Cook bacon in large kettle long enough to render some fat. Add onion and garlic; cook until soft. Add remaining vegetables, water, tomatoes, tomato paste and seasonings. Stir and bring to boil; cover and simmer 30 minutes. Drain beans and chick peas, rinse and drain again. Add to soup and simmer 2 minutes longer.

To Freeze: Set pan in ice water and cool soup completely. Ladle into five 1-quart containers. Use plastic or glass or use milk cartons, top staple removed, washed with warm suds, rinsed thoroughly and dried. Fill nine-tenths full. Restaple tops of milk cartons or add lids (and freezer tape if needed) to other containers. Label and date. Minestrone can be frozen for 2 to 3 months.

To Serve: Thaw container of soup in pan of hot water (about 2 hours) to defrost, turn into saucepan and heat slowly. Meanwhile, for each quart of soup, cook a rounded 1/3 cup of macaroni in 1 pint boiling water with ½ teaspoon salt, 7 to 10 minutes, until tender. Drain and add to soup. Serve with grated cheese. Makes about 5½ quarts.

Shaker Style Tuna Garden Patties

The philosophy of the Shakers — sometimes known as the Shaking Quakers — dedicates the hands to work and the heart to God.

In the early days of our history, it was the gentle Sisters who were actually responsible for developing a distinctive style of American cookery with native foods. In their large, pleasant kitchens, surrounded by skillfully cultivated fields, they joyfully cooked and baked the three daily meals that were served to the whole community, at long tables. Happy was the visitor who was invited to break bread with them!

Their carefully recorded "receipts" show that the Shakers used a great deal of fish to provide sick-to-the-ribs substance in the dishes they created with the bounty of the land. Today, we know that fish has complete protein comparable to lean beef. This is one of the reasons why canned tuna is such a favorite main dish food in modern meals. It offers, in addition to its important nutrition (and low cholesterol qualities) virtues valued immeasurably by the Shakers: thrift, convenience and no leftovers.

A new recipe, which embodies the very kind of oldtime, delectable goodness for which Shaker cooks are famous, is Shaker-Style Tuna Garden Patties. However, the method of preparing them is quick, easy, "now."

To make the basic mixture is simply a matter of combining canned tuna in vegetable oil, blender-pureed vegetables, soy bean granules, peanuts and a few other ingredients. Next, the mixture is shaped and cereal-coated. Then it is skillet-cooked. And, when done, the light-textured tuna patties come to the table accompanied by a fragrant, creamy celery sauce that enhances their fresh-from-the-garden-flavor beautifully.

SHAKER STYLE TUNA GARDEN PATTIES

Tuna mixture
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 cups chopped fresh green beans
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 clove garlic
- ½ cup dry-roasted peanuts
- 2 eggs
- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
- ½ cup soy bean granules
- 1 teaspoon coarse salt
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco

Coating mixture:
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 cup soy bean granules
- 1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Melt butter in skillet: add onion, beans, and celery. Cover and cook over low heat 15 minutes or until vegetables are limp. Place vegetable mixture in container of electric blender, add garlic, peanuts, and eggs. Cover and process at medium speed until pureed. Flake tuna in large bowl. Add vegetable puree, soy bean granules, salt, parsley, basil and Tabasco. For coating, beat together eggs and milk in small bowl or shallow dish. In another, mix together soy bean granules and basil. Form tuna mixture into 6 patties. (The mixture will be very soft.) Dip first into egg mixture, then into soy bean granules mixture. Melt butter in skillet. Add tuna patties and cook until browned, turning once. Serve with Celery Sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

CELERY SAUCE
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 2 cups shredded or finely chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1½ teaspoons coarse salt
- ¼ cup chopped celery leaves
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf basil

Melt butter in medium saucepan. Add onion and celery; cook until tender. Blend in flour, remove from heat and stir in milk and chicken broth. Return to heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add remaining ingredients and heat. Yield: 1¾ cups sauce.

Milk In Minutes

Today's dairy farmer spends half as much time with each cow and gets twice as much milk per animal than he did in 1922. It takes the average farmer only 48 minutes to get 100 pounds of milk.

A Precious Resource Conserve Water . . .

Keep a bottle of drinking water in the refrigerator, instead of letting the tap run until the water gets cold.

Fix all leaky faucets. A leak of just one drop per second adds up to about 650 gallons a year. And if it's hot water that's leaking, you're wasting the energy that heats the water as well.

Use your dishwasher for storage until you have a full load; then let the water flow and do the job all at once. You'll get maximum use of the machine, save on detergent, use a minimum of hot water, and help conserve the energy source that heats the water and powers the machine. Same goes for your clothes washer and dryer.

If you wash dishes by hand, use a dishpan or sink stopper. Washing every single plate and knife individually under constantly running water is wasteful.

A shower uses less water than a bath, and saves on the fuel that heats the water.

Molasses And Green Apples In Smoky Mountain Stack Cake

Americans are looking to their past in search of delicious dishes made with natural foods.

In the great Smoky Mountain chain between North Carolina and Tennessee, there is a fine folk dish called Smoky Mountain Stack Cake. It's a five layer cake with Spiced Applesauce filling, and it's made with natural foods — unsulphured molasses and tangy, fresh green apples.

The molasses flavor permeates the cake batter with mellow, old-fashioned goodness. As for the filling, apples and molasses go together like sunbonnets and calico, a perfect pairing.

Stack cake layers are baked for only 15 to 20 minutes because they are thin. If you don't have five layer cake pans on hand, the layers can be baked two or three at a time. You make the Spiced Applesauce filling from scratch with fresh apples, so everything that goes into this fabulous recipe is as close to nature as you can get. Whipped cream tops off this hearty cake from early America.

Before serving, Stack Cake is chilled to "set" the layers and make the cake easier to cut. Serve it as a dessert or supper snack and see for yourself why Smoky Mountain Stack Jake became such a delicious tradition.

SMOKY MOUNTAIN STACK CAKE

4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
¾ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup unsulphured molasses
3 eggs
1 cup milk
Spiced Applesauce
Confectioners' sugar

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda. Cream together butter and sugar. Blend in molasses, then beat in eggs, one at a time. Alternately blend in flour mixture and milk. Spoon into five greased 9-inch layer cake pans, allowing about 1 cup batter per pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks. Stack cake layers, spreading 1 to 1½ cups Spiced Applesauce between layers. Chill several hours. Top with whipped cream and cut into wedges to serve. Yield: 16 servings.

SPICED APPLESAUCE

10 greening apples
1 cup water
6 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Cut apples in pieces; do not pare or core. Place in kettle, and add water. Cover and simmer until apples are tender, about 40 minutes. Put cooked apples through a sieve or food mill. Return applesauce to kettle and discard skins and seeds. Add molasses and remaining ingredients and cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Cool.

Note: If 5 layer cake pans are not available, the cake layers may be baked 2 or 3 at a time.

Vanilla Enhances Fruits Of Fall

Just as salt is an enhancer of other foods while remaining practically indiscernible itself, a bit of vanilla can give super-delicious bouquet to a fruit flan, pudding, ice or compote. Cooked fruits especially need that hint of vanilla to build up any fragrance they've lost during preparation.

An an example of how pure vanilla extract can intensify flavors, do try this recipe for Vanilla Apples on Rice Custard.

VANILLA POACHED APPLES ON RICE CUSTARD

3 cups milk
1¼ cups quick-cooking rice
2 eggs, beaten
1/3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
¼ cup sliced glace cherries
Vanilla Poached Apples
¼ cup sliced blanched almonds

In a medium saucepan heat milk just to boiling point. Stir in rice; cover. Remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes. In a small mixing bowl beat eggs with sugar and salt until thick. Stir into rice mixture. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, for 10 minutes or until mixture thickens. Stir in vanilla extract. Turn into a buttered 9x6x2-inch baking dish. Top with cherries and Vanilla Poached Apples. Sprinkle almonds over apples. Baste with 2 tablespoons of the apple syrup. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated slow oven (300 degrees) for 30 minutes. Serve warm with syrup from poached apples. Yield: 8 portions.

VANILLA POACHED APPLES

4 large tart cooking apples
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1/8 teaspoon salt

Peel, quarter and core apples. In a medium saucepan, combine remaining ingredients. Bring to boiling point. Add apples. Cover, reduce heat and cook 10 minutes or until apples are almost tender. Lift out of syrup and place over rice mixture. Reserve syrup to use when baking custard and as a sauce when serfing. Yield: Sufficient apple topping for Vanilla Rice Custard.

Household Hints

While serving dinner, let pots, pans, casserole dishes, or any other utensils which have baked-on stains, soak in a sinkful of sudsy hot water. When it comes time to do the dishes, the hardest job still becomes the easiest because you thought ahead.

One-half pound of cheese has as much protein content as a pound of steak.

Of women who hold full time jobs, 67 per cent usually frequent one particular supermarket, according to a Bureau of Advertising report. This compares with 56 per cent of the stay-at-home women who usually go to one particular supermarket.

HOT SHOPPES CAFETERIAS: GOOD FOOD AT PRICES YOU CAN SWALLOW.

Baked flounder, smothered with lemon butter sauce and parsley. A crisp garden salad with your choice of dressing. And for dessert—cherry delight, plus a steaming, hot cup of coffee.

All for less than $2.

Surprised? Well, prices like these are just one of the surprises you're in for, when you treat yourself and your family to dinner at the Hot Shoppes Cafeteria at Woodfield or Lakehurst Mall. A family of three can sit down to a hearty dinner for less than $6. One that will be nutritious and well balanced besides.

But there'll be even more surprises. Rich carpeting. Quiet lighting. Tasteful table settings. And something we're mighty proud of. An array of good food. The kind you don't usually find in a cafeteria.

And even if you don't like cafeterias, we'd like you to give us a try. We think you'll enjoy the food. And the reasonable prices.

Bake A Round Cake In Square Pan

The word torte is descended from both Italian and Latin meaning "round loaf of bread." According to Webster it now describes "a cake made of many eggs, sugar . . . usually covered with a rich frosting." To anybody contemplating eating one, it is usually wickedly sweet and fattening!

This contemporary Orange Torte is neither round nor too sweet and fattening. What really makes it "today" is the use of convenience products in the recipe. A packaged cake mix is the foundation, packaged pudding the filling, and melted semi-sweet chocolate pieces the glaze. One of the best, most versatile convenience products is frozen orange juice concentrate. A whole six-ounce can of concentrate, thawed and undiluted, gives richer, tart-sweet flavor to the creamy filling and shiny glaze.

Because of its square shape, this dessert will serve from twelve to sixteen people, depending on how you slice it. Should you prefer your torte in the round, you can bake the cake mix in 8 or 9-inch layer pans, following time and temperature directions given on the package.

ORANGE TORTE

- 1 package (18½ or 19 ounces) yellow cake mix
- 2 packages (3¼ ounces each) vanilla pudding and pie filling
- 1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
- ½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 tablespoon light corn syrup

Cake:

Prepare cake mix according to package mixing directions. Bake in 2 greased and floured 8-inch square pans at 350 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes, remove from pan and finish cooling on racks.

Filling:

Measure out 2 tablespoons orange juice concentrate; set aside for glaze. To the remaining concentrate add water to make 3 cups reconstituted orange juice. Empty contents of pudding packages into saucepan. Add orange juice, stirring to blend. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a full boil. Place wax paper directly on pudding while cooling. Refrigerate several hours. Remove paper and stir briefly before filling cake.

Chocolate-Orange Glaze:

Melt semi-sweet chocolate pieces over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from water. Stir in until smooth, the light corn syrup and reserved orange concentrate.

To Assemble Torte:

Cut each square layer into half horizontally. Place 1 layer on serving plate and top with one cup of the orange pudding filling. Repeat with the other two layers. Spread Chocolate-Orange Glaze over the top of cake. Store in refrigerator. Yield: approximately 12 to 16 servings.

Consumer Tips

When buying tuna, read the label and save money. The kind of meat and style of pack affect the price of canned tuna. "Light meat" tuna costs less than the "white meat" tuna. In descending order of price, packs are fancy or solid, chunk, flake or grated.

To save time while cooking, remove cooked meat from the bone in large pieces. Package and label for intended use — for example, large firm pieces for slicing for dinner, smaller pieces for sandwiches, bits for casserole, etc.

For a refreshing fruit cup, fill half a cantaloupe with canned or fresh fruit cocktail and squeeze lime or lemon juice over it.

New Ideas For Walnuts

HOMEMADE WALNUT brittle is easy to make. Boil together one cup granulated sugar, 1/3 cup water, pinch each of salt and cream of tartar to the hard crack stage. Pour over one cup of chopped California walnuts in a buttered, shallow pan. Cool and crush. Sprinkle generously over swirls of whipped cream on your pumpkin pie. Equally good folded into whipped cream and used as a frosting for an angel food cake. Or layer with ice cream for parfait servings.

FRESH PUMPKIN, so available at this time of year, readily disappears in recipes for pie, cake, cookies, muffins . . even soup! Enhance your pumpkin products further by including California walnuts, toasted or plain, chopped or halves, in your recipes. A quick rule of thumb: add ½ cup California walnuts for every 2 cups flour.

NO NEED TO omit dessert because time is scarce. Dress up thick slices of pound cake (from the bakery or made ahead from a mix) by spreading each slice with butter then covering with a sprinkle of chopped California walnuts, brown sugar and finely grated lemon rind. Run under the broiler for one to two minutes.
